AGENCIES PICKETED — Carrying signs imploring an end to secret meetings, pickets — youngsters and adults alike — paraded today outside the offices of the Marin County Housing Authority and Marin County Redevelopment Agency (rear) in Marin City. The changing group, which also decried the lack of redevelopment in Marin City, assembled as both agencies came under fire from the county human rights commission and the district attorney's office said it was investigating the housing authority's unannounced sessions.

Two County Agencies Under Fire

Housing, Redevelopment Grand Jury Probe Sought

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County's housing authority and redevelopment agency were caught in a cross-fire of complaint and suspicion today, serving as targets of a call for a grand jury investigation, picketing by distressed residents of Marin City and an announcement that an investigation is under way by the Marin County District Attorney's office.

The various actions, taken independently of each other, centered on a series of meetings held by the two organizations, both led by Executive Director Wallace K. Shepherd.

At the heart of the controversy, as it was pinpointed today by Marin City residents, were holding special meetings without public notice and holding away from Marin City meetings dealing with the futureof Marin City.

A Marin County human rights commissioner today called for a grand jury investigation of unannounced meetings of the housing authority board.

Thelma McKinney, newly appointed commissioner, told the Independent-Journal she has requested a special meeting of the human rights commission to act on her call for investigation.

Epen as she was making that announcement, Marin City residents — saying they are "sick and tired of being misused" — picketed the housing authority and redevelopment agency offices in protest of secret meetings.

According to a spokesman for the group, Lee Vella Bland of Marin City, the protest action was decided at last night's meeting of the Marin City Council.

Chanting "No more secret meetings," the picketing group,

Reds Pour Fire Into DMZ Bases

SAIGON (UPI)—North Vietnamese gunners firing longrange 130mmartillery for the first time in nearly twg months poured heavy rockets and mortars into two South Vietnamese firebases near the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) today in the third consecutive day of their renewed assault against the DMZ defense line.

Military sources said 12 South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded at Firebase Alpha 2 near the intersection of Highway 1 and the DMZ's southern boundary but did not cause damage at Alpha 1 a mile south of the DMZ along the coast.

The sources said many of the 150 rounds fell outside the fortifications at both bases.

"I think the Communists are planning something big, but I'm not sure what it is," a Vietnamese spokesman said in Saigon. "I don't think they have the capability for a fullscale offensive against the DMZ. What they might do is concentrate attacks on a few of the bases."

Field reports said about 10 122mm rockets were fired at Fire Base Charlie 1, southwest of Alpha 2, early this morning, and a ground attack was launched at Cam Lo, where there is a district headquarters compound with U.S. advisers in it. There were no reports on casualties at either place.

The Communists shattered a seven week lull in operations against the DMZ line Wednesday when they shelled Camp Fuller at the northwest corner of the line. From Fuller, the line runs 25 miles east to the coast and 10 miles south across the Cam Lo and Quang Tri river valleys. It was built to halt Communist infiltration from the north.

Jordan, Syria Fighting; Egypt Renews War Talk

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

Syria reported a new tank and artillery battle with Jordanian forces along the Jordanian frontier today, and there were hints from Egypt that its unofficial cease-fire agreement with Israel along the Suez Canal might be allowed to expire on Sunday.

Syria broke diplomatic relations with Jordan Thursday after a border tank battle in which Jordan said it destroyed five tanks, apparently those of a Palestine guerrilla group based in Syria. Syria said five Jordanian tanks were destroyed in an hour and 35 minutes fight today.

Reports of new fighting were carried by Egypt's semiofficial Middle East News Agency quoting a military spokesman in Damascus.

In Cairo, the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahram said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had set Sunday as the deadline for U.S. efforts to achieve an interim Middle East peace settlement and is once again talking of war with Israel.

The AKL Ahram report said Sadat had set the Sunday deadline in an exchange of messages with Preyident Nixon. Western diplomats in Cairo said they were not taking the deadline very seriously, UPI correspondent Nat Gibson reported from Cairo.

No indication was made that Egypt would start shooting once the deadline lapsed. There has been an unofficial truce at the Suez Canal since the ceasefire of Aug. 7, 1970 technically expired March 7.

In Tel Aviv, diplomatic sources said Egypt appeared to be stepping up the war of words in the Middle East to wring concessions from Israel. Sadat was quoted as saying Thursday Egypt is determined to go to war against Israel to win back the territory it lost in the 1967 Middle East War.

The diplomats said such statements and reports of the Sunday deadline apparently were aimed at putting pressure on both Israel and the United States to make concessions. But they said Israeli officials had not ruled out the possibility of new fighting.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a Labor Party meeting Thursday it was an illusion to believe the present truce, now in its second year, could continue without some signs of political progress.

There was no immediate confirmation from Amman of new fighting.

After the Thursday tank battle Syria severed diplomatic relations with Jordan and banned Jordan's planes from Syrian air space.

Jordan said today it was "surprised" Syria severed relations with Amman and termed the move "regrettable" because it "harms Arab efforts to liberate occupied lands. The Jordanian government hopes

Northern Ireland Rejects Call For Government To Step Down

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Prime Minister Brian Faulkner said today his government would no longer deal with the government of Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic.

"No further attempt by us to deal with the present Dublin government is possible," Faulkner told a news conference.

Faulkner denounced Lynch for calling for a new government in Northern Ireland and accused him of backing the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA) in seeking the downfall of Faulkner's administration.

Political sources said they expected the IRA, hit by a roundup and internment without trial of extremist suspects Monday and by casualties which security sources estimated eliminated up to 70 per cent of its leadership, might now switch tactics.

The sources said street gunmen might now concentrate on picking off selected targets, possibly in a "selective assassination" campaign.

Northern Ireland has held the IRA largely responsible for five days of street fighting that has killed 25 persons, wounded scores more and left areas of Belfast and other cities a burned out shambles.

"Indeed, Mr. Lynch now clearly commits himself and his government to support by political means what the IRA seeks to achieve by violent means—the overthrow of the Northern Ireland government," Faulkner said.

Faulkner said the IRA had a "safe haven" in the Irish Republic.

His comments followed a preliminary statement rejecting Lynch's demand that he abolish his government.

In London, British Prime Minister Edward Heath, Home Secretary Reginald Maudling and Defense Secretary Lord Carrington studied the implication of the Lynch statement, government sources said.

The sources said the Lynch statement ruled out for the present any prospect of a meeting by Heath, Lynch and Faulkner, although the British government was expected to issue no public reply to Lynch.

Faulkner addressed some remarks to Northern Ireland's Roman Catholic minority in his news conference.

"Mr. Lynch's blatant attempt to use you as a political pawn will not deter me in any way from my determination to ensure a full part in our affairs for all who are prepared to accept their responsibilities as

Tamaras Is Cleared Of Illegal Sale

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco Supervisor Peter A. Tamaras was cleared yesterday by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District of any conflict of interest.

The district's one-day investigation of a possible conflict of interest came after the Independent-Journal reported Wednesday that the Tamaras family firm had sold janitorial supplies for use by the district.

State law prohibits public officials from directly or indirectly selling supplies to a contractor with an agency of which they are an official. Tamaras is a director of the district.

The district's attorney, Matthew S. Walker, investigated the sales and concluded in a letter to Tamaras that "the investigation disclosed no wrongful intent on the part of Peter Tamaras, Tamaras Supply Co. or Gar-Dan Janitorial Service."

Gar-Dan provides the district's janitorial service, and ordered the supplies from Tamaras Supply Co. for direct delivery to district offices. Tamaras had been unaware of the placement of the two orders by Gar-Dan, according to his statement to Walker.

Walker's letter said the cost of the two deliveries of toilet tissue and hand towels came to $116, and that no indication of any other such sale was found in a check of district records over the past fiscal year. The attorney said no check was made of records at the Tamaras company, although Tamaras had offered to open the company records to his inspection.

Walker also noted that Tamaras had canceled all further orders by Gar-Dan.

His letter advised Tamaras that "the matter has been closed."

Gar-Dan, which has an unlisted telephone, is based in the South San Fraccisco home of the company's owner, G.T. Cruise. The company also has no business license, according to the South San Francisco city clerk's office.

Consumer Group Asks Ban On Dangerous Chemicals

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y. (UPI)—Charging that the federal government has "sat on its hands while children died," a consumer group today called for an immediate ban on dangerous chemicals not essential to the efficiency of common household products.

The Consumers Union, a nonprofit consumer information agency, said "children are killed needlessly every year" by swallowing household products containing dangerous chemicals.

In an article in the September issue of its Consumer Reports magazine, the group cited petroleum-based furniture polishes, liquid drain cleaners and dishwasher detergents made with soda ash as "particularly hazardous."

The article said the federal government's Food and Drug Administration, under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, used only a "timid" exercise of its authority in setting product standards and banning offenders from the market.

Among the brand names mentioned in the article were Old English Furniture and Scratch Cover Polish, Electrasol and Finish dishwashing compounds and the Liquid-Plumber drain cleaner.

The article said eight deaths from the ingestion of furniture polish were reported in Illinois between 1966 and 1969. In 1968, the most recent year for which national statistics are available, 178 children under the age of five were hospitalized after ingesting household polishes, the article added.

The consumer group called on HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson to:

—"Immediately ban all petroleum-based liquid furniture polishes;

—"Immediately order off the market" the Electrasol and Finish dishwashing products.

—"Ban liquid drain cleaners or require all of them to be sold in child-resistant packaging." The magazine said its tests have shown that "the world could live quite well without liquid drain cleaners. All but the most stubborn drain blockages under the kitchen sink will probably yield to hot water."

The report also condemned manufacturers for not displaying warnings on labels, for disguising dangerous ingredients with fruit-flavored scents and for not using packages that are difficult for children to open.

A spokesman for Economics Laboratory of St. Paul, Minn., manufacturer of Electrasol and Finish, called the article "irresponsible." He said the magazine was "singling out one company's products and trying them in the press." He said the products relied on soda ash to eliminate a high content of phosphate which has been cited as an environmental hazard.

A spokesman for the Clorox Company of Oakland, Calif., which makes Liquid-Plumber, said the product had been revised by the company last November and now contained less than 6 per cent potassium hydroxide. Federal regulations set a maximum level of 10 per cent.

Welfare, Medi-Cal Reforms Now Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed into law an historic overhaul of the state's public assistance system and declared an end to welfare as a major political issue in California.

The legislation, designed to apply the brakes to runaway welfare and Medi-Cal health care costs, will become operative Oct. 1—too late, the governor says, to avoid a state tax increase this year—and affect 2.5 million low-income Californians on relief.

The compromise, the product of delicate negotiations between Reagan and legislative leaders, basically will make it tougher to get and stay on welfare, clamp down on fraud, require recipients to pay token fees for their health care and eliminate unnecessary services.

Ironically, much of the legislation conforms to President Nixon's proposed welfare reform plan, which Reagan opposes as too liberal because of a guaranteed minimum income feature.

Reagan had established reform of welfare and Medi-Cal as his No. 1 priority this year, describing the two programs as "cancer eating at our vitals."

"We didn't get all we wanted," Reagan acknowledged to newsmen Thursday as the final bill — Medi-Cal — was passed to his desk from the Assembly. He added "perhaps next session" more reforms will be enacted.

But the Republican governor,

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Laotian Optimism

VIENTIANE (UPI)—Premier Souvanna Phouma said today he was optimistic that President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Communist China could bring peace to Indochina.

"It is difficult to foresee the results of the meeting," he said in an interview with UPI. "Much depends on what agreement is reached between President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai. If they agree on peace for Vietnam, we will have peace in Laos."

Asked for his assessment of the prospects for peace he replied, "I am optimistic."

Nixon has said he would visit Peking sometime before May, 1972.

Maltese Rumors

LONDON (UPI)—Britain and its NATO allied offered Malta a new financial deal to maintain defense facilities on the strategic Mediterranean island and keep the Russians out of it, government sources said today.

The package, offered to Socialist Premier Dom Mintoff involves an increased British financial contribution and outright economic aid from NATO, the sources said.

While officials maintained silence so far on the response from Mintoff, first indications suggested that the offer failed to please the Maltese premier who reportedly sought a British financial commitment about six times the amount so far received from Britain.

The package, officials said offers in concrete terms $20.4 million annually for continued use of the island by warships and planes.

Heart Man Joking

DETROIT (UPI) — Twenty-eight hours after Haskell Shanks had a cigar-shaped partial mechanical heart permanently sewn into his body, he was joking with his nurses.

In his last report of the day Thursday on the 63-year-old plant guard's condition, Sinai Hospital said Shanks was intermittently using a respirator, but his "vital signs remain stable. He is cheerful and joking with the nurses."

Doctors who spent five hours Wednesday sewing a "patch booster" into Shanks' aorta were "elated over his condition," the hospital said.

The "patch booster" is a six-inch partial mechanical heart made of dacron and silicone and is the first mechanical heart device ever designed for permanent use within the body.

China-Israel Talk

HONG KONG (UPI)—Communist China denied reports today that it was making contact with Israel to establish diplomatic relations.

"Of late, certain Israeli and Western newspapers repeatedly spread the fabrication that 'contacts' were underway between Israel and the People's Republic of China on the 'establishment of diplomatic relations,' " the People's Daily said.

"Obviously, such lies were deliberately fabricated by persons with ulterior motives to confuse the hoodwinked public opinion," the official newspaper of the Chinese Communist party said.

Ellsberg Inspiration

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Daniel Ellsberg told the Southern Christian Leadership conference its founder, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., inspired him to violate "an immoral law regulating an immoral war."

King's example of "putting your body on the line and speaking to the conscience of your fellow Americans," Ellsberg said, inspired him to make the Pentagon papers public.

Last 4 Rows Of Bus For Smoking

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Instead of a total ban on smoking aboard interurban buses, the State Public Utilities Commission Thursday limited legalized puffing to the last four rows.

"The elimination of cigarette smoke as an inconvenience to nonsmokers is not an adequate reason to adopt a smoking regulation which may cause a substantial reduction in passenger stage revenues," the agency ruled.

MOON'S GEOLOGIST — Geologist-Astronaut Harrison H. Schmitt (left) last night was named to the Apollo moon-landing program's final mission, which will make him the first scientist to land on the moon. He will join veteran spaceman Eugene A. Cernan (center) and a space rookie, Ronald E. Evans (right) for the December, 1972, mission. Their flight will follow Apollo 16, now slated to fly to the moon in March 1972. (UPI Telephotos)

APOLLO FINALE

First Scientist Named To Land On The Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Geologist-astronaut Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, who only last week expressed doubts he would ever fly a lunar mission, has been named by the U.S. space agency to become the first scientist on the moon.

The crew that brought Apollo 15 back, David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin, turned today to briefing the final two moon flight teams on what to expect when they set out next year.

Apollo 16 astronauts John W. Young, Thomas K. Mattingly and Charles M. Duke are scheduled to go to the moon's Central Highlands next March. And the space agency announced Thursday night that geologist-astronaut Harrison H. Schmitt has been assigned to the Apollo 17 crew along with Fugene A. Cernan as commander and Ronald E. Evans as orbital pilot for the December, 1972, mission.

Manned Spacecraft Center spokesman John McLeaish said Schmitt and Cernan, a veteran of two previous space flights and commander of Apollo 17, will spend three days exploring the lunar surface. Evans will remain alone in lunar orbit while they are on the moon.

Although the space agency did not announce a target for Apollo 17, informed sources said Schmitt and Cernan probably would become the first men to land inside a crater.

The most likely landing site, agency sources said, is the Crater Alphonsus — an ancient feature gouged from almost exactly the center of the moon's face as seen from Earth. Scientists expect the astronauts to find within the deep walls of the crater some of the oldest rocks on the moon and perhaps some extinct volcanoes.

Scientists have long urged the space agency to name Schmitt, the only geologist in the astronaut corps, to a moon crew. Apollo 17 marked the agency's last chance to do this.

Only a few hours before Schmitt's selection was made public Dr. Paul Gast, chief of lunar science at the Space Center, said "it would be quite disappointing if the one real geologist who was able to fly to the moon does not have the opportunity."

But last week, in a news conference during Apollo 15, Schmitt said because budget cutbacks had eliminated Apollos 18-20 from the moon landing schedule "the chances of any scientist going to the moon are probably fairly small."

"Had the cutbacks not occured," he said, "I think the chances of me flying to the moon would have been excellent. Right now, I don't know what they are."

Schmitt, 36, was born in Santa Rita, N.M., and received a doctorate in geology from Harvard in 1964. He was a Fulbright scholar and worked with the U.S. Geological Survey's astrogeology branch in Flagstaff, Ariz., before joining the astronaut corps in 1965.

Cernan, 39, a navy captain from Chicago, orbited the Earth in 1966 aboard Gemini 9 and walked in space for 2 hours 8 minutes. He made his second space flight aboard Apollo 10 in 1969, swooping to within 10 miles of the moon without landing there.

Evans, 37, joined the astronaut corps in 1966 after serving as a navy fighter pilot. A native of St. Francis, Kan., he is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and holds the rank of commander. He, like Schmitt, will be making his first space flight aboard Apollo 17.

Communists Celebrating Berlin Wall Anniversary

BERLIN (UPI)—Communist teachers led kindergarten tots and primary school children down to the Berlin Wall today to thank East German soldiers who are under orders to shoot to kill anyone trying to scramble across it.

The delegations of children queued on the eastern side of Brandenburg Gate until their turn came to make a rehearsed speech thanking the soldiers for "protecting peace and socialism" at the wall, which was 10 years old today.

Soldiers slung the straps of Russian-made automatic rifles over their shoulders so both hands were free to accept the children's offer of long-stemmed lilies and bouquets of carnations.

"In East Berlin and East Germany, they are celebrating the wall," West Berlin Mayor Klaus Schuety said as he laid a wreath on his side of the wall to honor the 65 men and women killed while trying to escape across it since it was built.

"For human beings, that simply is a mockery. We will not celebrate it."

Sellers Push Dollar Down To New Low

LONDON (UPI)— Unrelenting selling pressure drove the dollar down to a new low in West Germany today. Elsewhere in Europe, the U.S. currency stayed near its lowest permitted price.

Exchange dealers in London, where the dollar hovered only a shade above its official "floor" value, said the whole market was volatile. It was kept unstable by worries of a possible dollar devaluation and chances of future changes of the price limits within which the dollar can fluctuate against currencies with which it has internationally agreed fixed exchange rates.

It was a case of more inquiry than actual trading, they said. The pound was buying $2.4197 and the "floor" is $2.4200.

MARK CLIMBING

Frankfurt dealers abandoned early forward dealings in the dollar, according to London market sources. These forward transactions handle currency sales and purchases for delivery in future months. They are used by the professionals to cover their other trading operations.

The West German mark today climbed to its highest point since May 10, when it was "floated" away from its fixed parity against the dollar to find its own market level.

The dollar plunged today to a new low of 3.3735 marks at one stage, compared with the previous day's low of 3.3880 marks —which was itself the worst dollar showing against the German currency for 22 years.

The Dutch guilder, which was also "floated" during the May currency crisis, today attracted operators switching from dollars into the Netherlands currency. One result was that despite the strength of the British pound against the U.S. dollar, both the German and Dutch currencies cost more to buy for sterling.

FALLS IN ZURICH

The dollar also moved lower in Zurich. The National Bank there was buying dollars in the market to keep the U.S. currency stable.

Some financial sources said a New York Times report that the United States had made a formal approach to the International Monetary Fund (IMF) may have kept markets bubbling. The United States reportedly asked IMF to study the chances of widening from 1 to 3 per cent official limits inside which currencies are free to move, the report said.

In London, profit-taking clipped the price of gold by 2½ cents an ounce to $42.275. But in Zurich dealers upped the gold price by 5 cents an ounce in early trading.

The Michigan Civil Rights Commission is the only state civil rights agency established by a state constitution.

Bus Issue Traps Nixon In Middle

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon was caught today between an attack from the U.S. Civil Rights Commission for his opposition to racial school busing, and a challenge from Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace to prove he means what he says.

Nixon had no direct reply to the civil rights commission which Thursday accused him of undermining the government's effort for school desegregation; but he ordered an investigation into the Alabama situation, in which Wallace told local school officials to ignore a federal order involving plans to bus a white high school girl for purposes of racial balance.

The situation is an outgrowth of Nixon's recent request to Congress that federal desegregation money not be used for busing pupils for racial integration purposes, and of his pledge to follow a federal policy of not promoting busing.

The civil rights commission, an independent advisory agency whose members are picked by the President, said the nation needed "a call to duty and responsibility for the immediate elimination of the dual school systems and for support of all those school officials who are forthrightly carrying out their legal obligations.

"Unfortunately, the President's statement almost certainly will have the opposite effect, the effect of undermining the desegregation effort," the commission said. "It will almost certainly confuse the American public and erode the position of those school officials who have put themselves on the line to implement the law of the land."

The commission is chaired by the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University. He later told a news conference on his campus that the commission made its statement because "as a matter of conscience, we had to maintain a nonpartisan moral criticism" of Nixon's policies.

Hesburgh said Wallace's action "gives aid and comfort to every retrogressive person" and penalizes those who follow the law.

Nixon directed the Justice Department and the Health, Education and Welfare Department to look into the Alabama situation. A spokesman said Nixon was taken by surprise by Wallace's action but was not aware of all the details of the case involved.

Wallace, who ran for president two years ago and may run again next year, said:

"I am only trying to help President Nixon carry out his pledge against busing. It is a good way to test the sincerity of the Nixon administration. If the President is against busing as he says he is, I expect Attorney General John Mitchell and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot Richardson to join me in this matter."

Wallace ordered the Jefferson County Board of Education to disregard a federal order to send Pamela Davis to a school 20 miles from her home. He told the board to send her instead to a school four miles from her rural home.

The girl's mother had written Wallace that unless she went to the closer school she could not play in the school band because of the amount of travel time involved.

Skyscraper Plunge Kills Young Woman

CHICAGO (UPI)—A naked secretary fell 90 stories to her death Thursday from Chicago's tallest skyscraper. Police and managers of the John Hancock Center were investigating today the many unanswered questions surrounding the fall.

The death of Mrs. Lorraine Kowalski, a 29-year-old widow, was being investigated as an apparent suicide.

Mrs. Kowalski was visiting an apartment occupied by Marshall Berlin, 45, early Thursday when she crashed through the glass and plunged to her death.

Frank Heidenrich, engineer of the world's tallest office apartment buildings, said the windows should withstand more than 200 pounds of pressure per square foot before breaking. Heidenrich said he did not fear that a person might fall through on of the windows of the 100-story building by accident.

Building Superintendent Robert Kinser doubted Mrs. Kowalski could have broken the glass by herself. He said he did not know how a 125-pound woman could do it.

Berlin told detectives Mrs. Kowalski arrived shortly after 3 a.m., angry about something. He said he left her alone in the living room and heard breaking glass. He returned, found the broken window and Mrs. Kowalski gone.

A woman who was walking on Michigan Avenue said she saw the body bounce off steel girders three or four times before it hit on the sidewalk.

Berlin is vice president of the I.S. Berlin Press, one of the world's largest lithographic companies, and son of its founder. Mrs. Kowalski worked for the RCA Corp.

The United States has about 2.5 acres of commercial forest per capita, says the American Forest Institute.

Tax Drop In Ross Budget

By JEFF GREER

Ross citizens applauded last night as the town council adopted a $204,346 budget, up $18,651 from last year, but expected to produce a drop of about 6 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Thursday to set the actual tax rate after they receive the state-assessed utility roll that, added to the county-assessed private property roll makes up the town's tax base.

The state roll will be available from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell on Monday. Unless the utility roll varies unexpectedly from last year, the town's tax rate will be $1.66 per $100 assessed valuation, councilmen predicted.

Many of the dozen spectators in the council chamber applauded the budget adoption after Mayor Frederick S. Allen pointed out that the tax rate had been $1.72 for the last two years, $1.67 in 1968 and $1.62 in 1967.

Allen noted that the town's general government tax rate this year is expected to be only $1.015, because of a new state law establishing a separate tax for employees' medical and insurance programs. It will be 11 cents this year. The general rate including employee benefits last year was $1.13.

Ross's legal maximum for general fund use is $1.53 per $100. Voters approved a hike from the traditional $1 limit in January 1968.

Reduction of the total rate to $1.66 is based on a $1.5 million rise in the total assessment rolls, due to county reevaluation of Ross properties and the state-imposed change in the assessment ratio from 23 per cent to 25 per cent of fair market value.

The approved budget includes a 2.5 per cent cost of living increase for all employees, and step raises for several police officers and firemen. Last year the employees were granted 5 per cent raises; and 7.5 per cent for the final months of 1969.

Other approved spending in the 1971-72 budget included $3,000 to modernize the police radio system; $11,800 for property maintenance, particularly repairs to town's house rented to the police chief, and $700 for modernizing town hall lighting.

The council backed away from an ad hoc citizens' recreation committee plea that could have added slightly more than one cent to the tax rate. One cent can raise $1,231 in tax revenue in Ross this year.

The committee wanted the council to match the Ross School District allocation of $1,500 for a parttime recreation director to supervise after-school activity on the Ross Common for youngsters of all ages.

School trustee Dr. Justin L. Williams warned that Ross teen-agers were "bored" despite the town's high number of swimming pools and home recreational facilities. But the council backed Councilman Roy Farrington Jones's demand for an outline of a specific program before allocating any money.

Mayor Allen pointed out that the budget contained a token $1 sum for recreation "which could be overspent" out of town reserves when such a program was approved. Discussion of the recreation budget lasted an hour.

Jones repeated his stand taken at previous meetings, that recreation programs should be paid for by persons using them, rather than the property owners.

Williams, committee member Robert A. Braghetta and Councilmen Jewell Osterloh and Alan P. Maginis noted that Ross has some narcotics addiction cases among youth. They said a recreation program might curb police expenses in countering problems of "boredom."

"I've got what I consider normal kids," Jones argued. Instead of being bored, he said, "they're out looking for jobs, finding out about economics, taxes and things like that."

Williams pointed out that previous Ross recreation programs were financed out of fees, school funds and benefit campaigns. He called for the council to consider establishing a park and recreation commission with budget powers, but subject to control by the council. The council agreed that Mrs. Osterloh and Maginis should continue to work with the ad hoc committee on the after-school program and commission proposals.

No Ross Action On Creek Bid

A citizens' petition demanding that the Ross Town Council either rescind its approval of Phase 4 of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project or put it to a referendum, failed to win action from the council last night.

The council asked Peter B. Brekhus, acting town attorney, to report at a special meeting Thursday on whether the petition is valid and what action should be taken.

Brekhus and the council questioned whether the petition on which 17 residents gathered 224 signatures had been preceded by required legal notification, whether the town had further jurisdiction over the state-financed project, and whether the petition had been properly notarized.

Judith Valentine of Sylvan Lane, one of the campaign spokesmen, had told the Independent-Journal that the citizens objected to the "outmoded" concrete-walled flood control channel's design and wanted time to present alternative plans for a huge conduit beneath the natural creekbed.

She was not present at last night's council meeting, but Mayor Allen said a letter had been received from a J.A. Harder, professor of hydraulics at the University of California in Berkeley.

Revealing that Harder was the citizen group's designer, Allen said the professor's letter indicated the alternative might cost 30 to 50 per cent more than the concrete channel. "And it would rip out every tree shown," on Army Engineers' plans as left alongside the creek by the alignment adopted in July, Allen said.

"You aren't interested in what the people have to say," charged an audience member. "Getting all these signatures in a day shows me the council's out of tune with the people. All we want is to have an election . . ." He was the lone speaker against the flood control project at last night's session.

The Ross Town Council Also:

SOCCER — Approved plans for creating a soccer league for third through sixth-grade boys, proposed by Robert A. Braghetta for play on the Ross Common.

IVY DRIVE — Ordered absentee landlord Renee C. Ragland of Seal Beach to appear before the council Sept. 8 to show cause why he should not face legal action for renting the house at 57 Ivy Drive to more than five unrelated tenants. The order was in answer to neighbors' requests for a ban on parking in the street, to get rid of the excessive number of cars resulting from the illegal rental.

STUDY — Delegated Councilman Alan P. Maginis to the steering committee being formed by San Anselmo to guide a $30,000 federally supported study of governmental reorganization of Ross Valley public agencies.

REBUILDING — Approved plans for Charles W. Musser to repair fire damage to nonconforming home at 101 Bolinas Avenue. Musser said he intends to sell the house after it is restored.

DECK — Allowed Kenneth Negin to withdraw application for a variance to construct a deck extending to his property line at 19 Spring Road, after neighbors raised objections. He was granted a variance to repair another deck on the home and enlarge the master bedroom.

ILLEGAL HOUSE — Granted purchaser Charles R. Brown a variance to convert an illegal two-family, two-story residence at 47 Woodside Way into one residence by combining upper and lower units and enclosing an outside staircase.

AGENDAS — Spurred by a written request from Gerald J. Hood, new county human relations director, for copies of council agendas and minutes, decided to charge a $1.50 annual fee for such services, except to the press.

GIFT — Accepted a gift from the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission, of which Councilman Kay Farrington Jones is a member. LAFCO, which has used the Town Hall for meetings, recognized the town's unique custom of maintaining cuspidors for the audience, by sending the council two shiny brass gaboons.

Draft Lag May Hit U.S. Army In Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Army still hasn't felt the pinch of the expired draft —but it will in November and the pain will be inflicted on units in Europe, according to Army officials.

The draft came to a halt June 30 when the conscription law expired and the renewing legislation got caught in a political hassle over an amendment setting a fixed date for withdrawal from Vietnam. That dispute has since been largely resolved but Congress recessed until early September without completing action on the bill.

It is believed the bill cannot now be approved before mid-September — and it may be even later because of a threatened filibuster. Allowing a few days for clerical work and mailings plus the 10-day notice which must by law be given all draftees, no inductees could be funneled into the Army until October at the earliest.

The Army is not feeling any pain yet because all new men are sent into training units. It takes about four months until these men emerge for assignment to combat and other active units.

Therefore, the pinch would first come in November when units around the world order up replacements for men leaving the service and find those replacements just don't exist.

Army officials said despite the withdrawal program Vietnam remains their No. 1 priority area. Officers in Vietnam will thus have first pick of the men emerging from training and be able to raid units in Europe for all skills they may need.

This is just what happened during the Vietnam buildup. European units were stripped repeatedly and in some companies the commanders turned over every four months.

A three-month draft hiatus would mean the loss of about 30,000 men. This is comprised of the canceled draft calls for 8,000 men each in July and August, an anticipated similar number that would have been called in September, and a few thousand others who would have volunteered under pressure of the draft if it had existed.

The Army currently has 1.1 million men. It will lose 400,000 this fiscal year (July 1, 1971, to June 30, 1972) and it had hoped to get 200,000 new men —half draftees and half volunteers — so as to end up with 900,000 in uniform next June 30.

Out Of Cash? Blood Accepted

SEATTLE (UPI) —If you don't have enough money, "Dracula" will accept blood.

Producers of the play about the vampire at Seattle University announced Thursday that patrons will be admitted free if they donate a pint of blood to a local blood bank.

Members of the cast tried to donate their blood in an effort to publicize the production—but gave an anemic performance.

One would-be donor fainted in the waiting room and another fainted as the needle entered his arm. A woman cast member was ruled underweight and another's blood pressure was too low.

HOUSING

which varied in number from 12 to 18, circled the driveway of the agency's office in Marin City.

Their action, Mrs. Bland said, follows "numerous secret meetings" held by both agencies —the most recent of which, she said, was held by the housing authority on Saturday.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas told the I-J that alleged unannounced meetings by the two boards are under investigation by the district attorney's office. "An investigator has been assigned," Thomas said, "and will be talking to everyone with any information."

Miss Bland said residents have "no say in what is being secretly discussed by the boards," the future of their community. "Redevelopment is going on all over, but not here," she said, adding it has been bogged down in bureaucracy and red tape.

In a press release issued today, the picketers said their decision "reflects the dissatisfaction and increasing rage" of Marin City residents toward the two agencies, more specifically, Executive Director Wallace Shepherd who has continuously used dishonest and deceptive tactics against the very citizens he was hired to represent and support."

The release also charged that there "appears to be a very conscientious effort (by the agencies) to give our land back to the private realtors or to place housing on it that the people cannot afford."

Melvin Atkins, a member of the Marin City Council and one of the sign carriers, said he hoped today's action would draw attention to the situation in his community "both from within and without."

He charged the redevelopment agency with not having held a public meeting since June, instead meeting in "workshop sessions in out-of-the-way bars and taverns."

"The redevelopment agency is concerned with Marin City," he said, "and Marin City people should be able to attend meetings in Marin City."

He said the agency has refused to allow the Marin Urban Development Association (MUDA) an opportunity to try its hand at redevelopment.

"The community voted unanimously in June to grant them nine months to either do business or get out," he said, "but Shepherd said it couldn't be done."

(MUDA is a group of Marin City residents who have banded together in an effort to begin redevelopment — already eight years behind schedule. It was disqualified by the county counsel's office because some members are members also of the Marin City Council.)

At last night's council meeting, council members called for a special meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center to discuss community complaints with the redevelopment agency board Chairman Samuel Bank said.

Four points, he said, were picked for discussion Monday: that all meetings of the agency be publicized; that meetings concerning Marin City be held in the community; that redevelopment begin at once; and that the agency be aware of its obligation to the community.

Human Rights Commissioner Thelma McKinney, said she hopes her agency will meet the following night, Tuesday, and urged that Marin City agencies and residents attend.

"We would like to investigate all activities going on in Marin City," she said, adding MUDA and Marin City Council officials have indicated they will attend.

The two agencies and Executive Director Shepherd have come up under fire before by the city council which issued a request in July that the redevelopment agency meet in Marin City.

Even while the council was making its request, the redevelopment agency was holding a "workshop session" at the Windjammer restaurant in Tiburon.

An another "workshop session" on July 20, member of the housing authority board joined redevelopment directors and participated in a strategy session for regaining control of the choice Ridgelands above Marin City. No public notice had been received for the housing authority board to meet.

On Saturday, three members of the housing authority board meet again in an unannounced meeting with Shepherd and Redevelopment Agency Director Robert Pitts. Purpose of that meeting was reported to be discussion of negotiations with California Development Co., exclusive Marin City developer.

Hub Woman In Apparent Bridge Leap

Patricia (Perky) Cox, 29-year-old San Anselmo woman who was active in Marin and San Francisco social affairs, has apparently jumped to her death from the Golden Gate Bridge.

Mrs. Cox reportedly left her home Wednesday night, telling her husband, Philip C. Cox, that she was going for a ride.

About a half-hour later, witnesses told the California Highway Patrol they saw a Dodge coupe stop on the outer southbound lane of the bridge near the North Tower.

In the heavy fog, they said they saw a woman get out of the car, climb over the rail, stand for an instant and vanish in the mist.

Mrs. Cox's body has not been found, but the car left on the bridge was registered to her husband and her purse was found in the car.

The highway patrol said they were told that Mrs. Cox was released from the hospital three weeks ago after treatment for a mental breakdown and that she had been under psychiatric care for two and a half years.

Friends reported that she had been depressed since the birth of her son last March.

Mrs. Cox was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stratford of Belvedere. Stratford is a San Francisco printing executive and former tennis star.

Mrs. Cox was a member of the Junior League and had been a Cotillion debutante in 1959.

Panel 'No' To Museum Fund Appeal

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night unanimously turned down an appeal for city financial support for the Louise A. Boyd Museum of Natural Science.

The museum's board president, Robert A. Roumiguiere, asked the support from the commission after being told by the city council on Monday that he should see if the commission could fit museum assistance into its budget.

Commissioner Fred E. Jensen, who is also a city councilman, reiterated his view that the "city should not support private industry."

Roumiguiere said that the county this year will contribute $12,500 to the museum and cited the large numbers of children who visit the facility.

The commission, however, voted against any city support.

In other discussion last night, Andrew J. Snyder Jr., city director of parks and recreation, reported that during the demolition of the old Courthouse, recreation programs ordinarily held in the annex have been moved elsewhere.

Most of them have been relocated in school facilities, he said.

Snyder warned the commission, however, that the annex is still only a temporary home for the recreation programs and that long-range plans must be made.

The commission agreed to discuss the matter at the next meeting, which was set for Sept. 2., a week earlier than usual because of a holiday on the regular meeting date.

BUDGET

who campaigned hard for reelection last fall on a public assistance reform plank, said welfare "will not again be a major issue in the sense it was this year."

Reagan predicted the new act will "cut in half the rate of increase we have had in welfare."

It is the biggest change in welfare since Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) was substantially liberalized in 1963, and the most far-reaching overhaul of Medi-Cal since the health care program was first enacted in 1965.

The two-bill package is predicted to reduce state, county and federal costs for welfare and Medi-Cal by between $350 and $400 million annually. This divides up about $180 million for the state, $70 million for counties and $140 million for the federal government. The two programs now are costing $3.5 billion annually.

The welfare bill, by Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, was voted final passage Wednesday by the Senate, which earlier had killed Reagan's own far more ambitious proposal.

The Medi-Cal bill, by Assemblyman William Campbell, R-Hacienda Heights, was voted 56-13 final passage Thursday by the Assembly.

Assembly Republican Leader Robert T. Monagan of Tracy proclaimed it "the best effort we can make."

And Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, regarded as the key legislator in negotiations with Reagan, warned liberal Democrats it was either the compromise Medi-Cal package or more administration cuts—"do you want people to have false teeth or not have false teeth?"

Under the bill, the Reagan administration is barred from imposing additional Medi-Cal cuts—as it did last December—for at least a year.

Patients will be required to contribute a token $1 toward their doctor visits and 50 cents for prescriptions. Also, doctor visits will be limited to 24 per year and prescriptions to two per month, unless the state authorizes more.

Doctors also are encouraged to develop prepaid medical plans for recipients.

The welfare bill will increase grants for two-thirds of those on AFDC and reduce them for the other third with outside income. AFDC recipients will receive automatic cost-of-living increases beginning in July, 1973.

There is a one-year residency requirement, of questionable constitutionality, for welfare in counties of more than 6 per cent unemployment.

Middle and upper income Californians will have to pay more support for their aged parents on welfare, unless Nixon's plan is passed by Congress. Then this will be invalidated.

There are about 10 features of the new California act, however, that do conform with the Nixon plan—including uniform flat grants for all recipients, additional payments if the federal food stamp program is abolished, authority to inspect recipients' confidential income and unemployment records, attachment of fathers' wages for non-support, $100 advances for needy non-welfare families and child services.

The program contains only a small, pilot project semblance of the public work-for-your-grant job force Reagan proposed in March.

But there is $9 million for job training, another $3 million for day care child centers and $1 million for family planning.

Employees Get Promise From Rinne

The Marin County Personnel Office yesterday promised cooperation with the Marin County Employees Retirement Association to tighten preemployment physical examinations.

Maren Rinne, personnel director, and an aide met with the board, according to Stanley J. Fontex, treasurer-tax collector and retirement board member.

The personnel officials said they would ask the board of supervisors to approve use of job disability specialist doctors in hirings for certain high-stress jobs.

The retirement board had voiced concern in recent months that lack of screening may have resulted in hiring unqualified employees, with the workers subsequently becoming disabled on the job. This results in heavy drain on the retirement fund, because employees can retire at half-pay when found to have service-connected disabilities, Fontez explained.

The Marin Employees Association Retirement Board also:

RATE — Received word from County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell that changes in state law have reduced the county's contribution for 1971-72 to the retirement fund by nearly $200,000.

DEATH — Asked the county counsel's office for guidance in the case of George K. Matley of the date processing department. He applied for nonservice connected disability July 15 and died Aug. 2 before the board could act.

PART TIME — Reaffirmed its policy that employees must be working at least three-fourths time to participate in the retirement fund. Members reduced to half-time may "buy back" time if reinstated to three-fourths time or more.

INVESTMENT — Approved investment of retirement funds, subject to committee review, in Marin County residential real estate loans offered by the Sonoma Mortgage Co. at a return rate of 7.79 per cent or higher. Fontez explained the board seeks to invest up to one fourth of its available funds in Marin mortgages, but currently has only about 17 per cent invested because of low return rates, compared with the bond market.

MIDEAST

the Syrian authorities will reconsider this decision."

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of Al Ahram and a confidante of Sadat, said the Egyptian president set the Sunday deadline in an exchange with President Nixon in which the Egyptian said he could "no longer tolerate a situation of no peace and no war."

Heikal said Sadat told Nixon Egypt's 15-year friendship treaty with the Soviet Union signed last May "does not impose any restrictions on Egypt's movement toward what it wants, which is complete Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territory."

Another call for "all out war" with Israel came today from Algerian President Houari Boumediene in an interview with Africasia, a French left-wing weekly in Paris. Boumediene denounced Arab states seeking to recover their lost territories through negotiated peace and said that by "all out war" he meant the use of economic as well as military means—the use of Arab oil to force a settlement.

OBITUARIE

EDWARD SKEELS

Graveside service has been set for 11 a.m. tomorrow at Marin Memorial Gardens, Novato, for Edward B. Skeels Jr., retired purchasing agent for Bechtel Corp. in San Francisco.

Skeels, 49, of 537 Wilson Avenue, Novato, died Wednesday at a local hospital after collapsing at his home.

well as assert their rights," Faulkner said.

"Let no one imagine that the people I represent are to be coerced from their fundamental principles by IRA violence, by southern intrusion or by any other means."

Brig. Marston Tickell, army chief of staff in Northern Ireland, told a news conference British troops had "virtually defeated" IRA gunmen.

Tickell said gunmen had suffered about 50 casualties — 20 or 30 of them killed according to rough estimates — since street violence broke out Monday.

Shortly after Faulkner spoke, British troops in Londonderry killed a youth after they came under sniper fire near the Roman Catholic district of Bogside. A .38-caliber pistol was found beside the young man's body.

The death brought to 25 the number of persons killed in fighting in Northern Ireland since Faulkner announced Monday the government would jail suspected terrorists without trial.

Faulkner was replying to a statement by Lynch at a news conference in Dublin Thursday.

"I will content myself with saying now that I find neither its tone nor its content at all helpful in a situation where the prime need is to protect democratic methods against rule of the gun," Faulkner said.

"I did hope —but it appears in vain —for firm action against the organization which is preventing the peaceful development of Northern Ireland," Faulkner said. His reference was to the illegal Irish Republican Army (IRA) which seeks to force reunification of Northern Ireland with the Irisn Republic.

The years of violence in Northern Ireland are the result of the contention of the Roman Catholic minority that the mostly protestant government discriminates against Catholics, particularly in jobs, housing and voting. The six northern counties that make up Northern Ireland were severed from the rest of Ireland in 1920 and the area remains under British rule.

Dog Kennel, Mobile Homes Are Approved

I-J Special Report

Coin-Operated Fire Alarms?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The City Board of Fire Commissioners recommended Thursday that fire alarm boxes be replaced with coin operated booths.

The move is being considered because of an increasing number of false alarms and as an economy measure.

Berkeley Winners Called 'Charlatans'

BERKELEY (UPI)—The former campaign manager for two new black Berkeley city councilmen today attacked them on grounds "they're not the least bit interested in the condition of the poor blacks."

Eric Morton, who managed the campaigns of Councilmen D'Army Bailey and Ira Simmons, characterized both as "a couple of charlatans."

Michigan Slayings— Four Shot

HARTLAND, Mich. (UPI)—The bodies of four young men, all of them shot in the head in gangland style, were found early Friday in a heavily wooded area off a busy highway, state police said.

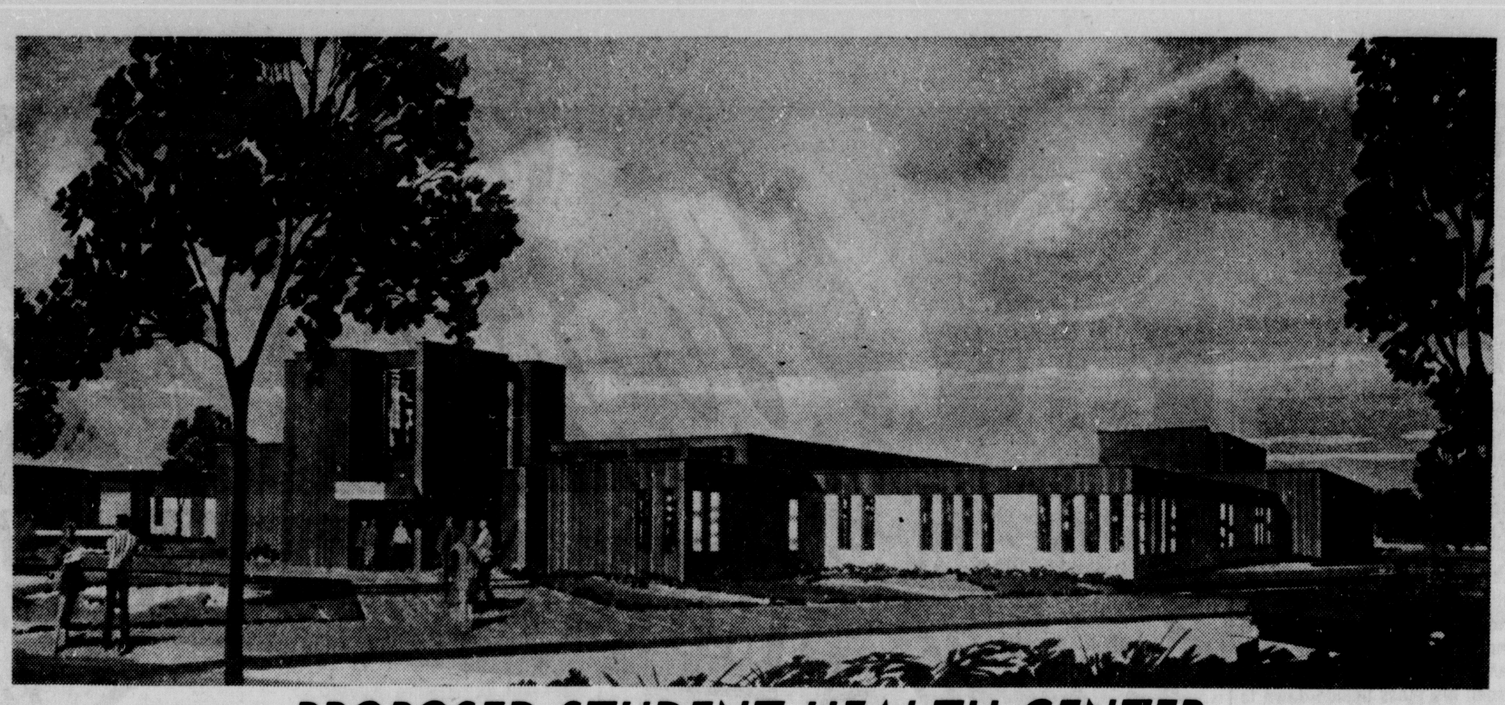

Police at the Brighton post said they received a report from a citizen early Friday morning that four men were unconscious near a parked car in the wooded area northeast of Howell in south central Michigan.

"We dispatched a trooper to the scene and discovered all four subjects had been shot in the head," a police spokesman said. "All four are colored males in their early 20s."

No other identification was immediately available. Also found at the scene was a late-model Cadillac convertible.

The bodies were found by Jack Dalton on his private property near the interchange of U.S. 25 and Michigan 59. Dalton said he saw a car parked on a hill and "on a hunch" went up to check on it.

"I think they were shot there," said Dalton whose farm home is about one-quarter mile from the place where the bodies were found. He said someone told him that they heard sounds that sounded like shots during the night.

PROPOSED STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

An architect's picture shows the $1.2 million health services building planned for Sonoma State College. The one-story frame building with a stucco-redwood exterior is scheduled to be completed by the fall of 1972. The new facility, designed by Albert A. Hoover and Associates will have space for 10 physicians, a staff of nurses, laboratory technicians and clerical employees. A statewide student health facility fee will pay for building as well as provide operating funds.

Innocent Plea To Pot Charge

Preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 14.

Johnson was arrested Aug. 1 when Marin County sheriff's deputies received a report that he was growing marijuana in a bathtub behind his residence.

Deputies said they found seven pot plants growing in the tub.

Airlines Ready To Cut Atlantic Fares

MONTREAL (UPI)—Several major airlines said Thursday they were prepared to start new low-cost transatlantic fares if the airline industry fails to agree on reduced North Atlantic prices.

Seven weeks of intense negotiations for a new set of promotional fares at the International Air Transport Association's (IATA's) North Atlantic traffic conference ended late Wednesday when Lufthansa vetoed the final fare package.

Air Canada and British Overseas Airways Corp. (BOAC) were the first to announce Thursday they would take unilateral action to bring in new low cost fares if no agreement is reached. Similar statements were made later by Lufthansa and Canadian Pacific airlines.

Lufthansa was given until Sept. 1 to change its vote to "yes" or absention. If it does so the new rate package negotiated by delegates from 25 airlines meeting in Montreal since June 29 would go into effect. The new rates must be approved unanimously by all IATA members.

If Lufthansa does not change its mind the matter could be reopened when IATA meets in Miami in September. The September meeting was designed to discuss Pacific air fares but the Atlantic question could be brought up again.

Failure of the IATA to reach an agreement would mean there would be no international regulation on North Atlantic fares and individual airlines could set their own prices.

All types of rate changes were discussed by IATA but one of Lufthansa's chief complaints was with group fares. It was not against lower fares but wanted less categories of group fares.

The present IATA agreement expires March 31. However if no new agreement is reached by Dec. 31, the airlines can set their own rates effective Feb. 1. Under the present agreement, fares can be changed only by order by a government involved and then can be matched by other airlines. Air Canada Board Chairman Yves Pratte said if there was no industry agreement by Sept. 1 then Air Canada would "file fare rates in accordance with our proposals," which he said would be less than $200 in some cases.

The Air Canada announcement, which omitted reference to any starting date for new fares, was quickly followed by a similar statement from BOAC issued in London.

Ross Stainton, managing director of BOAC, said the British airline intended to go ahead with plans to inaugurate lower fares over the Atlantic.

Late Thursday, Canadian Pacific Airlines' vice-president of marketing and sales, Bryan Renwick, said in a Vancouver statement the airlines will introduce the fares negotiated at the IATA conference, possibzy as early as Feb. 1, 1972.

In a surprise announcement from Cologne, West Germany, Lufthansa said it was prepared also to slash fares across the North Atlantic. The West German airlines said it would do so only if the IATA failed to reach agreement on a new package.

Referring to the fares package it rejected, Lufthansa said it made no step in the direction which Lufthansa for years has supported, "but instead by establishment of more special prices it contributed to the already complicated price structure."

Jail Term Given For Burglaries

Stephen Alan Schultz, 24, of no known address, was sentenced to 120 days in Marin County Jail yesterday for two burglaries.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court also placed Schultz on probation for two years.

The sentencing followed Schultz's guilty plea to one of the burglaries to which he previously had pleaded innocent.

He pleaded guilty July 26 to burglarizing the residence of Richard T. Pisani of 40 Bret Harte Road, near San Rafael, June 7.

Yesterday, he pleaded guilty to the burglary of the residence of Fred Hafer of 463 Montecito Drive, Corte Madera, on May 31.

Judge McGuire followed a probation department recommendation in giving Schultz 60 days in jail for each burglary. The district attorney's office had recommended four months in jail for each.

In sentencing Schultz, McGuire noted that he could have been sent to state prison for each of the crimes, but said Schultz's lack of a criminal record was a factor in sending him to jail instead.

McGuire yesterday also set a jury trial for Schultz for the week of Sept. 20 on charges of possessing heroin and narcotics paraphernalia and being under the influence of heroin.

The charges stem from Schultz's arrest May 31 by San Rafael police when he was found in the men's room of a service station where he was suspected of injecting himself with heroin.

Hammer Killer Draws Prison

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A teen-ager who admitted killing his grandparents with a claw hammer because of nagging about his forging a check against their account was sentenced Thursday to five years to life in prison.

Michael Anthony Murdock, 19, was convicted last April of two counts of second degree murder in the death of Percy and Janet Wise. The slayings occurred last Nov. 28 at the couple's Baldwin Hills home.

Murdock told Judge Kathleen Parker he killed the couple because he could no longer bear his grandmother's nagging about paying back $400 in checks he forged.

The city of Detroit was first incorporated as a town which was destroyed by fire in 1805 and rebuilt and incorporated as a city in 1806.

Nationalist China Opens 'First' Jail

TAIEPI (UPI) —Nationalist China has its first open jail. The unguarded prison, located in Taitung in southeast Taiwan, is expected to accommodate 100 convicts, ranging in age from 20 to 50 who have already served one year with good conduct records.

During the daytime, a prison spokesman said, the inmates will work in a nearby field. "Nobody will watch them working," he said.

Prize-Winning Cartoonist Dies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James T. Berryman, 68, a political cartoonist for the Washington Evening Star who won a Pulitizer Prize in 1950, died at Venice, Fla., Thursday following a brief illness.

Berryman worked for the Star for 42 years, and his cartoons were syndicated by King Features, starting in 1944 and distributed throughout the nation. He retired in 1964.

He was born in the District of Columbia and attended George Washington University and the Corcoran Galley. He worked for the New Mexico State Tribune and for Scripps-Howard newspapers before joining the Star in 1923.

Can you find the Volkswagen hidden in this picture?

If you can, you'll make us very sad.

Because we've troubled ourselves no end to hide it from you.

Our quest for the invisible Volkswagen took us all the way to Turin, Italy.

Where we asked the famous Ghia Studios to design us a sporty Italian body.

They did.

Their drawings in hand, we secretly prowled about Europe for the best coach builder we could find.

Success. To the Karmann Coachworks of Osnabrück we handed over Ghia's sketches with the injunction:

"Make it beautiful." (Or else.)

They did.

They welded. And burnished. And sculpted. And sanded. And painted.

Until they had shaped in steel what Ghia had shaped in pencil.

Smug in the knowledge that nobody could ever mistake this beautiful car for a Volkswagen, we made it a Volkswagen.

By concealing our air-cooled engine in back. (For better traction.)

And making it go about 26 miles on just one gallon.

Then we gave this Volkswagen its final disguise:

We named it the Karmann Ghia.

Bishop Dun, 79, A Pioneer In Ecumenical Movement, Is Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Funeral services will be at noon Monday in Washington Cathedral for the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Epispocal Bishop of Washington from 1944 until 1962.

A noted theologian and an active force in the ecumenical movement, Dun had suffered from heart trouble for several years. He was 79 when he died yesterday at his home.

(He was the father of Rev. Angus Dun Jr., vicar of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in San Rafael.)

Before becoming bishop of Washington, Dun was a professor of systematic theology at the Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., from 1920 until 1940 and as dean of the same seminary from 1940 until 1944.

Dun is survived by his widow Kitty and another son Dr. Alan Dun, Boston. Dun was a native of New York but he grew up in Albany.

Angus Dun was a warm, wise and witty human being, one of the most genuinely Christ-like

RT. REV. ANGUS DUN
Father of Marinite

men this reporter has ever known.

His brilliant public career as theologian and church leader was less impressive, to those who knew him well, than his private conquest of a formidable battery of physical handicaps.

Because of prenatal injuries, he was born with crippled hands and feet. After many surgical operations and long acquaintance with casts and crutches, he reached the point where he could participate in normal childhood activities. Then, at the age of 11, he was paralyzed by a severe case of polio.

Despite complications which led ultimately to amputation of a leg, he eventually triumphed over his handicaps to the point where only a few people realized that he had a wooden leg. Keenly aware of the despair that accompanies loss of a limb, he often visited the amputee wards of Walter Reed Army Hospital to talk to combat-wounded servicemen. Once, in a supreme effort to cheer up an amputee, he rolled up his trouser leg and danced an impromptu jig.

Although he had more than his share of pain, Bishop Dun never felt sorry for himself. His whole life was irradiated by a contagious joyousness, and he had an irrepressible sense of humor.

One of the favorite stories of his friends concerns an exchange he was alleged to have had with a Methodist bishop who was seated near him at a dinner party. When the wine was passed, the Methodist turned his glass upside down to indicate his refusal.

"Oh, come now," said Bishop Dun joshingly. "A few drops of good burgundy won't corrupt you."

"I'd sooner commit adultery," replied the teetotaller.

"Perhaps so," Bishop Dun replied. "But our choice at the moment is confined to wine or water."

Usually, his humor was directed at himself rather than others. When an aide suggested he wear a mitre when marching in cathedral processions, the bishop turned aside the idea with the comment, "I look enough like a monkey already."

When a ladies guild presented him with an elaborate needlework cushion for his official chair, he gave a quick twist to the adage about heads that wear crowns. "Uneasy . . ." he said "is the seat that rests on needlepoint."

His humor was a necessary anodyne to a profoundly realistic view of the human condition.

"I have learned," he told me once, "that human existence is essentially tragic. It is only the love of God, disclosed and enacted in Jesus Christ, that redeems the human tragedy and makes it tolerable. No, more than tolerable —wonderful."

Marin City Man Denies Theft

John Beatty Ridley, 29, of 143 Drake Avenue, Marin City, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of car theft.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Ridley was arrested Monday when a California Highway Patrol officer stopped the car Ridley was driving on Highway 101 because the car's license plates were loose.

A check revealed the car had been stolen in San Francisco, the highway patrol said.

Family Registration Open: YMCA Camp

Marin families may register now for a Young Men's Christian Association family camp which will be held Sept. 4 through Sept. 6 at Camp La Honda in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

Those attending are to bring campers, trailers or tents and the YMCA will provide lunches and dinners, officials said. Hikes, swimming and a program for children will be offered. Further information may be obtained at the YMCA office at 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

JAMES J. WARE JR.

Ware Fills EOC Post At Sonoma

James J. Ware Jr., formerly of Sacramento State College, has been named director of the Hidden Talent economic opportunity program at Sonoma State College.

Ware served as acting director of the Economic Opportunity Program at Sacramento where he was chairman of the Program Directors' legislative caucus.

The Hidden Talent program for disadvantaged students will have 160 students enrolled this fall including 75 first-time students. Housing and funding will be Ware's primary responsibilities.

The purpose of the program is to allow students from low income families to get an education although they may not meet regular admission requirements at the college.

Although the program enrollment for fall will be increased from the 104 students last year, the program budget has been cut from $65,000 in 1970-71 to $43,000 for the coming year.

Ware is a graduate of Agricultural and Technical State University in Greensboro, N.C. where he got both bachelor and masters degrees.

Novato Panel Due Apartment Review

The Novato Planning Commission will review precise plans for construction of 189 apartments along Ignacio Boulevard at 8 p.m. Monday at the Novato Community House.

McSweeney and Schuppel have submitted plans for a mixture of apartments, three bedroom, two bedroom, one bedroom and studio, on the 9.8-acre site southwest of Ignacio Boulevard and Alameda Del Prado.

Assessment Appeal Deadline Aug. 26

Eighty-four Marin County property owners have filed appeals for adjustment of their property assessments since July 2 when the appeals period opened.

Deadline for the filings is Aug. 26, less than two weeks away, the board of supervisors office pointed out yesterday. Last year a total of 675 owners filed appeals; the total was 446 in 1969.

Records showing assessment figures for each parcel in the county are available for inspection at the supervisors' office in the Marin County Civic Center. Appeal forms also are available there, according to Mona Elder, deputy clerk to the board.

The County Assessment Appeals Board will hold its first hearing on Sept. 24 and each Friday thereafter, Mrs. Elder said.

Last month, county Assessor Bert W. Broemmel reported his staff had reassessed nearly one third of all parcels in Marin for this year's assessment rolls. In addition, the valuation of every property in the county was increased because of the state rule requiring that property be assessed at 25 per cent of market value, instead of the 23 per cent ratio formerly used.

County, city and local tax bills for fiscal 1971-72 are based on the assessment rolls now open to appeal.

Property Tax Limits Due Eye

Proposals to limit property tax will be heard by members of the Black Point Improvement Club at their meeting at 8:30 p.m. today at 81 Manzanita Avenue.

Dr. Richard Gaebel, club president, said John Winters of the United Organization of Taxpayers will be guest speaker.

Also on the agenda for discussion are the Aug. 24 hearing on a county septic tank ordinance, developments in commuter airline use of Hamilton Air Force Base, and the Renaissance Pleasure Faire, which the club opposed last month.

Innocent Plea To Welfare Fraud

Sandra Sellers, 28, of 206B Marin Street, San Rafael, pleaded innocent Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court to two felony charges of welfare fraud.

Preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 31.

Mrs. Sellers is accused of receiving Marin County welfare aid after she failed to inform the County Department of Social Services of a $3,100 inheritance last November.

She had surrendered herself in municipal court after reading in the Independent-Journal that a warrant had been issued for her arrest.

Camera, Camping Gear Is Missing

Photographic and camping equipment, valued at $1,200, was stolen from the car of Robert J. Simac of San Francisco Sunday, Marin County sheriff's office reported yesterday.

Deputies said the car was parked along a road near McClure's Beach, Inverness.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Holiday Inn's Pierre Bitterer Is A Master 'Maitre D' Flambe'

The new management team of Sam Standard as innkeeper and Pierre Bitterer as food and beverage manager and maitre d' at Holiday Inn, Terra Linda should accomplish some disirable improvements, even if it means turning a few precedents upside down in the process.

Both previously worked at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, where Sam was general manager and Pierre was restaurant manager and maitre d'. When Sam took over the Holiday Inn post he sent for Pierre who was off on a jaunt to Europe. Behind-the-scenes improvements have already taken place and some have floated to the surface.

As Mr. Standard's part in all this is primarily administrative and Mr. Bitterer's is operational, it is the latter's actions which will come under scrutiny by diners-out.

I have known Pierre for perhaps 10 years as a chef, but he has been in and out of Marin and our paths crossed infrequently. And so I have not been in the best position to observe at any length his mastery of food.

Now I am convinced that he is probably the most skillful "maitre d' flambe" I have ever seen in action. Watching an operation of this kind causes some persons to look for the nearest fire extinguisher or red-lettered exit sign. But in the hands of an expert it is not as hazardous as it appears. It may have occurred, but I have never heard of a maitre d' so much as singeing his eyebrows or burning a hole in his cummerbund.

However, making a flame do what you want and no more takes some finesse. This is where Pierre shines. He uses a compact LP gas unit, allowing perfect adjustment and control. And he is the only man I have ever seen flambe a salad dressing.

Show? Of course it is. But most people love it.

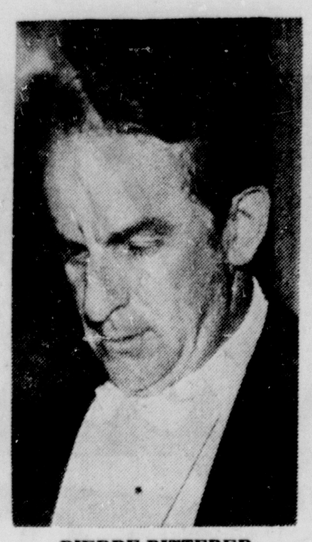

Holiday Inn has a dinner menu priced from $3.75 to twice that amount for complete dinners. But if you've had a good week you may feel like splurging and let Pierre demonstrate his course-by-course pyrotechnics with something like this:

Filet of sole Duglere, limestone flambe salad (his own creation), tournedo marchand de vin with stuffed artichoke Florentin, saute cucumber in dill, carrot saute and pommes Dauphin; and for dessert crepe Madrid. The tab is a little higher but will soon be forgotten. The meal and its presentation will be remembered.

IT HAS BEEN MENTIONED here before that Ramona's is open again in San Rafael, but it evidently needs repeating, as some people are still phoning Ramona Stallings to inquire the status of the restaurant.

SAM STANDARD
Holiday Inn-keeper . . .

PIERRE BITTERER
. . . maitre d' flambe

It's open for dinners but not yet for lunches. The doctor has told Ramona she needs another month of rest before she can go all out.

IT WON'T BE for a few months, but one of these days Au Relais in Sonoma will be moving from 23570 Arnold Drive to a new downtown location at 691 Broadway.

Owner Harry Marsden has bought an entire block of property here and plans on converting an old Victorian home into his new dinery. It will take time, so don't look for a move until late November of early December — perhaps not until spring.

There will be more space, an outside patio dining area and a general liquor license. Right now Harry has a wine and beer license at the present location on Arnold Drive where he has been for about four years. Closing day is Monday.

THE NORMANDIE in San Rafael is no longer serving lunches on an everyday basis. But if you have a group of 15 to 30 to feed and will make a firm reservation for service, set a date and phone Michael Braud about it. He and Roger Minhondo will take care of it.

IN THE MIDDLE AGES, ice cream was a carefully guarded secret of the nobility, and they tried hard to keep it from the common people.

Marin Dining And Wining

eating place these days for boatsmen headed up to the delta, or returning from it, is The Galley at Crockett (no connection with the Galley in San Rafael).

This one is at Dowrellos Wharf almost beneath and on the west side of the Vallejo Bridge. It's open daily from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. and is operated by Gaston and Faith De Puglia and their family ensemble. Specialties are seafoods, steaks and salads. Breakfast is served anytime and food is prepared to take out.

GREENBRAE RESTAURATEUR Pietro Pinoni may just open a restaurant somewhere in Marin County at that. But it won't be until the latter part of 1972 or later. His tenure at 535 Washington Street, San Francisco isn't up for another year. And before he puts up a Pietro's of Marin, he's planning a vacation back in the old country — back in Toscana, Italy.

He has 118 listings. Ten of these are in Marin and there are 11 for Sonoma County. You'll find it in the last San Francisco Magazine.

OLYMPIC ATHLETES in ancient Greece relied on a steady diet of cheese when in training. Cheese contains many essential nutrients, including protein and riboflavin. It also contains fat. But there are other fats we eat that do not contribute as much to nutrition, such as hydrogenated vegetable fat and bacon fat.

Local Seeks Strike Sanction On 22 Hospitals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Strike sanction against 22 hospitals in San Francisco and Alameda County is being sought by Hospital Workers Local 25.

Local Secretary Tim Twomey said Thursday that strike approval was sought from the AFL-CIO councils on the basis of a 1760-272 rank and file vote against management's latest contract offer.

The proposal would have provided a 25 per cent pay hike for the union's 6,000 members over the next three years. The boost was the same negotiated for registered nurses earlier this year.

Twomey said the lower-paid workers insisted they need greater increases to keep up with inflation.

BART To Eye Chief's Salary

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bay Area Rapid Transit district directors voted Thursday to hire a management consultant to review executive salaries.

BART General Manager B.R. Stokes earns $45,000 annually, more than the mayor of San Francisco ($40,283), said Director Garland Graves, who suggested "Maybe Stokes is making too much."

Graves also asked for a review of personnel and organizational structure, but the board delayed that suggestion temporarily, arguing that the scope and cost of such a study should first be determined.

Novato Panel Nod To 47 Buildings' Plans

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved site development plans for 47 buildings, each containing four dwelling units, northwest of Highway 101 and South Novato Boulevard.

The units are part of plans by McKeon Construction Co. to develop 528 units, including townhouses, on the 50-acre site.

Committee members at a special meeting Wednesday also tentatively approved design plans for the first phase, 20 buildings.

Commissioners wanted to see how the design worked out before giving approval for the entire 47 buildings, reported Brian W. Mattson.

Private Accused: Officers' Deaths

FT. ORD, Calif. (UPI)—The Army has set a pre-trial hearing for Aug. 26 for a private charged with killing two officers in a Vietnam "fragging" incident.

Pvt. Billy D. SMith, 23, Los Angeles, is awaiting court martial on two charges of premeditated murder, two of attempted murder and three of assault.

He allegedly tossed a grenade into an officers' compound at Bien Hoa army base in Vietnam last March 15.

Ecologists Endorse Catholic For Mayor

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—The local chapter of Zero Population Growth has endorsed County Supervisor Jack Walsh for mayor. He has seven children.

The organization said in its newsletter Thursday that the Roman Catholic supervisor's last child "was born five years ago—about the time he was beginning to take real notice of the connection between pollution and overcrowding."

Eating at Dominic's will make you smarter.
There are at least two reasons why this is true. First, we already have a lot of smart customers, and studies have proved that the more you associate with smart people, the smarter you get. The other reason is that we have a gallery of fine art, as well as the restaurant. So, between the salad and the escallope de veau, you may brush up on your post-impressionism. Try it. We're at 507 Francisco, in San Rafael. 456-1383. Oh, and one more thing. You have to be pretty smart in the first place, to find us.

Dominic's
Satisfying the mental and physical appetites of the discriminating Marin County resident. As well as anyone else who happens to drop in.

Sheep Poacher Fails To Show

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (UPI) — A woman convicted of poaching the rare California Desert Bighorn Sheep failed to appear for sentencing Thursday.

The attorney for Pearl Prudolm told the court she was in Whitehorse, Yukon Territory, on a hunting expedition.

14 In Race For Music Chest Funds

Fourteen Marin musicians between 14 and 19 years of age will audition for Marin Music Chest scholarships on Aug. 28 at 1:30 p.m. in the music department of San Domenico School, Sleepy Hollow.

Four $200 scholarships will be awarded, according to Mrs. John Lesoine, Music Chest vice president and member of the audition board.

Those who will audition include Paul Bertolli, Joanne Oakley, Laurel Elkjer, Mary Franz, Edizabeth Wheeler, Carol Tomlinson and Michael Mello, San Rafael; Monica Maguire, Tina May and Leonora Bloom, Mill Valley; Ealaine Messer, Tiburon; Randy Moore, Patrick Terry, Novato, and Gerda Endermann, Larkspur.

This year's winners will be introduced during intermission of the closing concert in the current summer series Sept. 26 at Forest Meadows.

Premier Castro Is 45 Today

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro turned 45 years old today, but no public celebration was expected in Cuba.

Castro was one of the world's youngest leaders when he came to power in Cuba in 1959 at the age of 32.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

State Should Keep Three Marin Highways

Marin public officials and residents will need to make themselves heard at a public hearing in the Civic Center on Sept. 16 to prevent three roads in the county being deleted from the state highway system.

Proposed for deletion are Tiburon Boulevard and the Marin portions of Highway 1 and 17.

This proposal results from criteria drawn up by something called the California Highway Functional Classification Advisory Committee, a 15-member affair appointed by the state director of public works pursuant to a 1969 directive from the state legislature. The committee was charged with drawing up standards for classification of all roads in California.

The criteria it drew were not applied "on the ground." Hal K. Taylor, assistant district engineer for the California Division of Highways, admits they are general and may not apply in any given instance.

They certainly don't seem to apply here.

HIGHWAY 1 is a through road from Oregon to Mexico. Much of it has been improved into a fine, fast highway. The portion through Marin is a winding, narrow road clinging to the cliffs along the shoreline. That it is so is due largely to local objections raised against all of several reroutings proposed by the state a few years ago.

To pretend that because of this it is not an important enough route to be a state highway, however, borders on the ridiculous. Development of Point Reyes National Seashore, with its rapidly increasing influx of visitors, makes the need imperative for full improvement of Marin's portion of Highway 1 — not for downgrading it to the status of a county road, as proposed by the committee with the long name.

Highway 17 exists only on paper from its junction with Highway 101 at San Rafael to where it is supposed to join Highway 1 somewhere in West Marin. But it, too, is needed already to carry travelers to the national seashore — and will be needed even more as time goes on.

That it is only on paper is due, again, to objections raised by local residents to various route proposals. However, the fact that no route yet advocated is satisfactory does not eliminate the need for the highway. The state's job is to find a better route, not to leave Highway 17 dead-ended forever at San Rafael.

AS TO TIBURON Boulevard, it may fairly be regarded as a local road — although the state is even now spending money on improving it — so long as it ends at Tiburon. But the often-raised possibility of a bridge connection from Tiburon to San Francisco still remains. And until some other trans-Bay connection eliminates any possible need for a state highway down the Tiburon Peninsula, this route also should remain a state highway.

The Division of Highways will not recommend deleting the roads if there is strong local protest — at least, that is its policy. So the Sept. 16 hearing is the time to be heard.

Do Legislators Deserve Longer Terms In Office?

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It almost never fails. Every legislative session a measure is introduced to extend the terms of office of the state senators to six years, and the terms of the assemblymen to four years.

Presently, the terms are four and two years, and will continue to be so until the people of the state of California vote a change in the constitution.

The 1971 legislative session is no exception to the regular appearance of the longer terms legislation. Regularly, the Assembly, with the most to gain, passes a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters, and just as regularly, the Senate kills the measure.

So voters have not had opportunity for 10 years to express their sentiments on the proposal. It was in 1960 that the issue last was placed before the public in the form of a widespread and all-inclusive constitutional proposed change.

When the voters finally did get to the issue, they voted it down with an overwhelming "no."

NOW THAT MORE than 10 years have elapsed, Assemblyman Harvey Johnson, D-Montebello, brings it up again. Presumably, it will meet the same fate, if not at the hands of the legislature, at the hands of the voters if by some miracle it should get on the ballot again.

One would think that legislators would be satisfied with the exceptional gravy train they have created for themselves instead of attempting to extend it and provide a longer time for the members to enjoy the plush benefits which over the years have grown to be the especial prerogatives of this privileged and pampered class of citizens.

But not Assemblyman Johnson! He wants the salary raises the legislators voted for themselves to be extended for a couple more years, including the extension of the most lucrative retirement system in the state of California and possibly in the nation. Johnson argues that the legislature could "take care of the people" better with longer terms.

BUT BEFORE APPROVAL for lengthening the terms of legislators is considered, the public should reflect on what the legislature has done over the past decade to "take care" of the people. It should write down in detail the opportunities the legislature has had to pass constructive measures, in tune with the changing times of the present decade, and determine how many of these opportunities have been missed or avoided. Only then can the people judge whether the legislators deserve lengthened terms.

Old Bellyfoot

The scientific name for slugs and snails is gastropod. It's from the Greek for "bellyfoot," referring to their method of getting about by crawling on their belly. Actually, they make their own roadway as they move along by secreting glistening paths of mucous wherever they go.

No Marin gardener needs to be told that slugs and snails are prolific garden pests. But if we think ours are a serious nuisance, we should be glad that we do not have an East African species of snail that weighs almost a pound and is the scourge of farmers in that region.

Although slugs and snails are generally thought of as soft-bodied creatures, they are really quite muscular. Ask any French gourmet.

Conservation League Feels Left Out

In the article printed in Tuesday (Aug. 10) paper, concerning the congressional hearing which was held Monday on the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, we note that our name (Marin Conservation League) was omitted from the list of those presenting testimony.

We feel that this would be a matter of great concern to our loyal and dedicated membership.We not only presented testimony favoring the concept of a Golden Gate National Recreation Area, but were most gratified to have received the only applause during the hearing!

Prison Art Show Viewed From Within

Enclosed is the "Bastile by the Bay" column from the Aug. issue of the San Quentin News.

It is strongly sugested that you see fit to print this column in your newspaper, and preferably in the editorial page.

The enclosure is a reply to a letter you printed from Nan Fowler on June 2.

It is felt the public should know both sides of a story before they can draw any valid conclusions.

It should also be noted that San Quentin will have another art show in September . . .

JOHN S. WATSON
Tamal (San Quentin).

(The San Quentin News column, by Doc Huffman, pointed out: "Many men have never painted or worked crafts in their lives before coming to prison. Their decision to do this instead of behaving nonproductively should be applauded, not downgraded . . . San Quentin and its handicraft program are far from the ideal artist's paradise. It is quite a struggle for these inmates to overcome the handicaps and hurdles placed before them.")

Symphony Guild Again Successful

The 19th season of the Marin symphony Association is now officially over, and we wish to thank the Independent-Journal for helping us make it one of our most successful. We have appreciated the cooperation and support of all the members of your staff. To Maybelle Speckmann we owe special thanks for her fine, constructive reviews of the concerts of the Marin Symphony Orchestra as well as those of the Marin Youth Orchestra.

We are looking forward to our 20th season, and with your continued cooperation know that Marin County will be both aware and appreciative of the many contributions made to the cultural life of the county through its own symphony organization.

Nixon Stirs Old Disputes By Subversive Control Order

By CHARLOTTE MOULTON

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon's revival of the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) still faces opposition in both Congress and the courts.

When Congress returns in September from its summer recess, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N. C., intends to resume his efforts to keep the board in its former state of virtual inactivity.

Further, American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) attorneys are working up a lawsuit which they hope to file in federal district court here in a few days.

Both Ervin and the ACLU argue that the SACB's duties are laid down in the Internal Security Act of 1950. Therefore, they contend, enlargement of these duties through Nixon's July 2 executive order is an infringement on Congress' power to legislate. They also say that the new responsibilities deny all Americans freedom of association.

ERVIN AND 27 colleagues of both parties were angry that Nixon did not issue his order until after the House passed the SACB appropriation. The order was not published until two days after the Senate hearings.

For the last several years the duties of the SACB have been confined to declaring organizations to be "Communist-action," "Communist-front" and "Communist-infiltrated."

Under Nixon's order, the SACB will concern itself with six categories: (1) totalitarian, (2) fascist, (3) communist, (4) subversive, (5) those that have adopted a policy "of unlawfully advocating the commission of acts of force or violence to deny others their rights" under federal or state laws or constitutions, and (6) those which seek "to overthrow the government of the United States or any state or subdivision thereof by unlawful means."

Civil liberties interests see this extension as the opening wedge for harassing peace groups or any others with far-out ideas.

THE ADMINISTRATION argued that the plan is much better than having the U.S. attorney general on his own designating organizations that are "subversive" as has been done in the past. The board is said to provide "an independent judicial agency," with the right of appeal to a federal court.

There are 25 groups on the attorney general's old list, many of which are now defunct. The board has been instructed by the President to update the list.

In a way, history is repeating itself, since Nixon played a major role in creating the SACB when he was a member of the House in 1948. The controversy also points up another area of the President's criticism with the Supreme Court, whose decisions took away many of the board's former activities.

Its present five members — Chairman John W. Mahan, John S. Patterson, Simon F. McHugh Jr., Otto F. Otepka and Paul J. O'Neill —each draw $36,000 a year in salary.

AS CHAIRMAN of a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities (now the Internal Security Committee), Nixon held hearings in 1948 on domestic communist subversion. He had already cosponsored legislation known as the Mundt-Nixon bill.

A revised version became law two years later over President Harry S Truman's veto, but as a board spokesman says, Nixon came up "with the original idea in basic concept."

The act was one of a series of measures designed to curb the communist movement here following the success of so-called fifth column infiltrator groups in Europe in the 1930s.

A Communist-action organization was required to register with the attorney general, and if it did not, its members were obliged to do so. Members could not use U. S. passports or work for the government.

THE SUPREME COURT upheld the registration requirement for the Communist Party in 1961 but four years later found that individuals could invoke their Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

In 1967 Congress deleted all registration requirements from the law, leaving only the board's hearings and reports and their publication in the federal register as a reason for the agency's existence.

Nixon has asked Congress to change its name to the Federal Internal Security Board, and give it power to subpoena witnesses and cite persons who misbehave in its presence. The named organization gets a public hearing, with right to counsel and cross-examination. This proposal is now pending in the form of a bill.

Blacks Returning To South, Disenchanted With North

WASHINGTON — Blacks are beginning to return home to the South.

This is the most revealing sign that exciting things are happening in the cause of racial justice in the United States.

The tide of reverse migration of middle-class Negroes to the South from all parts of the country is setting in. It is visible and it is rising.

Since 1950 some 3.5 million Negro-Americans left the South. Now many are returning.

THE REASONS ARE that the South is beckoning to them with better economic prospects, more desegregated schools, and a far more comfortable mental climate than they experience where they have been living in the North.

This is one of the discoveries set out by Ebony magazine in a superb and wide-ranging report on "The South Today."

Ebony is no soft defender of Negro rights and has always been willing to call a spade a spade when uncovering racial grievances. But it is also willing to see progress where it is being made and in this special issue it discovers notable progress in the South.

THE MAGAZINE'S reporters find not just a willingness to grant access to schools, restaurants and other public accommodations to blacks, but something much more fundamental — a change in attitudes which was not dreamed of 10 years ago. They write:

"Whites who said they would never sit beside a black man on a bus are doing so today. Whites who once said they would not let their children attend school with 'Nigras' are doing so today. Whites who once thought that blacks could do little else than clean, cook, plow, chop cotton and strip tobacco are now grudgingly admitting that blacks can sell shoes, operate cash registers, take shorthand, operate punch presses and successfully fill other jobs that had previously been closed to them."

And then this important conclusion: "For the black man of the South, progress in the civil rights movement has been much more present and much more rewarding than it has been for his brothers in the North."

Take the case of James Meredith. It was less than 10 years ago when Meredith needed the National Guard and federal troops just to enroll in the law school of the University of Mississippi. Now, Meredith is quoted as saying: "The racial atmosphere in the northern cities is becoming extremely tense and it's going to increase. On a person-to-person, day-to-day basis, the South is a more livable place for balacks than any other place in the nation."

Today, about 280,000 blacks are registered to vote in this year's election, and Mayor Charles Evers of Fayette, Miss., a Negro leader, will be running for governor.

THE OVERALL FINDING of the Ebony study is that the years since the Supreme Court decision "have been filled with victories." The magazine's Washington bureau chief, Simeon Booker, found black capitalism "tops in the South." He reported that at a time of adverse economic conditions generally, "the South re-emerges as the 'promised land.'"

The data from the 1970 census parallels the Ebony report. While the gap between whites and blacksin nearly all measures of economic progress remains large, it is being narrowed. Example: Blacks increased their median income by 50 per cent from 1960 to 1970; more blacks are finishing college; many more blacks are going to predominantly white colleges.

The census data shows that in the whole South, income for blacks and whites is rising more rapidly, poverty is dropping more substantially, and every economic index is more favorable than anywhere else in the nation.

Everything isn't rosy there by any means, but as more blacks return to the South they say, "It's good to be home again."

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Movie Version Of U.S. Fatal To All Hope

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — America's turning inward is testified to by magazine covers, television series, public opinion polls, by the public reaction to political show business.

The President plays Mandrake pulling a trip to Peking out of the hat by magic and the audience is distracted for a moment, then shrugs off that sleight of hand and returns to its bemusement with hamburger prices and job prospects.

There is far more passionate interest in school buses than in moon rovers.

A COMPARATIVE STUDY of national attitudes in 1964 and this year finds 77 per cent of Americans wanting now for the country to concentrate harder on domestic problems and less on what happens abroad. The 1964 figure was 55 per cent.

Across the country peopel tell you the same thing. The mood of self-examination helps sell books like Bill Moyers' "Listening to America" and Calvin Trillin's "U.S. Journal." And of course, of all the media, the movies are said by sociologists and movie fans to be the "now" thing, the one that captures reality and the one the great masses respond to most surely.

For all those reasons the newspaperman, trying to keep up with what is happening outside presidential press conferences and congressional committee hearings, quivers with curiosity when he reads about a film that promises to put all America together.

"DIRECTED, ACTED, photographed and scored with the restraint and control of an aware, mature filmmaker . . . vividly catches the tempo and rhythm of American life in much the same way that good rock does. A real movie!"

That is what the ad in the New York Times quoted the movie reviewer of the New York Times as saying about a film called "Two-Lane Blacktop."

Despite two warning signals, I responded to this plug. The red lights were the word "filmmaker" and the comparison to "good rock."

As anyone who has talked to a filmmaker knows, a filmmaker is the ultimate disciple of the theories of Marshall McLuhan — that the medium is the message, that it matters not what the film says as long as it says it with a maximum of technique. Technique, in this case, is cutting, splicing, juxtaposing, stopping, and doing all the other things you can do with film but can't do with type — for the simple reason that they can be done.

And to compare anything to "good rock" is automatically to put on guard the lifelong music enthusiast who has yet to hear rock he would describe as good.

PREJUDICES ACKNOWLEDGED and put away for two hours, I tried "Two-Lane Blacktop." You may know that it is about two young men with long hair (in real life, both rock performers) who are in love with a hopped-up Chevrolet and heading east sucking other hot-rodders into racing bets. Along the way they pick up a teenybopper who will go anywhere they are going, and contract a cross-country bet with an older man in a newer car, about who will get to Washington first.

The film is voted "R," which implies that there is something adult about it. Apparently, the raters made this decision because the hero says a bad word, and one night he comes back to the motel and hears his partner and the teenybopper huffing and puffing inside, so sits down to sleep outside the door.

There is a possibility, however, that the nonautomotively motivated may miss something risque in the dialogue. It consists of short, punchy statements of belief like, "Fourfiftyfour?" "Fourninetyeight." "Overhead zumboozers split varifold transchafafa crocogator?" "No, underfold retrodoozy floblock hertzomator." From what might charitably be called expressions on the faces of the stars, I gather there is something highly erotic about this dialect, but in my ignorance I missed its full impact.

THE OVERALL IMPACT, however, is that if this empty film "vividly catches the tempo and rhythm of American life," then America is in far worse shape than Eugene McCarthy ever told us it was. Worse than Vladimir Lenin prophesied back during his revolution, worse even than Dr. Arthur Burns, the cyairman of the Federal Reserve Board, was saying just last week.

The one hopeful idea it inspires is that despite the growing disenchantment with college education now reported from every quadrant, the unemployment situation will not be worsened. The illiterate, in fact those who never made it through kindergarten and cannot compose a complete English sentence, can always make it as filmmakers.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By GEORGE NEVIN

It's Nice To Be Wanted, Even For Scavenger Hunt

It's nice to feel wanted, even if it's only briefly during a scavenger hunt.

Long-haired visitors to Boyd Park in San Rafael got that feeling Monday as bands of roving youngsters combed the park, peering under rocks, picnic tables and trees.

I was just finishing the remains of a rather meager lunch when three pink-cheeked boys, lists in hand, ran up to me.

"Are you a hippie?" they inquired breathlessly, a little nervously.

Following my instinct to deny everything when in doubt, I said I wasn't, and indeed had a gainful job and bathed daily.

They went away, and I returned to my newspaper, but they were back again in a few minutes.

When, visions of an impromptu lynching in my head, I again denied I was a hippie, one of them, sensing my reluctance, thrust a piece of paper at me.

IT WAS A LIST headed "Scavenger Hunt" and there, among the butterflies, flowers and round rocks which ordinarily make up such lists, it was: 12. One Hippie.

Mumbling that I supposed I qualified and had thought they might have intended to hurt me, I agreed to accompany them to the top of the park so number 12 could be properly crossed off the list.

It seemed like a long trudge up the hill. I tried to keep my sense of humor and even manged a weak grin as the three boys yelled "We found a hippie" at the top of their lungs, drawing curious stares from the assembled multitude.

Weaving our way through the knots of park-goers who turned away from their lunches and conversations to follow our progress, we made it to a picnic table at the edge of the park.

There a member of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department, sponsor of the playground program, congratulated the boys, thanked me profusely, and scratched number 12 from the list.

IT WAS ALL I could do to get back down the hill in one piece. At least three other groups approached me as I returned to my sunny spot on the lawn ans asked if I'd be their hippie too.

"Sorry, fellows," I told them, "I've already been claimed. Why don't you go down to Fourth Street and find someone?"

"Heck, we're not supposed to go out of the park," said one, a chubby, very crestfallen boy.

Another group wouldn't take no for an answer. They first wanted me to remove my glasses and my shirt so I wouldn't be recognized, and, when I refused, said they only needed my head (and hair) and I could sit on the sholders of one of them to look like another person.

They were still looking for hippies a few minutes later as I ducked out of the park.

Romney's Views On Jobless

ATLANTA (UPI)—Blaming high unemployment on the hundreds of thousands of returning Vietnam veterans, Housing Secretary George Romney said Thursday night Americans must choose between more casualties in Vietnam or more joblessness at home.

Romney, in a speech to the National Association of Real Estate Brokers convention, said:

"Nearly 800 million Americans are now at work, the highest in history. While unemployment is still too high, it is down somewhat from its peak and on the way lower.

"More importantly, our unemployment is high because our casualities in Vietnam are down and two million of the unemployed are those home from Vietnam, out of military service, no longer producing military products.

"Except for those two million unemployed as a result of our moving from war to peace, our unemployment rate would be about 4.3 per cent — that is, we would have full employment."

At an earlier news conference, Romney said: "One of the basic questions Americans are going to have to ask themselves is will people be willing to have more boys killed in Vietnam or higher unemployment at home."

President Nixon inherited an economy that was totally unsound but has turned it around, Romney said in his speech.

The secretary pointed to housing starts, which he said are up 60 per cent from the spring of 1970, as a sign the economy is headed up once again.

"I do not mean to gloss over the problems that still are prevalent in the economy," Romney said. "But I do think excessive pessimism has been permeating the country ... from what you read and hear, one would think that the economy is in the depths of a major recession — no wonder a majority have their doubts. But that is not the case at all."

Here We Go Again: More West Marin Master Planning

To begin today's column let me first say I had my 83rd birthday last Sunday and can't say that anything seems different this evening as I sit down to write. Somehow it is kind of hard to believe that I have been around for over eighty hundredths of a century, but that's the way it is. Certainly I am most grateful that I have been able to see and watch such events as the Apollo 15 success. I was able to watch it all from beginning to the splash down. What an achievement!

On the 16th of last month, while discussing the Green Gulch affair, I said, "If we can passively allow the planning department to spend $1,724,570 (net) in six years principally on study after study as to how they will permit people to live in the county (according to the whim of those in office at the moment, to be changed by succeeding groups). . . ."

WELL HERE WE GO again: The heading on the front page story on Wednesday — "West Marin Master Plan Is Scrapped." "Marin County supervisors voted 4-0 to scrap the 1967 West Marin Master Plan but also took steps to protect the area from development by increasing the minimum lot size to A-2 zones from 7,500 square feet to two acres, or 87,130 square feet."

This was the second time around. The planning commission had recommended half-acre lot minimum each time. Now it seems they have agreed to spend another two years on a study for another West Marin Master Plan and spend some more of your dollars. How about that? Mark my words, the extremists will get it in the neck before they are through.

Let's consider what is being talked about. A lot 75 by 100 feet is a 7,500 square foot area. An acre is 43,500 square feet. So such a lot is a sixth of an acre in round figures. A half-acre is 21,750 square feet.

WHEN WE CAME here 53 years ago, much of Ross Valley — such places as Kent Woodlands, Del Mesa, Greenbrae — were like West Marin is now, as was what are now Terra Linda and Marinwood. Now look around at the good citizens who live in these places today. Has it been wrong for them to have been permitted to come here?

Have a look at the homesites of many of the extremists who are in the forefront of the pressure groups. Do they conform? Do a little look-seeing and get your own answer.

Pay Increase For Firemen

The Kentfield Fire District board has approved a step pay plan for volunteer firemen who work relief shifts.

Fire Chief Kenneth T. Kamp said the step plan — replacing a flat $30 rate — pays from $25 to $35 per 24-hour shift depending on the volunteer's experience.

The $8,000 budgeted annually for relief pay will cover the step pay, Kamp said.

The board on Wednesday appointed Fireman Rodney Biddleman a delegate to the California Firemen Association meeting in Redding Sept. 17.

Challenge To Aussie Leadership

SYDNEY (UPI)—Australian opposition leader Gough Whitlam said today he planned a showdown with Prime Minister William McMahon over a crisis of confidence in the nation's leadership that could lead to new electins.

Whitlam returned to Sydney from a North Queensland vacation and told newsmen the ruling Liberal Party is deeply split over McMahon's firing Thursday of Defense Minister John Gorton.

"There is now a strong case for government members to consider crossing the floor," Whitlam said. "The events of the past week clearly warrant an early election."

It culminated Thursday in Gorton's dismissal.

McMahon named Education Minister David Fairbairn today to succeed Gorton. Fairbairn will retain the education portfolio.

In his first comment on the Liberal party crisis, Whitlam indicated his Labor Party would seek a general election when the House of Representatives resumes sitting in Canberra Tuesday.

Whitlam said McMahon has been sacking senior ministers "at the rate of one a month, apparently not so much because of their lack of ability but at his (McMahon's) lack of ability to get on with them."

Apart from a brief statement, in which he said it was the prime minister's "prerogative" to dismiss a cabinet minister, Gorton has not commented on his dismissal.

Novato Youths Needing Work

The Novato Youth Employment Agency is seeking jobs for 35 young people, according to Ron Pugh, director.

Since the agency started eight weeks ago, it has placed 40 boys and 10 girls in 110 jobs, but "if we're going to find work for the other young people we've got to receive calls from people who have jobs to be done," Pugh said.

The agency, sponsored by the Novato Rotary Club and the city parks and recreation department, will be open through Aug. 20.

Pair Bound Over On Pot Charges

Kenneth Edward Freedman, 22, and Laurie Beth Freedman, 20, both of Novato, have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana, as well as a misdemeanor count of possessing a device for smoking pot.

They are to be arraigned in superior court Monday.

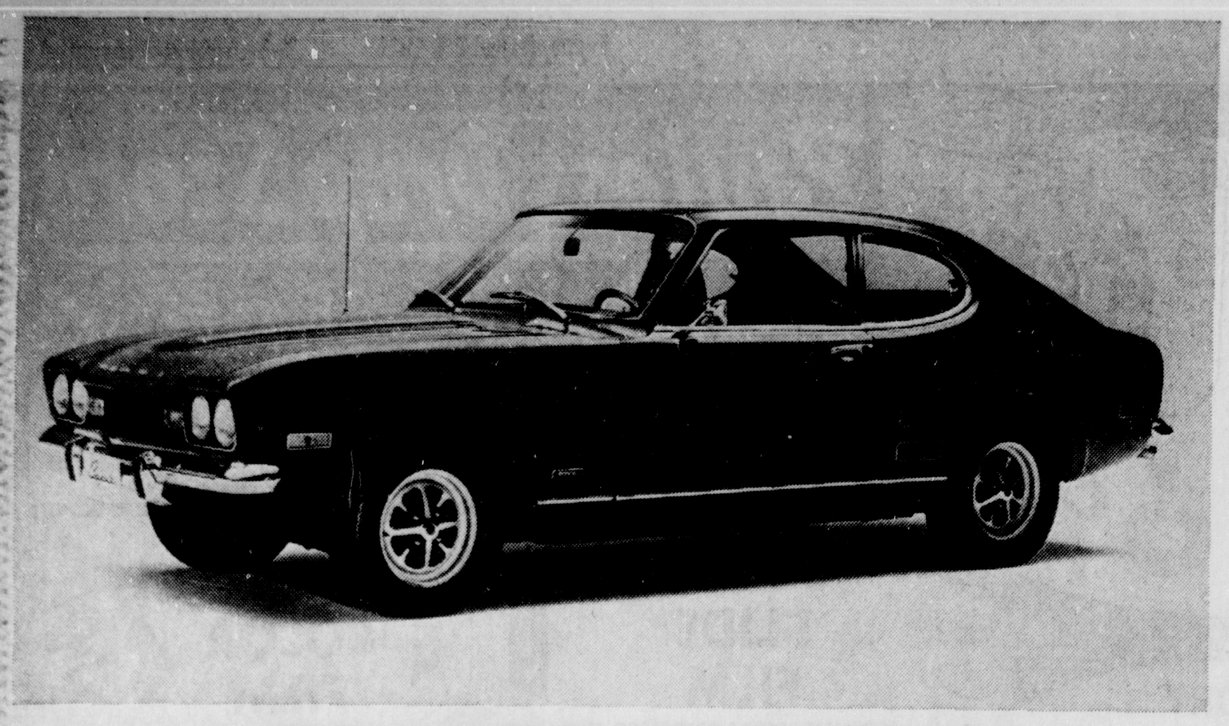

The couple was arrested June 23 when Marin drug abuse agents obtained a search warrant for their residence after marijuana plants were allegedly seen in their backyard.

3-Cent Saving: Tax Rate Correction

Discovery of a mathematical error in the Tamalpais Community Services District budget will save taxpayers 3 cent in the tax rate.

District directors have discovered that the 38-cent per $100 assessed valuation tax rate approved Tuesday contained an error and the rate should have been 35 cents. Of this amount 12 cents will go for sanitation and 23 cents for parks and recreation.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Chance For More Capital In Stocks

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I notice that you often advise buying stocks which yield no more, and many times less, than savings accounts. I have always preferred the safety of a bank account rather than the worry of stocks. I don't understand your reasoning, but would like to be better informed. — M.S.

A. I agree that a savings account is the safest investment. Furthermore, no one should invest in the stock market without first accumulating an adequate reserve in the bank. The reason that I suggest stocks selling at savings account rates — and lower — is because through owning shares you have the opportunity to enhance your capital, sometimes substantially.

Savings accounts are fixed as to principal and cannot increase in value except through the additions of compound interest. Thus, for those who can afford the mental strain and the financial risk inherent in all stock investments, I believe — after full savings requirements have been met — that a person should put a part of his funds into quality stocks.

Q. I have shares of Sterling Electronics which I bought several years ago at about $35. It is now selling around $3.00. Will it ever recover in price? Should I continue to hold this stock? Also, what do you think of a new issue called Syntonics Technology? I am 65 and cannot afford to risk much. — K.P.

A. My records would indicate your purchase of Sterling Electronics was made in 1968; that year the stock reached 36½. In spite of generally improving sales over the years, mainly via acquisitions, net income for the company has been trending downward since 1967. While diversification may pay off in the long run for Sterling, I do not feel that either this security or Syntonics Technology is the type of investment you should own or purchase.

In view of your age and financial limitations, I feel that a more conservative stock such as Nabisco, Inc. or H. J. Heinz would be more suited to your needs.

THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Small Rise In Coast GNP

The coast region of California, Oregon and Washington showed a gross product of $144 billion in July — up only slightly from June in current dollars, according to a report by the Bank of California.

The July figure was 5.4 per cent ahead of a year ago and up only .15 per cent when adjusted for price changes. The flattening out is attributed to several factors — primarily rail and shipping strikes which suppressed output and distribution in a number of industries.

Also, personal spending has not been rising particularly rapidly, according to the bank, and business spending for fixed investment, which rose rapidly during the first half of the year, declined in July. These causes are expected to retard the economy in the near future as well.

The bank's forecast for August anticipates a very slight increase in California's gross national product, a slight rise in personal income, a further dip in business spending and decreases in government spending.

LONGS DRUG STORES has reported $47.6 million in sales for the quarter ended July 31 and $90.5 million for the half year period — up 17 per cent from last year. Directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 10 cents payable Sept. 21.

ARMOUR AND CO. has elected Jess Nicks president. He has been vice chairman since May, 1970 and executive vice president of Greyhound Corp. since May of this year — a post he will continue. Prior to joining Greyhound he was vice president of General Brewing Corp. in San Francisco for three years.

McDONNEL DOUGLAS CORP., St. Louis aerospace firm, has reported second quarter sales of $451.8 million and earnings at 63 cents per share. This compared with $599.2 million last year and 81 cents per share in earnings. The decline in earnings were anticipated and the comapny forecasts an increase in profits next year.

McCULLOCH OIL CORP. reported an increase of 32 per cent in per share earnings for the second quarter ended June 30. Net income rose to $4.6 million or 33 cents per share on revenues of $28.6 million. For the comparable period in 1970 the company reported earnings of $3.3 million or 25 cents per share on revenues of $21.6 million. For the first six months of this year income was $8.1 million or 58 cents per share on revenues of $53 million, compared to $5.7 million in earnings or 44 cents per share on $38.4 million in revenues in the first half of 1970.

KAISER STEEL CORP., Oakland has announced it will increase base prices and extras for tin mill products, effective with shipments Oct. 1. The increases will follow the pattern recently established by Bethlehem Steel and other eastern producers and will average about 8 per cent.

OPTIMUM SYSTEMS, INC., headquartered in Palo Alto has opened a data center at 22 Battery Street in downtown San Francisco. The new facility is part of a planned program to expand the company's services in most major metropolitan regions.

MEMOREX CORP. and its affiliate ILC Periperals Leasing Corp. showed a combined net loss of $3.8 million for the first half of this year, compared to a net profit of $3.8 million or $1.02 per share for the first six months of 1970.

Norton Simon Inc. Tells Records Set

NEW YORK (BW) — New records in sales, net income and earnings per share for the fourth quarter and for the fiscal year ended June 30 have been reported by Morton Simon Inc., one of the nation's largest consumer products companies.

Norton Simon Inc. consists of ten operating companies: Canada Dry Corp., Glass Containers Corp., Hunt-Wesson Foods Inc., McCall Information Services Co., McCall Pattern Co., McCall Printing Co., McCall Publishing Co., Somerset Importers Ltd., Talent Associates Ltd. and United Can Co.

Stocks Turn Mixed; Moderate Turnover

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market turned mixed at midday today after chalking up its best gain in more than eight months Thursday. Turnover was moderate.

Profit taking played a key role in the turnaround, although traders also were showing normal pre-weekend caution. Concern about the extent of economic recovery and worry about the dollar also slowed demand for stocks.

Standard & Poor's 400 stock index was unchanged at 96.00, but advances topped declines, 585 to 492 among the 1,408 issues crossing the tape.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were Loews warrants down slightly on a volume of 62,000, Imperial Oil fractionally higher on 25,000 shares, and Syntex about steady on 12,000 shares.

Dow Contract In Desalting Field

WALNUT CREEK (BW) — Dow Chemical U.S.A.'s western division has been awarded a government contract to design and test large hollow fiber modules for desalting brackish waters.

The $239,987 contract was awarded by U.S. Department of Interior's Office of Saline Water. The design and testing will be done at Dow's Walnut Creek research center, which previously developed an improved hollow fiber cartridge for brackish water desalination based on melt-spun cellulose triacetate fibers.

PSA Tells July Passenger Figure

SAN DIEGO (BW) — Pacific Southwest Airlines (PSA) carried 497,866 passengers during July, a 4.2 per cent increase over the 477,853 carried in the like period last year.

July's total brings to 3,173,341 the number of passengers carried thus far in 1971 and represents an 8 per cent increase over the 2,937,812 carried through July 1970.

Today is Friday, Aug. 13, the 225th day of 1971.

The moon is in its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Leo.

American pioneer social reformer Lucy Stone was born Aug. 13, 1818.

On this day in history:

In 1923 the song 'Yes, We Have No Bananas' became the nation's No. 1 hit.

In 1930 Capt. Frank Hawkes set a speed record by flying from Los Angeles to New York in 12 hours, 25 minutes.

In 1955 Russia announced a pending reduction in its armed forces of 640,000 men.

In 1961 the Communists began building the Berlin Wall, dividing the city after more than two million persons had fled to West Germany in 12 years.

A thought for today: British novelist John Galsworthy said, 'If you do not think about the future, you cannot have one.'

Black Leader To Visit South Africa

PRETORIA (UPI)—Malawi President Ho Kamuzu Banda will be the first black African leader to make an official tour of South Africa when he arrives here for a weeklong state visit Monday.

Hilgard Muller, South Africa's foreign affairs minister, announced the official tour today. South Africa maintains a policy of separation of the races and has been on a campaign to strengthen its ties with black Africa.

Never Should Bid Doubtful Slam On A Friday The 13th

On Friday the 13th it's considered bad luck to argue about the right-of-way with a freight train or an enraged rhinoceros. It's also a bad day to bid a doubtful slam unless you know how to play the cards well.

WASTES TIME

West opened the king of spades, and South fiddled about for seven or eight minutes before giving up two spade tricks.

"Very unlucky, partner," South remarked. "You had the wrong doubleton. If you held only two spades, I'd have made the slam."

"You should have spoken up sooner," North pointed out. "If I'd known you wanted me to have a doubleton spade, I'd have done something about it."

It was very obliging of North to make this kind offer, but we actually know that South should have made the slam anyway. If you haven't seen the right line of play, look for it before you read on.

OBVIOUS SINGLETON

West is marked with a five-card spade suit for his overcall, and East's nine is an obvious singleton. That is the only clue you need.

Take the first trick with the ace of spades, draw two rounds of trumps, cash the ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Then run the three top clubs, discarding a spade from your hand. Continue with dummy's last club, and discard another spade.

EAST CAUGHT

East must win the trick but cannot return a spade. East must return a diamond or a club, for lack of anything else. In either case, you ruff in the dummy and discard the last low spade from your hand.

If the hand looks too tough, save it for Saturday the 14th, and it will practically play itself.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player doubles.

You hold:
♠-9
♦-Q 7 6 4 3
♣-J 10 9 8 6

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You don't like spades, but you cannot afford to rescue your partner with this piece of cheese.

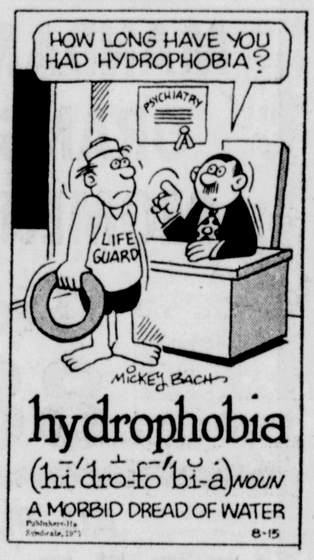

Records Book To Bar Eaters

LONDON (UPI)—The great eaters, guzzlers and gulpers of the world may soon be banished from the Guinness Book of Records—for their own good.

A spokesman for the publisher, Guinness Superlatives, said Wednesday: "Some of these records go to such extremes that it is dangerous to try to break them. Someone did do himself an injury recently trying to break the record for drinking beer standing on his head."

So, the publishers added, about 30 eating and drinking feats—including gulping 130 prunes in two minutes and swallowing 210 live goldfish — will probably be barred from next year's edition.

BAD LUCK ON THE HIGHWAY

Motorists passing through the tiny east-central Texas town of Lovelady often do a double-take when they encounter this sign. However ominous it looks, though, its only purpose is to inform them that the equally small town of Friday, Tex., is 13 miles away. The sign is especially appropriate on this Friday the 13th.

Plea By Youth To Burglary

Craig Robert Anderson, 18, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary and possessing stolen property.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

Anderson and two other men were arrested July 11 leaving the Tamalpais Valley home of Marin Grand Jury Foreman Milen C. Dempster.

Sheriff's deputies said the home had been ransacked. In the trio's vehicle, deputies said, was found property that had been stolen earlier that day from another Tamalpais Valley residence.

Anderson previously had been referred to Marin Juvenile Court, but was found unacceptable for trial in that court, it was reported in municipal court yesterday.

His two codefendants — James McGovern, 20, and James Floyd Angle, 23, both of San Francisco — are awaiting trial on the charges in superior court.

Condor Colony Is Discovered

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A previously unknown colony of the nearly extinct California condor is making its home on remote Diablo Peak in Baja California, Dr. Ed N. Harrison, a zoologist, said Thursday.

Until the discovery, the total population of the largest living bird of prey was thought to be fewer than 60.

Harrison, president of the Western Foundation of Vertebrate Zoology, said one condor was seen and it was believed that at least 10 and possibly 40 of the big birds lived in the desolate area.

Socialists Name Presidential Running Mates

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Socialist Workers Party has named a 30-year old Atlanta woman and a 20-year-old black man from Chicago as 1972 presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

Linda Jeness said she and her running mate, Andrew Pulley, will campaign despite the fact they would be under the age limit of 35 required by the constitution for candidates to the executive offices.

The presidential candidate said she felt the age provision is unconstitutional and should be repealed.

The nominations were made at the party's convention here Thursday.

Students Set Record In A Rocking Chair

FALMOUTH, Mass. (UPI)—Two bleary-eyed college students held joint title to the world's rocking chair record today, after 144 hours, 45 minutes of creaking back and fourth.

Carolyn Berry, 20, and Steve Estes, 19, both of Falmouth completed their six days of rocking Thursday.

PROPHET JONES
Evangelist dies

Flamboyant Minister Dies At 63

DETROIT (UPI) — Prophet Jones, a flamboyant preacher whose flock provided him with a white mink coat, $17,000 diamond ring and a 54-room mansion, died Thursday of a heart attack at the age of 63.

Jones, who once prophesied "Men will stop dying in the year 2000," was at his courtappointed guardian's home in Detroit's Inner City at the time of his death. At the height of his popularity in the early 1950s, Prophet Jones sometimes stood knee deep in money piled at his feet amid the clang of tambourines. He had a French chateau-style mansion, a fleet of Cadillacs, 18 diamond rings, topazes, garnets, the mink coat, a closet full of 400 suits and a following which gave him all those goods.

RECENT DECLINE

By the time of his death, Prophet Jones' popularity had declined to the point where he preached until last year out of a storefront church next to an "adult" theater.

Prophet Jones' real name and title was the Rt. Rev. James Frances Marion Jones, dominion ruler of the Church of the Universal Triumph, the Dominion of God Inc. Born in Birmingham, Ala., Jones came to Detroit in 1938 saying a divine message had rustled like a breeze in his ear and told him to come.

A slim man with a lean face, deep-sunk eyes, and oratory that gripped his congregation, Jones began his services at midnight and often did not end until 2 a.m. or 3 a.m.

At offering time, a band of "White Angels" pounded tambourines. The shouting faithful flocked to his feet, laying bills around him until he stood knee deep in them.

MERGER OUT

In 1953, Jones went to Philadelphia to negotiate a possible merger with Father Divine, another black spiritual leader. With him, Jones took two valets, two secretaries, a hair dresser, a cook and two bodyguards. But he and Divine failed to agree on the question of women, Divine saying married people should never consummate a marriage and Jones maintaining they should "mate in season."

His popularity plummeted in 1956 when, in February, a vice bureau raiding party said it found him in a bedroom with two boys and charged him with gross indecency. Jones was found innocent by a jury.

He suffered a stroke last fall which left him partially paralyzed and speechless. As he lay in Ford Hospital, creditors seized his Cadillacs and furs and jewels. The courts stepped in to straighten out the property, estimated at $2 million.

Novato Man Arrested On Burglary Count

I-J Special Report

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO — A Novato man was chased by two motel bellboys and then by police yesterday before being arrested on suspicion of burglary.

The chase started for Joseph Edwin Tucker, 31, at the Holiday Inn near San Francisco Airport, when an alarm went off that had been installed to protect television sets from theft, according to police.

Tucker was arraigned later in the day on a burglary charge in San Mateo County Municipal Court, Northern Judicial District, in South San Francisco. He was held in the county jail in lieu of $2,500 bail and was to enter a plea to the charge today.

Ex-Governor Drops Life Libel Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)— Former Gov. James A. Rhodes today dropped his $10 million libel suit against Life Magazine because the publication had acknowledged he did not act "illegally or dishonorably" in commuting the sentence of mobster Thomas "Yonnie" Licavoli.

Life's article entitled "The Governor and the Mobster" told of Rhodes commuting the life sentence of Licavoli to second degree murder, making him eligibile for parole which was subsequently denied.

"Last year I instituted a libel suit against Time Inc., because of a 1969 article in Life Magazine which charged me with having acted improperly when I commuted the sentence of a convict, Licavoli, to a lesser degree of murder," Rhodes said in a statement.

"I commuted that sentence solely on the unanimous recommendation of the Ohio Parole Board showing that Licavoli had already served 35 years and was in extremely poor health and that his prison record had been good.

"Life Magazine has now acknowledged that it did not state or intend to state that I had acted illegally or dishonorably in commuting Licavoli's sentence.

"Under the circumstances my honor has been vindicated and the cloudy over my children and family has been removed."

Licavoli, head of the Prohibition era Detroit-Toledo based Purple Gang was sentenced to life in prison in 1935.

Five Days With Woman's Body

OXNARD, Calif. (UPI)—A 10-year-old boy lived alone with the body of his grandmother for five days before her death was discovered, authorities said Thursday.

The boy, a fourth-grade student, told police his grandmother, Mrs. Frances May Elliott, 69, died Saturday when she fell in the bedroom of their home.

The boy's mother was visiting friends out of state at the time of the accident. Authorities said the death was not reported until the mother returned here Wednesday.

Couple Dies In Hollywood Blaze

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A Honolulu couple were burned to death and another person critically injured after a fire blazed through sections of a ground floor apartment late Thursday night.

The victims were identified as Harry Smith, 77, and his wife, Helen, 56.

Fire authorities said the blaze was well underway when firemen first arrived, but they managed to prevent it from spreading to other residences in the 20 unit complex.

ROLL CALL RECORD

How Behr, Bagley Voted On Recent Legislation

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Here is how Sen. Peter H. Behr and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both R-San Rafael, were recorded in recent roll call votes compiled by Capitol News Service:

BALLOT — Permits absentee ballot voter to vote in person at his polling place upon surrender of his absentee ballot (passed 41-34). AB 1229, Waxman. Against — Bagley.

Soviet Precedent In Dual China Policy

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Soviet Union already has established a precedent for the dual representation policy invoked by the United States to support membership of both the People's Republic of China and Generalissimo Chiang Kaishek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan, U.S. Ambassador George Bush said.

"No one talks of a threeRussia policy," Bush said, but two republics of the Soviet Union — the Ukraine and Byelorussia (White Russia) — are themselves charter members of the world organization.

Bush made the point on the three Soviet members of the U.N. in drawing a parallel to the Nixon Administration's new two-China policy, which he said is more accurately stated as "a policy of dual representation."

"Our government is deadly serious about this policy," Bush said in a meeting Thursday with members of the United Press International editorial board.

Bush denied reports the United States was not vigorously trying to save the seat of Nationalist China in the United Nations, as Secretary of State William P. Rogers said it would do when he announced U.S. support for Communist China's U.N. membership last month.

"What we are trying to do is accommodate two realities," he said, "to affirm the right to representation of the People's Republic of (Communist) China and to affirm the right of continued representation to the Republic of (Nationalist) China.

"We want to see the Republic of China remain in the United Nations. We think there is a dangerous precedent in kicking out somebody."

But precedent for dual representation already has been established, Bush said in response to a question, by the Soviet Union. The Ukrainian and Byelorussian republics were admitted as charter members of the United Nations at Soviet insistence in 1945 and, along with the Russian (Federated) republic, give the Soviet Union three seats in the 127 member organization. There are 12 other republics, or provinces, within the Soviet Union.

There is a major political difference, however, in that the three Soviet republics are one within the Kremlin whereas the two Chinas are avowed enemies, each refusing to recognize the existence of the other.

Bush said the United States is seeking not only support but also advice from other nations on its plan to put both Chinas into the United Nations. He said he had consulted 66 other U.N. diplomats on the issue so far and would confer with others before the proposal is made to the General Assembly.

"There is no plan yet in terms of strategy," he said. "We're asking our colleagues the best way to go about it.

"The big thing is to have enough votes in your pocket to have things go your way."

Concert Set For Sunday

The Donald Pippin Baroque Ensemble Concert will perform Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Stinson Beach Community Center.

They will play the Concerto in D Major by Telemann, Suite from the "Fairy Queen" by Purcell, Trio for Strings by Milhaud, Quartet K. 285 for Flute and Strings by Mozart and Quintet in D Major by J. C. Bach.

The concert is sponsored by the Stinson Beach Allied Arts, which has given similar concerts in the past. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

STUDY ABROAD

Spain Inspires Life's Goal

By BETTY FROST

"Since we were a school and tried to learn their language and live in their culture, we were accepted by the people of Spain", said Gail Carlsen.

Gail was one of 45 young Americans from the East, Midwest, and West who spent a year at Blanes, Spain, studying and traveling under the auspices of the Center for Inter Cultural Studies. There were 15 Marin County teen-agers in the program, all high school students, in their sophomore, junior or senior years.

For instance, Gail completed all the required courses she would have needed for graduation from San Rafael High School, "plus many others," she explained.

For the first six months she worked very hard to become proficient in the Spanish language. "Now I can speak," she says proudly, "And this can be the chance to relate to the people. They are the warmest people, always willing to help you out." Even in the traditional bargaining for purchases, she found the Spanish willing to give the strangers helpful instruction.

GAIL CARLSEN, back in her family's home in San Rafael, reminises about the year she spent in Spain as a student under the Center for Intercultural Studies program. She holds an art book sent to her by a friend in Barcelona. The ship model was made by hand in Seville as a gift for Gail's father, Stanley W. Carlsen.

THE STUDENTS lived in a hotel in Blanes on the Costa Brava in the province of Jerona, about one hour by train from Barcelona. The hotel headquarters was right on the Mediterranean Sea, which provided excellent sea food. The San Rafael girl learned to love squid and found the paella, famed Spanish sea food and rice dish, "gorgeous."

What with cooking done in olive oil and the temptation of delicious pastries, the 18-year-old blonde gained a little weight during her stay abroad.

She found the Spanish people "so warm and friendly. Family members and close friends greet one another with two kisses and a hug." Gail was fortunate enough to be welcomed into a Spanish family.

Gail was invited to spend the holidays with a family in Molins de Rey in Catalonia. She spent three weeks in the home of a banker, his wife and six young children, the oldest being 10 years of age. This was at the Christmas vacation. She was also invited to return for the Easter holidays and whenever she had other free time she stayed with her family. Through them she was invited to attend a Catalonian wedding in Barcelona. She noted particularly the participation of the wedding guests in the ceremony, in which responses were sung.

A HIGHLIGHT of the educational program for Gail was the study tour of castles and cathedrals which the students took in February. They visited every Spanish province except the Basques. Although she enjoyed and appreciated the art, architecture and music of the country, her own goal for the future is to go into the medical field. She wants to study embryology, and will begin her college studies at California Lutheran College in the fall. This new life direction, she indicates, came directly from her experience in Spain, where under the Intercultural Studies program, she was able to do individual research, and also because she wished to be equipped to help people.

She observed that in Spain most young people work very hard. They start out working at age 13 or 14. Only a few, whose family circumstances permit, are able to go on to higher education.

What do the Spanish people think of their political leadership? "You can't talk about Franco," Gail said, "It would not be kind to discuss him with Spanish friends."

In a Latin country, anyone as fair as Gail was bound to attract attention. "Being a blonde has its ups and downs," she laughed. She found being "different" was the opening wedge for pleasant contacts with her contemporaries, but that it was somewhat unnerving to be stared at and pointed out.

Director of the high school-level program is Maxwell Hull, a former instructor at Tamalpais High School and San Rafael resident.

As a new crop of students enrolled in the program is preparing to leave in October, Gail envies them. She hopes to go to Europe again, perhaps at the college level on one of the education-abroad programs.

Poor Nutrition Feeds On Itself

NEW YORK (UPI) —Poor nutrition feeds on itself..

An economics professor writing for a professional journal blames price increases on fruits and vegetables for helping lower consumption of these vitamin-rich foods, which are necessary to good nutrition.

Lowered consumption in turn decreased demand, which led to limited supplies, which led inevitably to even higher prices.

Between 1955-1965, fresh produce prices rose an average of 22 per cent. The cost of individual items rose even more — 50 per cent in the case of cabbage, 43 per cent for grapefruit and 35 per cent for lemons.

THIS VICIOUS circle and its implications were described by John B. Parrish of the University of Illinois recently in the Journal of Nutrition Education. It is published by the nonprofit Society for Nutrition Education, whose funding has come from such agencies and organizations as the National Institutes of Health, the American Heart Assn., the Nutrition Foundation, Inc., and independent food and drug manufacturers.

The supply- and- demand dilemma is only a small part of the worsening picture. Parrish predicted that our nutritional habits will get worse as our discretionary income gets better.

He also blamed increasing urbanization, diet and health food fads, the snack habit, more eating out and a corresponding decrease in the variety of home-prepared foods.

FARM FAMILIES and workers moving to cities virtually ended the era of regular Saturday home-delivery of fresh produce, butter, cheese and eggs by small farmers to their urban customers. Even urban families began to give up home gardening as their discretionary income increased.

These days, farmers themselves opt for limited-variety, convenience foods, Parrish wrote. The farmer with a big operation earns enough to buy what he wants in town and the small one is so busy working that there's little time to cook.

Until World War I, about 90 per cent of all food eaten in American homes was prepared there. The present figure is said to range between 55 and 60 per cent.

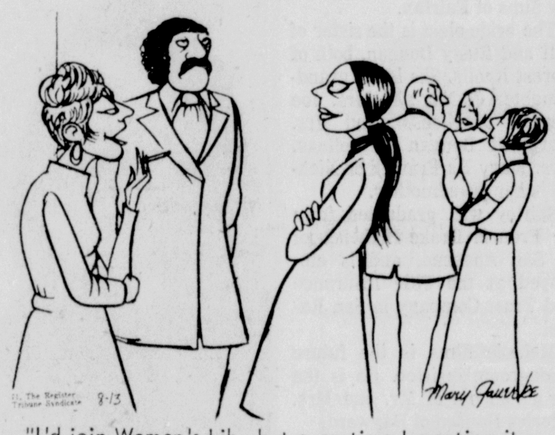

That wouldn't be bad if the resulting diet were a balanced one with a fair share of produce rich in Vitamins A and C. According to Parrish, the prewar diet was heavily weighted with green and yellow vegetables, which provide large amounts of both elements, as do many fresh fruits.

BY 1940, the decline was well underway. Parrish wrote that annual per capita consumption of fresh fruits slid from 139 pounds in 1940 to only 78 pounds in 1968. Total per capita consumption of vegetables dropped 61.4 per cent between 1945 and 1968.

Americans have filled the gap largely with snack and snack-related foods such as potato and corn chips, nuts, puffed snacks, cracker sandwiches, flavored crackers, pretzels, cheese, cold cuts, hamburgers, hot dogs, barbecue meats, soft drinks and beer.

A TREND toward meal skipping also took its toll, Parrish wrote. Meal skipping by teenagers has been widely publicized, but Parrish quoted one national survey that showed adults were equally remiss. Eleven per cent said they voluntarily skipped the evening meal, 16 per cent habitually skipped breakfast and 20 per cent said they skipped lunch — because they were either too busy or not hungry.

Amateurs Scale Mount Whitney

By MOLLY MARIN

Two couples, experienced in back-packing and camping, but with no previous mountain climbing background, climbed to the top of Mount Whitney, California's highest peak. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Grimes of Terra Linda and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Gilmore of Kentfield took three days to scale the 14,495 feet to the summit of the tallest mountain, with the exception of those in Alaska, in the United States.

The two couples went to Southern California for the climb last Thursday and returned to Marin Sunday. They left the town of Lone Pine to drive 13 miles to Whitney Portal, where they began the 10.7 mile ascent. returning by the same route. "The girls held up surprisingly well," Grimes said. Both Jerry and Dan are students at San Francisco State College, majoring in education. They particularly wanted to undertake the climb so they could photograph geologic formations on the mountain. "Everything went perfectly, and we had ideal weather," Jerry said.

AT HOME in Sausalito again are the Alan Conners, who were in London, England, for two weeks. They report that they report that they enjoyed attending theaters, especially performances of "Sleuth" and "Vivat Regina."

Another interesting experience was visiting the Rev. and Mrs. Bart Sarjeant and their two children at East Horsley. Rector of Christ Church in Sausalito, the Rev. Sarjeant exchanged pastorships for six months with the Rev. Charles Craft, rector of St. Martin's Anglican Church in East Hrsley who is now at Christ Church.

MR. AND MRS. Anthony J. Wiechers and Leslie Ann and Joe of the Marin Country Club Estates in Novato returned home last week following a six-week stay in their condominium in Makaha, Oahu which is a 50 minute drive from Honolulu. They toured the islands and spent one week in Kaui. The Wiechers have many friends in the islands and visiting them from Novato were Mr. and Mrs. S. Ross Cox who spent two days with them and Cindy Burns, daughter of Mrs. John Omizzolo spent two weeks with them. Cindy and Leslie are classmates at San Domenico.

BULGARIA AND Yugoslavia were the most interesting countries they visited on their two month-tour of the Balkan countries for Dr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenblum, who have just returned to Sausalito.

They bought a car in Germany and drove through Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Romania and Hungary, and they also visited the Madeira Islands and France.

"Bulgaria was very interesting because it is 6,000 years old and has so many Roman ruins, "Mrs. Rosenblum said," and we thought Yugoslavia was very beautiful. At Funchal in the Madeira Islands a fascinating experience was staying at the 100-year-old English Reed's Hotel, where they still dress in formal evening clothes for dinner."

MR. AND MRS. James Collins of Upper Lucas Valley will hold an authentic luau at 3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 21. Helping to serve will be their daughters, Denise and Diane Riley. Mr. Collins plans to roast a whole pig in the ground. The garden will be decorated in a tropical theme.

THE RECENTLY married Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook are making their home in San Rafael. Mrs. Cook is the former Kathleen Reilly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Riley of San Rafael. Robert is the son of Mrs. George Faustine of Novato and the late Byron E. Cook. They were married July 31 at St. Isabella's Church in Terra Linda. The bride and bridegroom both are graduates of Terra Linda High School.

CRISIS STUDY

View From The End Of The Rope

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Abraham Lincoln is credited with the maxim—"When you come to the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hang on."

It was one of the 16th president's precepts on how to cope with crises. It is just as applicable today in overcoming adversity, something that along the way somewhere we all encounter.

A NEW PUBLICATION takes a look at the whole environment of crisis and gives some heartening suggestions on how to meet and overcome it. It defines crisis as "a critical transition point or a disruption of the person's 'steady state' of existence by a disturbing situation. . . the victim is thrown off balance. . . the crisis represents a turning point, for better or worse, on the decision he (she) makes."

A "normal" crisis does not continue indefinitely, it states. And the writer, Theodore Irwin, feels that sometimes a crisis can be the catalyst "that shakes up old habits and can help us chart new ways."

Irwin, who's written extensively in the health field, is author of "How to Cope with Crisis", published by the Public Affairs Committee, a non-profit educational organization headquartered in New York.

He offers case histories that cover a number of upsetting experiences—serious illness or accident, breadwinner's loss of job, premature birth, divorce or separation, news of a fatal illness, death of someone you love, psychological emergencies of children.

He advises a long-range, positive approach although sometimes the "artificial crutches" can be a helpful "stop-gap". These "cures" for shock and bewilderment could be turning to the bottle of alcohol, using the "ups and downs" drugs (sedatives to sleep, amphetamines to keep awake). They may give a person a little time to reorganize, "enough to discard the crutch after a while and stand on their own emotional two legs". Medication, of course, should never be taken without a doctor's supervision or in doses larger than what he prescribes.

Face up to the crisis. Get your deepest and darkest feelings out into the open. The biggest block to the healing process is an inability to confront gut feelings honestly.

Take the measure of the crisis realistically. Ask yourself, "just what is the trouble?" "What do I want to happen?" Dealing with the facts can put the misery in better perspective.

Now focus your energies on appropriate action for a solution. Develop ways of seeking and using the help of friends and relatives, and of community resources.

If you can't rebound by summoning your own devices, don't hesitate to call upon an objective outsider, a professional. Many persons benefit from the guidance of their family doctor, a clergyman or a social worker.

YOU NEED to give vent to your feelings freely. Weeping is a healthy reaction that releases tensions. Feeling sorry for yourself is not necessarily a negative emotion. But self-pity becomes a negative emotion if you wallow in it too long.

Marshal your faith. In response to personal catastrophe, many persons experience a sudden awakening of religious faith. "Faith is the ultimate support, providing hope," says the Rev. Donald E. Smith, Director of the American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry. "And you need faith in yourself, in people, and in God. Prayer helps to put events in perspective ...it helps to rebuild walls, maintain fences and strengthen the undergirding."

What it all comes down to, says Irwin, "is that if you have a basic commitment to life, you will stand up firmly to the test. Once a reasonably healthy equilibrium has been restored, you will be able to face future threats with assurance—and with a better repertoire of coping measures."

Geriatric's Diet To Combat Overeating

Overeating is one of the serious problems associated with aging, according to an article in Medical World News. Reporting on a study of geriatric patients at Veterans Administration hospitals, the article says more than half of the men over 65 years of age are at least 10 per cent above their optimal weight.

Older persons are advised to eat less fat and more protein. Mixing dry skimmed milk or dry yeast into foods is an aid to the geriatric diet.

YVES LIMITS COUTURE

World-renowned designer Yves St. Laurent, shown here with French actress Zizi Jeanmaire at his late July couture show in Paris, announced he has decided to limit his high fashion design work to a very few private clients and concentrate on his ready-to-wear line. The trend of high style designers toward the ready-to-wear trade has heightened the past five years, largely a matter of economics. Most are doing both, but St. Laurent's decision may accelerate designer concentration on the ready-to-wear trade. St. Laurent will do two collections a year for the Rive Gauche boutiques, the first due in October.

Life's Span Still Remains A Mystery

CHICAGO (UPI)—We're living longer, but only in a manner of speaking.

At the end of the 18th Century the life expectancy at birth for North Americans was about 35 years. Now it's more than 70 years.

But according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, there is no evidence that the span of human life has increased since the beginning of recorded history.

The remarkable increase in the average length of life during the past 2,000 years— about triple—has merely increased the likelihood that a person may live closer to life's outer limits. Presumably there is a maximum life span for the human race, but it remains unknown.

The continuation of the worldwide decline in the death rate will naturally result in an increased number of centenarians.

ON BEING BLACK

Domestic Work Force Exploited

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"Hello, I'm calling azout your ad in the paper," the female voice at the other end of the line said pleasantly.

"Oh yes . . ." (A prospective employee, I'm thinking.)

"What nationality are you?" was the pointed comeback.

A little surge of defensiveness. "What nationality are you?" (And what difference does it make, I'm thinking.)

"Umm, well, you can't always tell by the voice, you know. Ummm, what kind of experience have you had?"

"What kind of experience have you had?"

Hesitation. "What I mean is, have you ever done domestic work before?"

"Many a day. Have you?"

"Well, no . . .," the voice on the other end of the line said, obviously puzzled.

Talk about role reversal! I knew the woman had misinterpreted my ad in the paper. She assumed she was speaking to a prospective domestic employee, and I assumed she was a prospective employee.

That's not really an honest statement because I recognized her immediately as being a typical Miss Ann — the female boss in search of domestic help. Most domestic workers know her well.

Miss Ann generally has a whacky idea about the role of an employer. She and/or her husband have managed to make a little money, and she has decided she needs domestic help — either to fill a real need or for ego salving. She likes the prestige and/or power of being an employer, but in most cases she is unwilling to do it according to good business practices.

To begin with, her personnel acumen is limited. Instead of simply wanting someone who can do the job — well, she doesn't want a black domestic, or assumes that a black can be paid less.

Her sense of doing business fairly, is almost nonexistent. She does not want (or cannot afford) to pay a reasonable salary for necessary and hard work. She often hands her domestic a few dollars, in cash, at the end of the day — this eliminates such frivolity as Social Security payments (payable by employer) and written records of employment.

However, benevolent soul that she is, Miss Ann often supplements this salary by giving her domestic the day's leftover turkey and a few pieces of her outdated clothing.

Unfortunately, and unbelievably, domestic workers are not guaranteed a minimum wage by law, and most independent workers receive none of the benefits such as insurance, paid vacations and sick leave.

Domestic workers, however, are organizing, and there is a National Committee for Household Employment (NCHE), with affiliates in several cities across the country.

Still, many domestic workers — the majority of which are black, female and middle-age or older — do not belong to any such organization.

This is a long overdue alliance and it would be wise for all domestic workers to check out the local branches of NCHE and familiarize themselves with the benefits of affiliation.

If no branch exists in your area, it would be advantageous to get together with other domestics and form a local organization of NCHE.

Michael Sullivan Weds Marianne Andersen

A reception at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross followed the wedding of Marianne Andersen and Michael Bruce Sullivan at 7 p.m. Aug. 6 at St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Andersen of Corte Madera. Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sullivan of Mill Valley are the bridegroom's parents.

Paula Andersen of Corte Madera was her sister's maid of honor. The best man was Stephen Wrenn of Tiburon. Donald and Stephen Andersen of San Leandro, the bride's cousins, were the ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Redwood High School and of California Polytechnic College at San Luis Obispo. She completed training as a dietitian at St. Joseph Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, and is employed at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame.

Mrs. Donald Murphy of Corte Madera is Marianne's grandmother.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Williams of Napa and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Sullivan of El Cerrito. His sisters are Sharon Sullivan of Mill Valley and Patricia Sullivan of Pomona.

Michael, who has just completed three years of service in the Army as a first lieutenant, is a graduate of Redwood High School, attended the College of Marin, and was graduated from Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

The couple will live in San Mateo.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Girl's Prayer For Boyfriend Answered, But Problem Exists

DEAR HELEN:

The Bible says "Whatever you ask for in prayer, you will receive, if you have faith." (Matt. 21-22)

So I prayed you'd answer my letter, and you did, and I thank you. And I got the boy I was going after. But I forgot to tell you my girl friend, Peg, liked him first, except she wasn't getting anywhere because he had a steady (who was snobby and mean and didn't deserve him).

When he broke up with her and started with me, Peg said I double-corssed her, but all I did was pray. Now she acts hurt. I don't want to lose her for a friend, but this boy is blue-eyed and blond-haired and he even talks sometimes. That kind of guy is hard to find.

Should I start praying that he gets interested in Peg? — FEELING MEAN

DEAR F.M.:

Why not pray instead that Peg finds another nice guy — and if your boy friend knows one — steer him her way. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I used to baby-sit for these three spoiled little boys and they sometimes drove me crazy. Helen Help Me — now I'm their stepmother!

How it happened was their mother and father were divorced (before I met Gary) and when he came to see his boys on Saturday afternoons, we fell in love.

Now we're married and everything is wonderful except that my husband's ex-wife uses me for a free babysitter! She says she's only living up to "visiting privileges" but she brings the kids over on Friday afternoon and leaves them till late Sunday night, while she spends a nice relaxed weekend with her boy friend. She's a rotten mother!

Gary is such a sweet guy. He knows he's being used, but he doesn't want to hurt the boys. I'm only 19, and can't undo all the bad "training" they get. So it's pretty wild at our house on the only days I can be with my husband. And it isn't good for the children — two different sets of rules. I could really love them, if I had full control; they like me a lot.

If we had them all the time, we could make nice kids out of the little stinkers, but their mother won't give them up because she gets $400 child support. (We even buy most of their clothes, as they arrive dirty and in rags.)

What can we do? — PART-TIME MOTHER

DEAR PTM:

"Visiting privileges" usually have limits set by law. If they expand to over one-third of the children's lives, then perhaps your husband should petition the court for reduced child-support. (Which would bring back the Saturday-only visits in a hurry.)

. . . Or else, sue for full custody on grounds of neglect. I gather you'd welcome a crack at being these boys' full-time mother, even though you're young for the role. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Scott Sims To Wed Shirley Dougan

The engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Scott Sims, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. William Dougan of Forest Knolls.

Scott is the son of Mrs. Shirley Sims of Fairfax.

The bride-elect is the sister of Bill and Rusty Dougan, both of Forest Knolls. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dentoni of Nicasio, and Mrs. Margaret Dougan of Bolinas. Mrs. Mary La Franchi of Nicasio is her grandmother.

Shirley was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo, and is employed at the Title Insurance and Trust Company in San Rafael.

Melanie Sims is the future bridegroom's sister. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hansen of Hayward.

Scott is also a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and is employed at Herb's Pool Service in San Rafael.

Couple Says Vows In Inverness

Roberta Hindersman of Larkspur was maid of honor for the bride, and John Kern of San Rafael performed best man duties for his brother.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Marshall Hotel in Marshall and the couple left for a wedding trip to the north coast. They will make their home in Humboldt County.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Burke of Larkspur, Mary Louise will be a senior at Humboldt State College. She is a graduate of Redwood High School and attended the College of Marin.

John Burke of Los Angeles and Susan Burke of Larkspur are the brother and sister of the bride.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kern of San Rafael. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School, attended the College of Marin and received a degree from Humboldt State College. He has been employed with the Larkspur-Corte Madera Recreation Department.

Ice Cream Social, Fashion Show On Tap At Marin Garden Center

A back-to-school ice cream social and fashion show will be held Thursday at 12:30 p.m. at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, with the Pixie Parents Inc. group as sponsor.

The party will be held for children aged 3½ to 7 and their mothers. Ice cream, cookies and punch will be served to the children and punch and sandwiches to the parents.

The fashions will include maternity and other adult styles and children styles. Models are Mmes. Jay Leopold, Ross Tyler, William O'Regan, William Riley and James Reuter. Child models will be David McCarthy and Lynn Sutliff, Gregory and Matthew Sutliff in twin outfits; Patrick Munday, Bart and Page Leopold and sisters Anne, Elaine and Suzanna Erickson.

Other adult models are Mmes. Oney Clahan, Robert Marlborough, George Shrohe, Arthur Ault, Thomas Doyle, Gerald Wood, John Carlson, Robert Powell, David Giannini, John Degenhardt and David Tomasisi.

Proceeds from the event will go toward renovation of Pixie Place, the playground for preschool children at the Marin Art and Garden Center.

PEACH PICKING in Sonoma is the event set for Wednesday by the Marin Chapter of World Wings. The group will pick peaches for five cents per pound and will make peach chutney at the home of Mrs. Robert F. MacKay of Ignacio, vice president.

The group will sell the chutney and donate proceeds to the Nancy Laird fund at Napa Hospital. Nancy, a patient at Napa, is the 18 year old daughter of a member of World Wings, a group of former Pan American stewardesses. Chairmen for the day are Mmes. Michael Dinwood of Tiburon, MacKay of Ignacio and Richard Hamann of Mill Valley.

EAST INDIAN CONCERT

Concentrating on improvising music from his bass flute of bamboo, G. S. Sachdev of India prepares for a concert at 2 p.m., Aug. 21 in Montgomery Chapel on the San Francisco Theological Seminary campus in San Anselmo. Sachdev's style of creating music spontaneously gives the listener a chance to see the unfolding of his musical theme. He will be accompanied by a tabla, two piece drums and tambura, a string instrument and Shruti Peti, wind instruments.

FAMILY

"Battle of Britain" — The four terrible but triumphant months of the air battles over Britain in 1940 is recreated in this dramatic semi-documentary film. Photography, acting and direction are exceptionally good.

"Legend of The Boy and Eagle" — The close friendship between a majestic golden eagle and a Hopi Indian boy are magnificently captured in this film classic.

"Le Mans" — Technically excellent record of the 8½ mile Le Mans race in France with 45 renowned drivers at the wheels. Plot is unimportant to racing enthusiasts.

"My Side of The Mountain" — An artistically and sensitively directed story about a 13-year-old boy who leaves home to live in the wilderness and forage his living from his surroundings and carry on his algae research. Very well acted.

"Pinocchio" — Technical excellence makes this film as fresh as when it was produced some 30 years ago. Children should take their parents to see it. The music is wonderful.

"Wild Child" — A brilliant French film based on a doctors' case history in attempting to civilize a child found living wild in the woods in the 18th Century. An absorbing fascinating film.

"Willie Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" — Well cast, elaborately staged, beautifully filmed classic. Complicated plot with surprising adventures at every turn will please entire family.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Celebration at Big Sur" — A documentary of the 1969 festival is filmed on the beautiful grounds of the Esalen Institute. It captures the scenic wonders of the setting plus good music and performers but also its nudists, freaks and freakouts.

"Escape From the Planet of the Apes" — An excellent allegory filled with suspense, humor and wit. It helps to have seen the other films in this series. The ending is sadly brutal and will terrify younger children.

"I Never Sang for My Father" — The ties that bind widower, Gene Hackman, to his aging parents are strained by his desire to live his own life. Well acted but depressing and an emotional experience.

"The Last Run" — An aging ex-gangster takes on one more job as a driver in a prison escape. Film is filled with chases down winding mountain roads with bloody gun battles all the way to a brutal ending.

"Ryan's Daughter" — A big, beautiful, unabashedly romantic epic set in World War I. Photographed against a rugged Irish landscape which becomes metaphoric for the loneliness of the soul. Very well done.

"Skullduggery" — A safari of anthropologists venture into New Guinea wilds and discover a creature which is half ape and half man. The theme of man's ignorance, bigotry and venality is hammered home rather heavily but the photography is very good.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Anderson Tapes" — An ex-convict unaware that his every move is filmed and taped plans to rob an entire apartment building of its treasures. Much foul language, sex scenes, nudity and a savagely brutal, violent ending.

ADULTS ONLY

"Get Carter" — A gangster melodrama based on revenge is a bloodbath. It is so sadistically brutal and gamy, plus sexual perversion and corruption it fails to entertain.

"Klute" — A moody murder mystery that focuses mostly on a character story of a contemporary call girl. Above average performance by Jane Fonda.

"Mephisto Waltz" — A story of the supernatural and Satan worship. An aging pianist selects the body of an aspiring artist to carry out his demonic plans. Well acted.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A rugged zinc miners town at the turn of the century is victimized by a petty crook who sets up a brothel. Story is tasteless in the name of realism. Much brutality, vulgarity and nudity.

Job-Finding Forum Is Held Each Week

A job-finding forum for persons seeking career positions is sponsored by the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce each Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the chamber officers at 400 Montgomery Street.

The free forum is in the form of a discussion group in which a panel of businessmen help individual jobseekers with resumes and other job-seeking techniques.

$140,000 For Work-Study

More than $140,000 in federal funds will be available to Sonoma State College students in the work-study program during the 1971-72 school year.

William Frenaye, director of financial aid, said nearly 200 students are expected to participate in the program, but that funds are not available for at least 200 other students who would also be eligible.

Students are limited to working an average of 15 hours per week at an average salary of $2 per hour. A student may earn a maximum of $600 to $700 per school year. Frenaye said local and county governmental agencies provide 20 per cent of the work-study jobs.

Exam For Reading Specialists Set

The national teaching examination for persons interested in becoming reading specialists will be given at Sonoma State College Nov. 13.

Registration forms are available now from the Bureau of Teacher Education and Certification, State Department of Education, 721 Capitol Mall, Sacramento.

Hearing On Deletion Of Highways From State Set

Public hearing on a proposal to delete three Marin highways from the state highway system will be held Sept. 16, the state Division of Highways announced today.

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on that date in the board of supervisors' chamber at the Marin Civic Center.

The routes which may be deleted are Highway 1 (Shoreline Highway), Tiburon Boulevard, and the extension of Highway 17 from San Rafael to West Marin, which exists only on paper. (See editorial, page 10).

The proposal arises from recommendations of the California Highway Functional Classification Advisory Committee of 15 members, appointed by the state director of public works. The committee came into being as result of a federal Bureau of Public Roads request that each state classify its roads to assist in allocation of federal moneys, and a directive from the California Legislature following up the federal request.

None of the three routes proposed for deletion in Marin meets criteria established by the committee for the state highway system, according to Hal K. Taylor, assistant district engineer for the Division of Highways.

He stressed, however, that Division of Highways policy is against deleting any road from the state system without the permission of the city or county involved. In case of deletion, he said, the state would complete any upgrading of a road that already had been projected before turning it over to the county or city.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors has gone on record against deleting Highways 1 and 17 from the state system.

Final action on deletion would be by the legislature. However, the Division of Highways must present a list of routes proposed for removal from the state system to next year's legislative session.

Tunney Hits Nixon Use Of 'Fear'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Nixon Administration is drawing a "curtain of fear and cloak of McCarthyism over the Bill of Rights," asserts Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.

As an example during a speech Thursday, the senator cited an executive order expanding the Subversive Activities Control Board, which he said should be abolished.

He also contended at a news conference the board should not have the power to designate organizations and individuals it believes are un-American.

"If the board asks people to come before it, that mere fact means they are suspect and this smacks of McCarthyism," Tunney told a news conference, referring to the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Tunney held that President Nixon's order to the board might make it a "powerful censor of the voluntary associations which American citizens, and government employes in particular, may join."

Before the San Francisco Bar Association, the senator talked of what he called "the politicized and panicked call for law and order" and deplored "the concept of preventive detention which presumes a man guilty until found innocent."

"I am sure that all of us share a common concern over the sometimes slow process of justice in America," he said. "I am sure that we all share concern for crowded court calendars and an overworked bench. But the answers to these and other courtroom problems is an administrative one, not a theoretical or political one."

"The emotion of the moment is no excuse to shortcircuit liberties that men have fought and died for—for nearly 200 years."

Planners Nod To Gas Station

In granting the approval, the commission recommended that developer Gerald Taylor provide additional landscaping in the rear and use a redwood shake roof rather than metal material.

In other action, the commission approved the request of L and B Investors to divide one lot into two on Olaf Street and the application of H. G. Stansbury for two lots at 550 West School Street.

The commission tentatively set meetings for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and Aug. 24 on the proposed zoning ordinance.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

'BACKWARD, TURN BACKWARD, O TIME . . . '

Marin's doughboy statue — facing backward, as if marching into the tragic past to join the fallen servicemen whose sacrifice in World War I and II it commemorates — moves ponderously down Fourth Street in San Rafael. The trip aboard a Marin Storage and Trucking flatbed to the county Civic Center marks the end of nearly 50 years on view in front of the old county courthouse, now in ruins, in the heart of San Rafael. Rumors of a cornerstone in the pedestal and of $20 gold pieces between the pedestal and statue led to some inconclusive probing yesterday with nothing found, yet nothing settled.

Bolinas Pump Station Out; New Blow To Sewer Plan

The controversial joint sewage plan for Bolinas and Stinson Beach ran into new complications yesterday at hearings by the Marin County Fill Committee.

The committee ruled that plans for a proposed pumping station at the end of Wharf Road in Bolinas did not meet criteria set by the county's tidal waterways ordinance.

Following hearings in June and last month, engineers had redesigned the pumping station to meet objections that the pump structure obscured the view and impeded public access to the water.

But after more than an hour's debate yesterday, the committee decided the pump station could not meet ordinance requirements unless it were moved to another site. Committee members stressed the unit's visual and physical impact on the shoreline, and the possible threat of increased silting in the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

Normally, a refusal by the fill committee would be appealed to the county planning commission, but this issue is expected to go directly to the board of supervisors Tuesday. Deputy County Counsel George J. Silvestri Jr. explained that the supervisors had scheduled a status report on the overall sewage project which is being jointly planned by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District and the Stinson Beach County Water District. The supervisors have agreed to set up an assessment district to finance the $8.1 million sewer and treatment plant project.

Another phase of the project — an 18-inch force main across the mouth of the lagoon — was approved conditionally by the fill committee yesterday. The panel voted to require that the pipe be installed by boring beneath the channel rather than trenching.

In other actions by the committee, Tiburon Sanitary District was given approval for a 500-foot-long, four-inch outfall line from a small sewage treatment plant at Paradise Cove, and Western Dock Enterprises was granted permission to dredge Black John Slough north of Novato to six-foot minimum depth.

Go Ahead On Fairfax City Hall

The Fairfax Design Review Board last night unanimously agreed to recommend to the city council that architect Donald K. Olson of Sausalito, proceed with plans to renovate city hall, board secretary Ernestine Healy reported today.

According to City Administrator Robert E. Crowe, $35,000 has been budgeted for the renovation which will include a new roof and roof line, new windows and fresh interior and exterior paint.

Olson is scheduled to present his final plans to the board at its September meeting, Crowe said.

The Board denied a reapplication by Gentry Development Company for a sign at Village West project on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard. Board secretary Ernestine Healy said Gentry's original application was approved last June. Mrs. Healy said the reapplication was inaccurate and did not show wording and size changes Gentry has made on the sign.

The Fairfax Design Review Board also agreed to meet an hour before its next meeting, Sept. 16, for a field trip on Bolinas Avenue to determine which signs are non conforming; and assigned Gilbert Murphy as its representative to the Fairfax Housing Element Committee.

Innocent Pleas In Burglary Case

Mark Jefferson Lee, 22, and Casey Lawrence Porter, 21, both of San Rafael has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of burglary.

Preliminary hearing was set for Tuesday.

They were arrested last Friday behind a 7-11 food store at 292 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Four cases of malt liquor and 45 cartons of cigarettes were found hidden in bushes nearby, Marin County sheriff's deputies said.

Highway Funds For Bikes: Cranston Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., introduced a bill Thursday that would enable states and communities to use federal highway trust fund money to set up bicycle routes and facilities.

"The bicycyle is an important, healthful and pollution-free alternative to traditional modes of transportation," Cranston said. "Better facilities for bikers would also benefit the motorist by reducing traffic congestion."

10 Seek Planning Panel Vacancy

The San Rafael City Council will have 10 names to choose from Monday to fill the planning commission post vacated by V. Judson Klein.

City Mgr. James H. McCown's office today said recent applications were filed by:

Frank A. Tallarida, a 43-year-old insurance man, who lives at 41 Upper Oak Drive, San Rafael. He was born in New York and has lived in Marin County for eight years. He and his wife, Constance, have three children.

Frederic M. Hudson, 37, an academic dean at Lone Mountain College in San Francisco. He, his wife Kathleen and their three children have lived at 9 Coast Oak Way 18 months. For three years, he was an advisor for the housing authority and city planning commission of New York City. He was chairman of the advisory committee for the Columbia Housing Authority, Columbia, Mo. and helped to begin a federally funded lunch program for persons over 65 in the state of Maine.

Benjamin C. Albritton, 44, is a civil and structural engineer with Hoffman and Albritton Engineers and planners. He has lived in San Rafael for 17 years. He was born in Dallas, Tex. Albritton and his wife, Patricia, have one child. He has been in private practice in San Rafael for 13 years and helped plan several developments in the city including a large portion of Glenwood and San Rafael Park. Albritton lives at 514 Tamarack Drive.

Ronald A. MacMillan, a 59-year-old attorney residing at 19 Laurelwood Court. He was born in Oakland and moved to San Rafael two years ago. He and his wife, Sue, have two children. MacMillan has been president of the Glenwood Homeowners Association and director of the Marin Conservation League and Marin Audubon Society.

Richard E. Mitchell, a civil engineer who has lived in San Rafael at 36 Knoll Road for two years. He is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers. He helped to design portions of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART). Before coming to Marin he was an engineering designer in Chicago and a drafting supervisor in Hawaii.

Donald Sandy Jr., an architect. He and his wife, Carol live, with their two children, at 16 David Court. Sandy, 37, was born in Racine, Wis. He has been a professional architect and city planner for 15 years and is a member of the American Institute of Architects. He has been living in San Rafael for six years.

Willis K. Elliot, a local insurance man and resident of San Rafael for 12 years. He has operated his own firm for 10 years. Elliot resides at 50 Sonoma Street.

Businessmen's Donation Bails Out College Athletic Program

A group of Santa Rosa businessmen has bailed out the Sonoma State College athletic program with a $38,000 gift that will finance eight major sports in the 1971-72 school year.

President Thomas H. McGrath said today, "We are most fortunate to have a group of private citizens who have offered to underwrite the program." The names of contributors were not released.

A year ago Sonoma State students voted to eliminate the student activity fee that supported the sports teams and cultural events. Concerts and lectures continued financed by ticket sales.

Dr. Douglas Earl, chairman of the department of health sciences and physical education, said the grant would finance teams in football, baseball, basketball, cross country, track and field, tennis and wrestling. It also provides for women's athletic competition in basketball, field hockey, gymnastics, softball, tennis and volleyball.

Earl said the $38,000 will provide for insurance, travel, guarantees to visiting teams, equipment, uniforms and supplies. Last year, football team members purchased their own jerseys, traveled to games in private cars and bought their own meals on the road. Sonoma State teams compete in the Far West Conference.

A bill to reinstate the student activities fee has been introduced in the state legislature by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, but if passed will not be in time to be of assistance to the 1971-72 teams.

More Swimming, Tennis Planned

Additional tennis and swimming lessons will be offered by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department during the last weeks of summer vacation, the department has announced.

Beginning and intermediate tennis players, both young persons and adults, may sign up between 9 and 11 a.m. Monday and Tuesday at the Albert Park Clubhouse for tennis lessons.

Registrations for swimming classes, including those for children as young as four years old and handicapped youngsters, will be from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Monday at the San Rafael High School pool.

Nod To Founders Day Ball Plans

The Rohnert Park Homeowners Association last night approved plans for the Sept. 11 Founders Day Ball to be held at the community center.

Henry Thomas and Elizabeth Cochran, ball co-chairmen, said entertainment and cocktails are planned from 8 to 9 p.m. with dancing until 1 a.m. with music by Bob Norman and the Esquires.

The ball will use an international theme and prizes will be awarded to persons wearing costumes from the country of their heritage. Costume dress is not required.

Dixie Lets Contract To Benicia Firm

A contract for $1,342,557 for completion of Oak View School and additions to Miller Creek Junior High School was awarded last night by the Dixie School District Board.

Dr. Clifford W. Campbell, district superintendent, said that the bid accepted, which was from Seri Construction Co. of Benicia, was the second lowest bid. The lowest was thrown out after advice from the county counsel, he said, because of an error.

The project calls for adding six classrooms, a library, and instruction center, administration unit and teachers' room, new parking lot and landscaping to Oak View.

A gymnasium, locker and shower facilities, stage and drama room, industrial arts building, parking and landscaping will be added to Miller Creek School, Campbell said. The existing classrooms will also be carpeted.

Campbell said that the work is expected to be started within a month and completed by June, 1972.

An Estate With A Gate

Leads into this country setting on 7.70 acres, located on Bennett Valley Road. This large California ranch home has a heavy shake roof and large over-sized garage and is in a magnificent setting amongst numerous oak trees and natural rock out croppings. It was built in 1970 by one of Marin county's finest builders. Double hand-carved doors lead into an imported Mexican tile entry. The living room has beamed ceilings and beautiful carpeting. The kitchen is a gourmet's dream. The family room has a wall to wall fireplace of Sonoma stone with a wet bar & refrigerator plus a Franciscan Forge Barbecue, which is smokeless and odorless. There are 4 bedrooms. The master bedroom suite has a sumptuous, sunken bath and "his & her" walk-in closets in the dressing room. There is also another large bath with twin dressing tables and a separate powder room. A large patio is enhanced with olympic-size pool which is heated and filtered. For horse-minded people, there is a new barn with loft and tack room. Other amenities too numerous to mention. May we show you, by appointment. Asking $125,000. Exclusive. Evenings 897-1574.

You don't have to trust our used car salesmen

There's no need to get squeamish when one of our salesmen slaps you on the back and asks you to sign the papers.

Not when the car carries a dealer's 100% guarantee.

This guarantee means that the car has passed a thorough 16 point inspection.

It also means that we'll repair or replace every major working part* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Whichever comes first.

Trust us.

*The dealer guarantees 100% to repair or replace the engine, transmission, rear axle, front axle assemblies, brake system and electrical system, for 30 days or 1000 miles, whichever comes first.

INVITATION FOR BIDS

The Housing Authority of the County of Marin will receive bids for the repair and overlay of three (3) parking area's and the reconstruction of a slide area. Work on the slide area will consist of excavation of unstable material, installation of sub surface drainage and the slope reconstructed using a compact fill. Bids will be held until three o'clock p.m., PDT Time, on the day of August 27, 1971, at the office of the Housing Authority of the County of Marin, 429 Drake Ave., Marin City, Ca., at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Proposed forms of contract documents, including plans and specifications, are on file at the office of the Housing Authority of the County of Marin at 429 Drake Ave., Marin City, California.

The Housing Authority, in compliance with State Law, has ascertained the prevailing per diem wage rates in the locality in accordance with the provisions of Section 1770 et seq. of the Local Code of the State of California and statutes of the United States of America.

The contractor shall pay all laborers or mechanics employed on this work at the project site not less than the minimum salaries and wages included in the specifications.

Bids shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, cash, bid bond or postal money order for five percent (5%) of the amount of bid made payable to the Housing Authority of the County of Marin.

Bids may be withdrawn by written or telegraphic notice provided such notice is received prior to the time set for the opening of bids. The successful bidder will be required to furnish and pay for satisfactory performance and payment bonds. The performance and payment bonds shall each be in an amount of 50% of the contract price. The cost of the performance and payment bonds shall be included in the bid price.

All bids will be subject to the Terms and Conditions of the Invitation to Bid, Bid Form, Instructions to Bidders, General Conditions, Special Conditions, Form of Statement to Bidder's Qualifications, including the drawings. The Housing Authority of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in the bidding.

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

The Marin Magazine tomorrow continues its publication of historical articles on early Marin places, personalities and events, completed by the late Florence Donnelly prior to her death. This week the subject is the Chileno Valley astride the Marin-Sonoma County line. The area has had a colorful history, and yet one that is little known to the present-day residents of surrounding communities. Read about colorful Don Bartolome Bojorques and the men and women who came after him in tomorrow's I-J supplement.

The process is called Raku, and the ancient Japanese started it all. Now it has gained widespread popularity with western ceramacists. Marin potter and teacher Dan Fuller is one who has developed a special enthusiasm for the centuries-old Oriental technique for the making of fine pottery. Why Dan Fuller prefers Raku over all other forms of pottery-making, and how he goes about it, are the subjects of a special feature in the magazine tomorrow by its editor, Don Keown.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Infection From Snails Greatest Unconquered Parasitic Disease

Schistosomiasis is the greatest unconquered parasitic disease afflicting man and animals today. There are said to be 100 million victims. The disease is caused by tiny worms (blood flukes) that live in small snails. The culprits are particularly prevalent in the waters of the Far and Middle East, Africa, eastern South America, and the Caribbean. Snails release the young worms which are absorbed through the skin of humans as they bathe, wash clothes, swim, or wade in the infested lakes or rivers.

THREE species of schistosomes infect man. Once inside, the worms work their way into the bloodsteam where they mature. Certain species set up housekeeping in the walls of the intestine. The eggs deposited in the intestinal tract escape via the stool. To repeat the cycle, these eggs must reach water and find a snail host. Other species go to the wall of the urinary bladder and some of the eggs escape via the urine.

Weeks may elapse between the time the worms invade the walls of the intestine and bladder and the egg laying period. The worms may cause a rash where they burrow through the skin. During their sojourn in the capillaries, they may cause fever, toxicity, abdominal distress or urinary symptoms.

ENSUING disability stems from the eggs that do not escape in the urine and stool. A single worm can deposit eggs in vital organs for up to 20 years and progressively destroy tissues of the bladder, pelvic structures including the prostate and vagina, intestinal tract, liver, kidneys and lungs. The eggs trapped in the tissues are irritating and produce multiple inflammatory lesions, such as abscesses followed by scar tissue. A variety of complaints ensue including abdominal tenderness, loss of appetite, aching, dysentery, weight loss, painful urination, frequency and bloody urine.

Several antimony compounds are used to kill the worms. The world-wide battle against schistosomiasis is three-pronged: treatment of the infected persons, improved sanitation, and snail control.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

THE OLDER CYCLIST

S.W. writes: I've always longed to ride a bicycle. Now that I have plenty of free time to learn, my family is trying to discourage me. Do you consider a woman of 63 too old to ride? My family's objection is that I might fall and hurt myself. Please advise.

REPLY

You are not too old to ride buy you may be too old to learn especially since we anticipate a number of falls. A broken hip or shoulder may have serious repercussions. Why not get an adult three-wheeler?

GAVE UP MILK

Mr. I. J. writes: My bad breath problem has been relieved since I've given up milk. Will it be necessary to add something to the meals to make up for what I was getting in the milk?

REPLY

No, provided you eat a variety of foods. Many foods, such as puddings, creamed soups and certain bakery items contain milk.

Look At Jobless Vietnam Veterans

By ROBERT MUSEL

NEW YORK (UPI)—"If any man shall be sent forth as a soldier and return maimed he shall be maintained competently by the colony for his life."

This, the first statement of the responsibility of a government to those willing to risk their lives for it ever laid down in North America, was drafted by the Pilgrims in 1636 during the war with the Pequot Indians.

Using it as his text the admirable Ernest Pendrell of ABC-TV News has written, produced and directed a documentary, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" which shows how dramatically times have changed since that simple promise to fighting men at the very dawn of the colonies that became the United States.

There are hundreds of thousands of unemployed Vietnam era veterans who can testify the change is not for the better—a number of them caught by Pendrell's cameras in an hourlong special scheduled for broadcast on the ABC-TV network Sept. 1. Readjustment to civilian life has been a problem in every war but never before, he said, has there been such frustration and bitterness.

"It's a combination of factors", Pendrell said in an interview. "They've come home with little of the fanfare given veterans of earlier wars, to a depressed economy marked by inflation and unemployment and since they are on the average the youngest ever to have fought in a foreign war many of them have never been in the job market before."

Pendrell took his cameras to the separation center at Fort Dix where he saw what he says is one of the most remarkable sights of his not uneventful life —a chaplain actually praying for jobs for those about to be discharged: "God be with thee, be with those going out for employment. May they find jobs that meet their needs and those who depend on them."

Most of the filming was done in Denver because while its general unemployment rate is below the national average it has 25,000 unemployed veterans —equal to the national average. Pendrell says the sheer statistics are staggering—28 million veterans in the country, an $11 billion budget for the veterans administration; more than 5 million Vietnam veterans and the boys are coming home at the rate of 80,000 a month.

"Something must be done outside the normal channels to find meaningful employment for these young men," Pendrell said.

He filmed a convict in the Colorado State Penitentiary—a young veteran who, unable to get a job, got a gun instead and went in for crime—firearms was one of the few skills he acquired in Southeast Asia. He interviewed a veteran who couldn't get a job as a pilot though he had logged 4,000 hours. "I refused to believe a man with that experience couldn't find work in civil aviation," Pendrell said, "Then I found that in the last seven months alone 11,000 pilots had been released. What can we do with them?"

His documentary reaches this conclusion: "If we can spend $42 million a day to fight a war we can afford the millions it would take to find work for every returning vet."

"May I be excused now? It's 10 p.m. and my parents don't know where I am."

He said that counsellors will be available at the school from Aug. 23 to Aug. 25 for interviews with new enrollees.

Students who live east of Highway 101 should enroll at San Rafael High School, he said.

Enrollment Open At Terra Linda

Students new to the Terra Linda High School attendance area may enroll for fall classes by calling now for appointments with counsellors, according to Robert J. Gilbride, assistant principal.

Women Join Firemen Force

The Inverness Public Utility District directors has approved the enrollment of two women volunteer firemen, the first women to join in the history of the Inverness Volunteer Firemen.

Esther Silver and Susan Simon joined the volunteers Sunday when they were trained in a fire drill. The women boosted the volunteer force to 15.

Director William H. Thomson noted the directors on Wednesday were pleased the women joined and he said it is like women's lib coming to the Inverness Volunteer Firemen. "It's kind of interesting," he added.

Chamber Music Concert Set

An evening of chamber music will be presented at 8 p.m. Sunday at the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church by a group of musicians from Marin and other parts of the Bay Area.

Included on the program will be a Bach concerto, Beethoven piano trio, a Milhaud suite, two Paginini violin caprices and a Mozart piano quintet.

Musicians performing will be Roy Oakley Jr., Joe Benson, Margaret Oakley, James White, Deborah Kirk, Joanne Oakley and Ed Harris.

Innocent Plea To Drug Charges In Houseboat Raid

Barbara Sanford, 21, of Sausalito, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to charges of possessing and cultivating marijuana and possessing dangerous drugs.

Preliminary hearing was set for next Thursday.

Miss Sanford was arrested Tuesday, along with Daniel Ross Wood, 24, on their houseboat, Prospero, anchored about 150 yards off of Gate Five, Sausalito.

Wood was to plead to the same charges today.

Marin drug agents said they seized about $7,800 worth of hashish, a small amount of dexadrine and one small marijuana plant in the raid of the boat.

Larkspur Youth In Fall From Bicycle

A 16-year-old Larkspur youth was treated at Marin General Hospital yesterday for a concussion and elbow scrapes suffered when he fell from his bike in Ross.

Hurt was Ricardo Estrada of 203 Alexander Avenue. Details of the accident were not available from Ross police.

NEW USE FOR SCHOOLS

With the longshoreman's strike preventing farmers in the Pacific Northwest from shipping their grain to markets, wheat growers have taken to storing their crops anywhere they can. Workers here dump grain into empty buildings at MacLaren School for Boys in Woodburn, Ore. The farmers hope the strike will be settled before school resumes and forces them to move the wheat again.

Water Plan For Bolinas Adopted

A master water plan for the Bolinas area has been adopted by directors of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District, clerk Jane Boyer reported.

The plan, prepared by the Marin Municipal Water District, details present water supplies for Bolinas, future water needs and possible future sources of water for the community.

Mrs. Boyer said adoption of a master water plan was a requirement in order for the district to qualify for federal funds for the proposed $8.1 million sewage treatment system which the district is proposing to build in conjunction with the Stinson Beach county water district.

In other business the board accepted, with regret, the resignation of part-time bookkeeper Alonzo Nelson, who resigned for reasons of health.

Escapee Has A Heroin Stomach

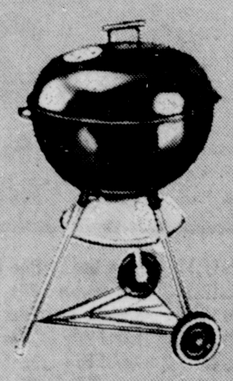

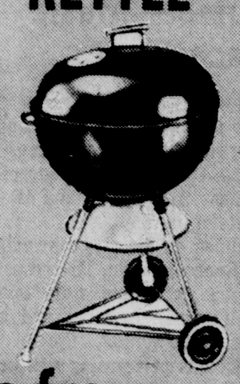

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— When police recaptured John Muir, who had escaped from jail, he told them he had a stomach full of heroin.

Doctors at Valley Medical Center said Thursday the 54-year-old suspect wasn't kidding.

They found two one-ounce bags of heroin in his stomach during an operation. The doctors said Muir would have died if the bags had dissolved.

Muir, who escaped from Madera County Jail a week and a half ago, was reported in good condition in the hospital's prison ward.

FLIP SLIPS — Drake firstsacker Clifford Hall stretches in vain for a wild throw to first in seventh inning action yesterday of the Drake-Ukiah tussle in the Joe DiMaggio Tournament at Albert Park, San Rafael. Though the throw eluded Hall, the ballgame didn't as the Marin squad nipped the Redwood Empire representatives 6-5 in 10 innings.

Drake Captures Tourney Opener

A 10-Inning Thriller; S.F. Clobbers Arcata

Drake and Valente-Marini-Perata, Joe DiMaggio Baseball Regional Tournament co-favorites, passed their opening round tests last night as the Marin South squad tipped the Ukiah Elks 7-6 in 10 innings while the San Francisco Beach representatives ripped The Outdoor Store of Arcata 8-0.

The S.F.-based defending champions met Marin North while Drake confronted Swinteton-Wallberg, San Francisco Bay League survivors in action today on San Rafael's Albert Field.

Drake was hard-pressed by a determined Ukiah club, Redwood Empire champion, and required a Don Asay triple to score John Loane with the winning tally. Drake grabbed the lead in the first frame, plating two on a Clifford Hall single, a two out Tom Olson double and a Mike Bauman safety. Besides scoring two runs, getting three hits and a run-batted-in, Olson pitched six innings, surrendering one earned run on three hits. He struck out six and walked four.

Although he gave up only one earned tally, Ukiah fashioned three in the fourth on a Ron Rinehart run-producing single, plus a two out dropped flyball.

However, Drake regained its poise, scoring four in the sixth on Olson and Mike Bauman singles, a two-run Kevin Marshall double, an infield error and a startling double steal with Marshall scoring.

Ukiah came right back, touching Olson for three unearned runs in its half of the frame with Jeff Haskell delivering the telling blow, a two run single. In the ninth, the Redwood Empire champs displayed further heroics as centerfielder Rod Christiansen threw out Olson at the plate, sending the fray into extra innings as the struggle settled into a pitching duel between Jim Petray, Olson's pitching successor, and the strong-armed Dane Jacobson. Prior to the final inning, Jacobson was in trouble only in the first and sixth. He acquired the loss though striking out seven, two more than he walked. Petray faced the minimum of nine batters during his three inning stint, fanning five while losing one batter to a base on balls.

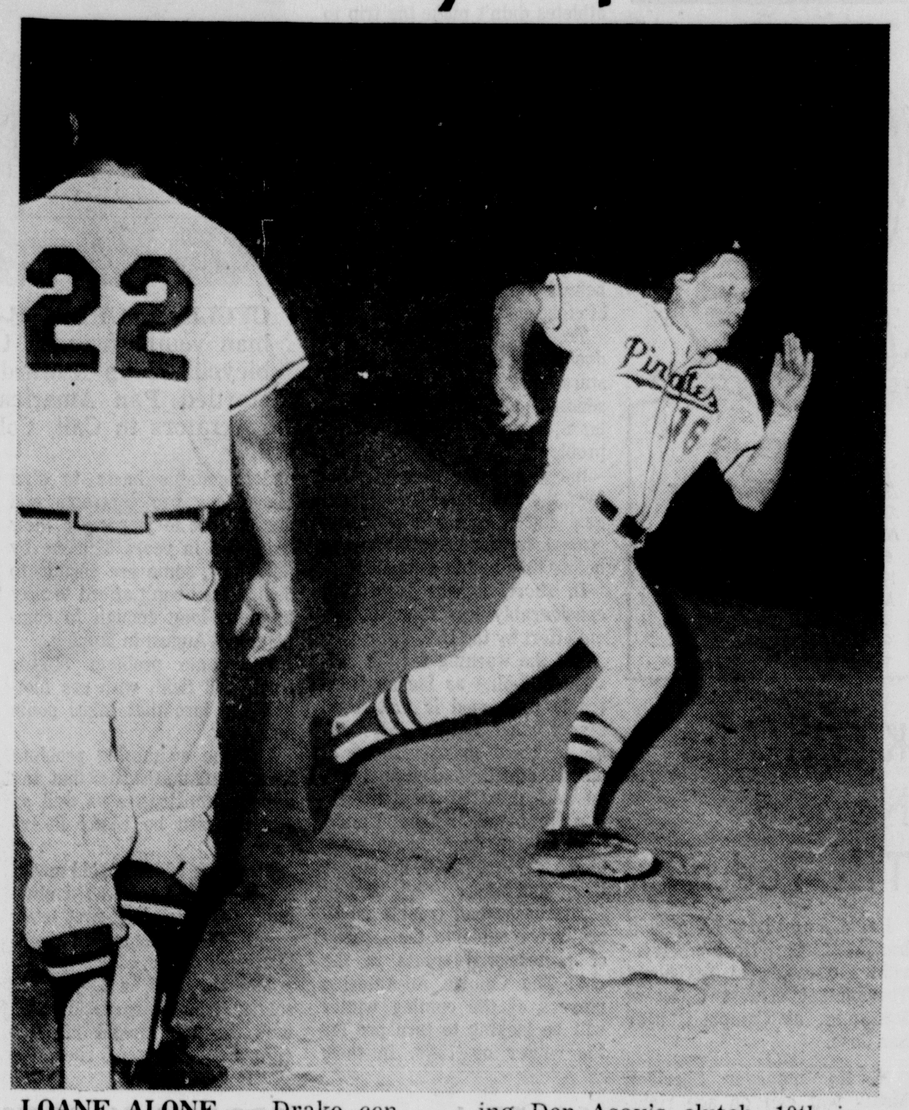

The Olson-Petray performance was topped only by the Dave Weidinger's four-hit shutout over Arcata. Weidinger, substituting for announced starter Juan Eichelberger, coasted to victory after his cohorts amassed seven runs in a second inning highlighted only by shoddy Arcata fielding.

In this decisive frame, hard-hitting Ron Weaver slugged a run scoring double, a feat matched by Craig Kimball. The two blows, coupled with two Outdoor Store miscues, proved to be the victim's downfall.

Weaver subsequently socked another run scoring two base hit, but his sixth inning smash was mere icing on the cake. Observers noted that losing pitcher Chris Hutton, who doubled for Outdoor Store's only extra base hit, pitched adequately while going the distance, but his support came short of equalling that given his Valente counterpart.

Tomorrow's activity, again calling for a $1 admission charge, 50 cents for students, pits the two undefeated teams at 3:45 p.m. followed at 6 and 8:15 p.m. by contests to determine the lone unbeaten contingent's opponent at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

Novato Ruth '9' Sweeps A Pair

Novato's 13-year-old Babe Ruth Baseball League wonders fashioned two startling triumphs yesterday in Western Regional play at Brawley, Imperial Country, trouncing Phoenix 14-2 then waxing Murray, Utah 8-0.

The victories enable Manager Bob Simi's brigade to meet Elko, Utah tonight at 7:30. In this battle, Chris Purdy will cast aside his catching regalia to make only his second mound appearance of the season; he reportedly relies on the fastball, a pitch which helped him earn an 8-1 win over Santa Rosa in regional competition.

The Purdy pitch was utilized successfully by three of his cohorts yesterday as Mike Moreno and Barry Leslie combined to flatten Phoenix then Mike Moroski fashioned a three-hit shutout in the nightcap.

"That was the best pitching performance I've seen here so far," Simi smiled, referring to the Moroski effort. The whitewash was his second in tournament play, the first was a 3-0 conquest of Menlo Park during the state contests.

In the opener, Simi's sluggers battled back from a disappointing first round 6-5, 11-inning loss to Mexicali by plating nine in the opening frame against Phoenix. The beleaguered Arizonans committed 10 errors in all and surrendered five walks during inning one. Before Phoenix could retire three batters, the out-of-state squad was felled by a three-run Purdy triple.

The cushion allowed Simi to lift Moreno after three innings in saving the 13-year-old for possible pitching duty Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in championship play. When Moreno left, Barry Leslie strode in from third base to make his initial mound appearance. He matched Moreno's efforts by holding Phoenix to a paltry tally.

With the Moreno-Leslie pair working famously, Larry Caples came through with a run-producing single while scoring a pair himself. Conte displayed two safeties, good for four runs batted in. This type of hitting, combined with the many Phoenix defensive lapses, permitted the victors to score runs batted in.

After the laugher, Simi said he was gratified by the team's comeback "following a heartbreaking loss," but warned his troops to be wary of any letdown against Murray, Utah.

His words were heeded as the local nine proceeded to support

49ers To Start Spurrier, But Brodie Will Be Ready

MIAMI (UPI) — "Old" John Brodie will be ready if the Forty-Niners need a couple of quick touchdowns, but former Florida star Steve Spurrier is expected to start for San Francisco in tonight's Orange Bowl clash with the Miami Dolphins.

Spurrier, the University of Florida's first Heisman trophy winner, earns most of his fat salary with the Forty-Niners during the exhibition season. During the regular season, he punts and sits on the bench wondering where "Old" John Brodie found the fountain of youth.

Brodie, who will be 36 Saturday, played only one quarter last week against Cleveland and threw just six passes. He completed four of them for 135 yards and touchdowns of 45 and 50 yards to speedy Gene Washington before turning the game over to Spurrier.

Spurrier — they called him "Super Steve" in his heyday at Florida — will be sharing the spotlight with Miami's Bob Griese, a highly regarded thrower who finished second in the Meisman balloting the year Spurrier won the trophy. Griese has been a starter with Miami since his rookie year.

Both the Dolphins and Forty-Niners have been touted as possible Super Bowl participants. But while San Francisco was whipping Cleveland 38-24 last week, Miami lost to the Cincinnati Bengals 27-10.

The Dolphins were hampered last week by the two-week holdout of star backs Jim Kiick and Larry Csonka. They played only a quarter against the Bengals, but will start with Griese against the Forty-Niners.

About 55,000 fans are expected in the Orange Bowl for the 5:30 (PDT) kickoff. The game will be nationally televised by NBC (Channels 3-4-8).

Both teams are coming off good seasons. Brodie attributed much of the Forty-Niners' success last season to "about 10 first and second year men like Ted Kwalick, Bruce Taylor and Gene Washington who became stars in one season.

"I don't think we did better than our capabilities last season," Brodie said, "I think we just realized what our capabilities were."

Brodie added that "Personally, I've been better the last five years than I was the 10 years before." If that's true, Spurrier had better start bringing a bench cushion to the games.

The Dolphins built their 10-4 record last year on the pinpoint pass of Griese and the ball-control power running of Kiick and Csonka, who teamed for over 2,300 yards last season.

George Mira, who warmed the bench behind Brodie for five years before asking to be traded and winding up with Miami, has been hampered by a sore arm in training camp and is not expected to see action against his former teammates.

Both teams had banner years last season with Miami 10-4 and the Prospectors 10-3-1.

Forty-Niner cornerback Jimmy Johnson may miss the contest because of a bruised thigh in which case veteran Johnny Fuller, normally a free safety, or rookie Dave Walter will go at cornerback.

'Hawk' Draws Crowd, But Schlee On Top

By DICK DEW

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—Even though most of the significant characters were missing, many of the leaders still confessed to extreme nervousness today in the second round of the $165,000 Massachusetts Classic Golf Tournament.

Fringe tournament player John Schlee came up with the significant characters classification in which he lumped such pro tour leaders as Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Dave Hill and a flock of others.

Schlee's analysis was pertinent because, with the big winners either vacationing or recovering from ailments, he was leading the field after the first round in the run for the $33,000 first prize.

Schlee, 50th on the current money winning list with just $35,000 for eight months work, fired an impressive six under par 66 Thursday though the spectacular round only left him with a one stroke lead in the tour passed up by most of the ranking stars.

"I was nervous all day," he explained after grabbing the lead from the veteran Tom Weiskopf, who had held it for several hours with an early 67.

Schlee, 32, of Dallas, said the nervousness was nothing to what he would experience if "it was the last day and I had a one stroke lead over Palmer or Trevino."

Schlee was accompanied by only a handful of spectators through most of the early stages of his opening round. The big slice of the 17,000 gallery was following a tour rookie who didn't even break par.

Colorful Ken Harrleson, recently retired as one of major league baseball's "Mod Men," commanded a huge following and carried on a running commentary, most of it about baseball, with the customers.

Harrelson insisted that while he was scared to death, the crowd trailing him around the course had nothing to do with his one over par 73.

Dewitt Weaver was only two strokes back of Schlee at 68 and six players, including Bobby Mitchell, Bert Weaver, Rod Funseth, Joel Goldstran, Loy Graham and Ray Floyd were locked in a six-way tie for fourth place, three strokes back and three strokes under.

Billy Casper, defending champion at Pleasant Valley but locked in a long slump, had a 74 after shooting 11-under in his last four rounds over the same course. One other former winner at Pleasant Valley was in the field. But Tom Shaw's 75 didn't make him a very good bet to make the cut following today's round.

Rest May Help S.F. Vs. Mets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, hanging on with a slim lead in the National League West, open a weekend series tonight against the New Yorks Mets after getting a little help from the Philadelphia Phillies.

The Giants were idle Thursday, but second-place Los Angeles lost in the 13th inning, 3-1, to Philadelphia. A Dodger win would have cut the Giants lead to three games, but now San Krancisco has some breathing room with a four-game margin.

The rest was welcomed by San Francisco.

"Our guys are tired," shortstop Chris Speier said. "We've played every day at different times and in different time zones."

San Francisco, which has been able to score only one run in its last 27 innings, will be looking desperately for some hits tonight against the Mets.

Gaylord Perry (11-9) will be facing a former Giant, Ray Sadecki (5-3), on the mound tonight.

A's Might Regret Sweep Of Red Sox

NEW YORK (UPI) —The Oakland A's may regret later what they did to the Boston Red Sox, but right now they're not worried about it.

The A's demolished Boston, 92, Thursday to sweep the four-game series and virtually knock the Red Sox out of the American League East race. Boston fell into third place, eight games behind the leading Baltimore Orioles.

Later, if Baltimore and Oakland meet in the American League playoffs, the A's could be wishing for the Red Sox, but now Oakland, which opens a weekend series against the Yankees tonight, is too busy enjoying its 14 game first place margin over Kansas City in the A. L. West.

The A's wasted no time in getting started Thursday as they piled up six runs in the first two innings.

Shortstop Bert Campaneris paced Oakland's 12-hit attack with three singles, his 25th stolen base of the year, two runs scored and two RBIs. Tommy Davis also drove in three runs with a single and a pair of bases loaded grounders, and Dave Duncan hit his 13th homer, a solo blast in the seventh.

Diego Segui pitched the distance for the A's, scattering seven hits and notching his eighth victory against five losses.

Chuck Dobson (11-2) will hurl for the A's tonight against the Yankees' Mel Stottlemyre (11-10).

Cepeda Surgery To Fix Left Knee Slated For Today

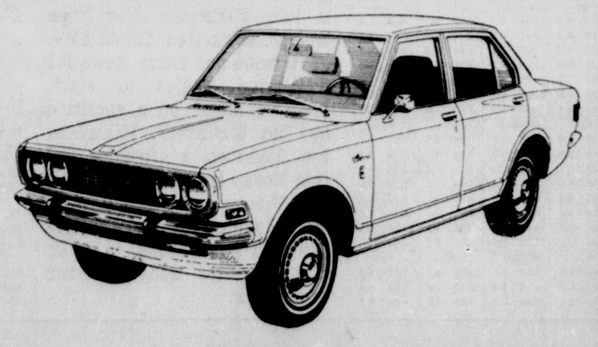

NEW YORK (UPI) — Orlando Cepeda had surgery scheduled for today that would repair torn cartilage and a stretched ligament in his left knee and leave the Atlanta Braves first baseman sidelined for the rest of the season.

Cepeda, the 1967 National League MVP as a member of the pennant-winning St. Louis Cardinals, was forced to leave the Braves lineup late in June because of the incapacitating ailment.

Dr. Anthony Pisani, chief of orthopedic surgery at St. Vincent's hospital and team surgeon for the New York football Giants, said the operation would not mean the end of the Puerto Rican ball player's career.

PHILLIE FUN — Philadelphia Phil outfielder Willie Montanez begins a diving catch for a sinking Los Angeles Dodger Steve Garvey drive. After the play, teammate Roger Freed steps between an aroused Montanez and umpire David Davidson after the arbitrator ruled Garvey safe. The decision maker's call was subsequently overruled and the inning was over. Other Phillies pleading the case are Larry Bowa (10), Terry Harmon (17) and John Vukovich (behind Harmon). Ominous Signs For U.S. In Wake Of Pan Am Meet Troubles Ahead In Olympics?

CALI, Colombia (UPI)—The VI Pan American games passes into sports history with formal closing ceremonies today — a team victory for the United States, but one witb a warning about the 1972 Olympic games in Munich, Germany.

With one more event to go before the final ceremony this evening, the United States had 105 gold medals, 37 silver, and 40 bronze for a total of 218.

That's enough for a runaway team victory over the determined challenge of Cuba, which had 31 gold and a total of 101. But the Yanks didn't match their 1967 performance at Winnipeg when they had 120 gold and a 225 total, and there were several ominous signs that they are in for trouble at Munich.

Even while admitting that a number of the best American athletes didn't make the trip to Cali—like several track stars and a boxing team which toured Europe instead—it was stunning to see the U.S. take a back seat in the sprints to triple gold medal winner Donald Quarrie of Jamaica, to see the U.S. basketball team fail to make the championship flight, and to see the U.S. girls swimming team forced to come from behind to match Canada's total of eight gold medals.

True, the sprint situation was due to the injuries of several stars, the basketball loss to sending an extremely young team, and the girls swimming problems to administrative flub —the girls came here just before the swimming events began and weren't over the typical tourist intestinal woes before they had to compete.

In short, it was something considerably less than an all-out effort by the U.S.

But the warning for the red-white-and-blue as far as Munich is concerned is that it no longer can claim the top ranking in world sports without an all-out effort. And that some answers must be found to certain problems if the United States is to compete on even terms at Munich with the Soviet Union and others.

The basketball trouble is directly traceable to the inroads of professional sports in the U.S. The College All-America players of the coming winter will be looking to turn pro for the winter of '72-73. In their understandable haste to sign big money pro contracts and anxiety not to jeopardize their livelihood in years to come by an injury, some are certain to decide they can't afford to stay amateur long enough to compete next August in Munich.

And the swimming problem here points up the fact that any flub, administrative as well as athletic, will be costly in results.

The 105th and last gold medal for the U.S. here was a stunning surprise—the first ever won by the Yanks in Pan-American cycling.

John Howard, a 23-year-old soldier from Springfield, Mo., took the gold medal in bicycling's most rugged race, the grand road race that stretched for 198 kilometers (132 miles) over the up-and-down roads of thb Cauca River Valley.

Howard, who finished 20th in the team time trials in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City, outlasted a number of better-known stars. As he approached the end, he was side-by-side with Brazil's Luis Carlos Flores, but a sudden burst gave him the victory by two bike lengths in four hours, 47 minutes, 55 seconds.

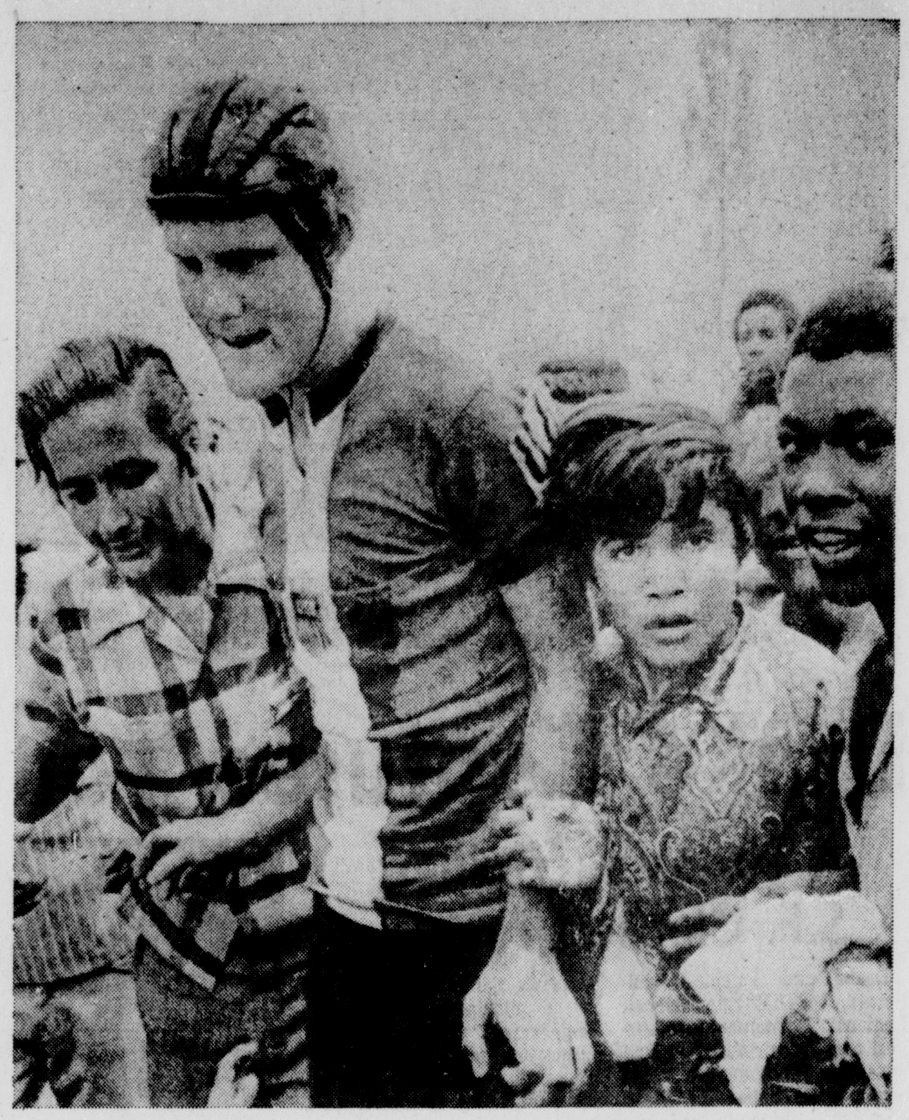

The United States had one other gold medal chance, but it was no surprise when it didn't come through.

The U.S. women's basketball team would have won the gold in its event if Cuba had defeated Brazil in the last game. But, after Cuba held the halftime lead, Brazil rallied to win 66-62 and take the championship. Earlier in the day the U.S. girls had kept their hopes alive by winning their last game over Ecuador, 54-35. The U.S. got the silver Medal.

Brazil also won the men's basketball title, beating Cuba, 63-62, in the last game.

Argentina won the gold medal in field hockey, and also in soccer. Argentina and Colombia played to a 0-0 tie in the last game, which gave the Colombia the Silver medal, leaving the Bronze to Cuba. The United States wound up in sixth place.

The one remaining event on the program is equestrian's grand prix of dressage, which will be conducted in Pascual Guerrero Stadium just before the final ceremonies. The United States is not represented in equestrian events here.

CYCLING SURPRISE — Columbian youth surround U.S. Army bicyclist John Howard, after he startled Pan American Games spectators in Cali, Columbia by out-sprinting a Brazilian to win the tough 196-kilometer road race yesterday. It was America's first cycling triumph. (UPI Telephoto)

Phils Drop L.A. 4 Behind Giants

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Claude Osteen has compiled a personal record that he doesn't care to contemplate.

The lefthander is a long suffering guy and the ace of the Dodger pitching staff and he doesn't like to complain but there was a note of weariness in his voice Thursday night.

Osteen pitched nine good innings against Philadelphia, giving up one run and that one was unearned because of an error by third baseman Steve Garvey. Osteen was not involved in the decision. He left with the score at 1-1.

The Phillies beat Los Angeles 3-1, in 13 innings, and Pete Mikkelsen took the loss.

"That was my 11th no decision," said Osteen with a certain disbelief. "I've never had this many no-decisions in one season in my life. This was the toughest one of all those games."

Osteen's record is 11-7. He has started 28 games, has pitched nine complete games and 199 1-3 innings. Whatever he gets, he's worth it. His earned run average is 3.25. In his last previous start on Aug. 7 he dropped a 3-2 decision to St. Louis in 10 innings.

The San Francisco Giants were idle Thursday and the Dodgers lost an opportunity to gain on them. Instead, they lost half a game and the margin of the division leading Giants is an even four games.

Manager Walt Alston was the imperturbable cracker-barrel philosopher after the loss to the Phils.

"That was the first game they've won here," he said. "I guess they were due. Osteen pitched well enough and we had enough chances to win."

A couple of disputed calls by umpires figured in the Thursday night game.

In the third inning, Joe Ferguson led off with a single and tried to go to third on Bobby Valentine's single to center but was called out on a close play. The throw to third was from Willie Montanez who figured in a sixth inning squabble.

In the sixth, Manny Mota singled off starter Chris Short but was erased on a fielder's choice that put Willie Davis on first. Davis stole second and raced home on Wes Parker's single to center. The next batter, Garvey, hit a fly to shallow center and Montanez, racing in, got his glove on the ball and fell down. Umpire David Davidson waved his hands vigorously to indicate the runner was safe which would have meant another run—by Parker. Montanez charged the ump, chest to chest, and Davidson consulted umpire Mel Steiner who said Montanez made a legitimate catch for the third out. Davidson confessed later he stumbled as he turned to look toward center and did not get a good view of the play.

The Phils kept alive with their unearned run in the eight. Montanez led off with a single—only the fourth hit off Osteen—and Garvey then muffed Roger Freed's high hopper. Osteen got the next two batters but Terry Harmon who had four hits singled to score Montanez from second.

Jim Brewer took over for Osteen in the 10th and gave way to Pete Mikkelsen after three innings. Mikkelsen did not have it. Harmon and Larry Bowa hit successive singles to start. They advanced on a sacrifice by Tim McCarver. Mikkelsen got Doyle on a grounder but Don Money bounced a single off Wills' glove and the ball went for a double. That did it. Harmon and Bowa scored to make it 3-1 and the Dodgers never came back.

NOVATO

Mososki's three-hit pitching with an eight run, nine hit attack featuring another Conte three bagger, netting two tallies. While Moroski was striking out nine without issuing a free pass, his teammates executed two double steals during a three-run sixth inning uprising.

The situation found Leslie and John Weston resting on first and third, respectively, compliments of a pair of singles. When the pair suddenly took off, the Phoenix pitcher wheeled to second base and was called for a balk. However, the umpire changed his mind and sent both runners back to their bases; they tried it again and made it.

While tucking the two wins under his belt, Simi commented later, "These were really clutch performances. Now if we win tonight and beat the winner of the Brawley-Mexicali game, we may be able to come back Sunday and take the whole thing by taking two. That would make for a nice ride back home.

Before any celebrations, Novato must pace Elko, 10-6 winners over Glendale last night.

Injured Jets Still Tough, Says Madden

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Oakland Raider coach John Madden is not one who believes the loss of Joe Namath has doomed the New York Jets. He still thinks his team will have work to do in a Saturday night exhibition contest against the Jets.

"Joe has been so much to them that some people think the Jets are Joe Namath," Madden said as he continued to run the Raiders through drills at the club's training camp. "But they're a very good football team behind Al Woodall, too. They have fine running backs and they're a very good defensive team."

Madden said Jets coach Weeb Ewbank has built a "solid team," with or without Namath.

The Raiders worked on their offense in their two-a-day drills Thursday. Madden also said he will give receiver Rod Sherman a trial at returning kickoffs.

KTIM Airs Novato Tilt Today

Radio Station KTIM will broadcast the Novato-Marysville Little League Divisional Tournament contest today at 5:30 p.m. at Campbell, near San Jose.

Novato manager Sheridan Moats will call on ace righthander Curt Sears to handle the pitching chores. In recent starts, observers lauded the strapping pitcher for lifting the ballclub with fine performances featuring high strikeout and low run allowance ratios.

Moats is counting on Sears to slip past Marysville, thus setting the stage for Ernie Galliani to climb the mound in quest of victory Saturday against either Cupertino American or Lincoln Glen. The two survivors clash for a trip to the Regional Tournament in San Bernardino next week. Williamsport, Pa., and the Little League World Series would be the ensuing step, providing Novato wins twice in Campbell and twice again in San Bernardino.

Regardless of the alternatives, Moats will probably go with: second baseman Phil Sorensen, rightfielder Mat Listman, shortstop Tim Wilson, Sears, leftfielder Galliani, first baseman Walt Kaurin, centerfielder Bob Haskell, third baseman Tom Carrigan and catcher Roy Olsen.

This lineup will be altered for tomorrow's contest, enabling Galliani, the 9-5 winner over Airport of Sacramento in last week's Section II finale, to perform the pitching duties.

If Novato is upended, the team would face its equally disappointed counterpart in a consolation match tomorrow at 11 a.m.

If Novato wins today, its championship game tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. also would be broadcast by KTIM.

Giants Seek New Pitcher

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

SAN FRANCISCO — The San Francisco Giants Thursday optioned righthanded pitcher Frank Reberger to their Phoenix farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

A spokesman for the team said the Giants were attempting to make a trade with another club to fill Reberger's spot on the roster.

Reberger began the season in the starting pitching rotation, but suffered several injuries and was used primarily in relief. He had a 3-0 record with a 3.89 earned run average in 13 games.

Basketball

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden State Warriors have placed two members of last season's National Basketball Association San Francisco Warriors on waivers.

The team said Thursday the players on waivers were Adrian Smith, a 10-year veteran who missed most of last season with a knee injury, and Levi Fontaine, a rookie last season. Both are guards.

The Warriors also announced the signings of Greg Gary, 6-3, of St. Bonaventure; Odis Allison, 6-6, Nevada-Las Vegas; Vic Bartolome, 7-0, Oregon State; and Ed Siudut, 6-8, Holy Cross.

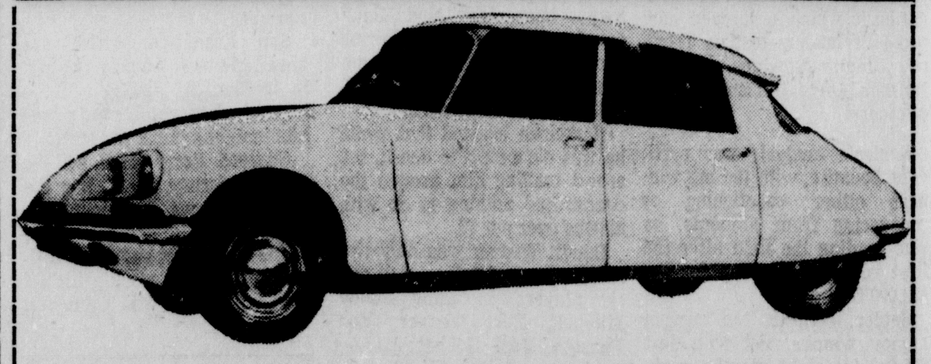

Gary was the Warriors fourth round draft choice this year, and Allison was chosen in the fifth round. Bartolome failed to make the team last season, and Siudut was a 1969 draft choice.

Tennis

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Raul Ramirez of Mexico, winner of the U.S. junior title last week, upset top-seeded Dick Stockton of Port Washington, N.Y., 6-3, 6-4, Thursday to reach the semi-finals of the U.S. Men's Amateur Grass Court championship. (Stockton is a former resident of San Rafael.)

Local Clubs Produce Fair Number Of Bucks

By AL GIDDINGS

The recent hot weather made this buck hunting almost a casual affair, up to now, but the prevailing cool weather may change this. I've checked and heard about a fair number of bucks taken by the local clubs.

One hunter named Barry McDonald from out Pierce Point way, west of Inverness, bagged a nice forked horn this week. Barry is 12, and I don't think I've ever seen a happier kid. A nice clean neck shot, so he's the ranch hero this week.

Chuck Dami of Corte Madera, hunting on Bob Marshall's Laguna Ranch, nailed a real trophy axis buck. It was estimated to weigh about 175 pounds.

Over on Al Grossi's ranch, also near Inverness, Al's daughters, Dolores and Alfrieda, put on their own hunt. They took Dolores' husband, Danny Evans, and ol' Buzz McCray along just for kicks. Dolores, who is a deadeye, got the biggest buck of the day; they took three. Danny, not to be outdone by his sharpshooting wife, had the tag switched from hers to his. Now, he claims, the tags on the horns show who got the biggest buck. They were both forked horns!

Also heard that Waldo Giacomini of Point Reyes Station got a buck the first day! Can you beat that? But that's another story! Tagged it too — all legal-like, they say!

YOU KNOW who just called me? Bud Stocking! That lucky so-and-so announced that he was drawn for the antelope hunt along with his son Pat. They had entered their names together and were just notified that they were drawn as a team. This is only the second time he has applied.

MY FAMILY, all avid hunters, and I have given the bucks a go a few times, but not a horn have we seen.

DON'T DO this! The other evening on a patrol ride, in the Salmon Creek area, I rounded a turn, and here were two hunters in the back of a red pickup truck, holding rifles, and scanning the hills. As they were moving very slowly, I passed them, motioning the driver to the side of the road. Both men in the rear of the truck then attempted to unload their guns. Every time they extracted one shell, naturally another was then ejected from the magazine into the chamber. These guns were actually ready to shoot! Think about this: Sitting in the back of a truck and in a panic trying to unload guns. The guns were pointing forward all this time toward the driver and the passenger. The guns didn't go off, but in the excitement certainly could have. Both men were cited. They were from another county and in a red truck! I tell you! Nothing like advertising!

THE DOVE and pigeon seasons were adopted this past week. Dove season opens Sept. 1 and continues through Sept. 30, then it reopens statewide again Nov. 27 through Dec. 12. The commission set a dove limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession after the opening eay. The bandtail pigeon limit was set at 8 per day, 8 in possession. The pigeon season runs Oct. 2 through Oct. 31 in the counties of Butte, Del Norte, Glenn, Humboldt, Lassen, Mendocino, Modoc, Plumas, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Tehama and Trinity. Season for the balance of the state is Dec. 11 through Jan. 9, 1972.

Shooting hours for both doves and pigeons will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

IN A SEPARATE action, the Fish and Game Commission denied a permit to the A.B.S. Fishing Co. of San Francisco to harvest herring eggs in Tomales Bay.

IN PASSING Nick's Cove area at Tomales Bay this past week, the sign in Nick's Tavern out that way states that Pete Gossage of Petaluma is leading this year's salmon derby of that area with a 40 pounder! Some big salmon have sure been nailed this year at the bar and the Bird Rock area there.

THE STRIPER fishing has slowed somewhat with the low minus morning tides over for the rest of this week. Try the evening fishing at the Richmond Bridge or The Brothers, then starting about Aug. 19, the morning tides will be right again.

PRO FOOTBALL WEEKEND

Tarkenton, Giants Come To Terms

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The New York Giants could well have had a revolving door at the entrance to their training camp Thursday.

First, Fran Tarkenton, the veteran quarterback who left the Giants in Houston Monday before their exhibition loss to the Oilers, arrived for a meeting with owner Wellington Mara. Tarkenton, who left in a contract dispute, left with a $125,000 agreement for this season, the same offer made to him before he walked out.

Next, Ron Johnson, the first 1,000-yard rusher in the club's history, agreed to a two-year contract for an undisclosed amount. Johnson had reported late to camp after demanding an $80,000 contract.

The next step had offensive tackle Rich Buzin, a three-year veteran, heading to Los Angeles in exchange for Joe Taffoni, a tackle who had been dealt to the Rams a week ago after a squabble with Cleveland.

"Both Wellington and I are very happy with the signing," said Tarkenton. "I'm sorry for what I did. I think it was a hasty move on my part. Now my only desire is to play with the Giants. I've been happier here than any place I've ever been.

In other player moves Thursday, the Buffalo Bills asked waivers on defensive back Ricky Stevenson, purchased conditionally from Cleveland Monday, and the St. Louis Cardinals dropped Barry Brown, a veteran linebacker and tight end.

The long weekend pre-season sechedule kicks off tonight with Cleveland at Los Angeles and Miami playing host to San Francisco. In Saturday action, New York (AFC) is at Oakland, Chicago plays at Baltimore, Cincinnati at Detroit, Houston at St. Louis, Atlanta at Kansas City, Pittsburgh at Green Bay, New Orleans at Dallas, Washington at Denver and Minnesota at San Diego.

Readership of the I-J is what makes the big difference . . . brings you immediate sales

The I-J is the major news medium in Marin County . . . read in more than 2/3 of all Marin County homes.

This is what makes it the major ADVERTISING medium. Because people want the I-J enough to pay for it. The I-J has become part of living . . . the home newspaper with news that is essential to living here.

This is why YOUR advertising in the I-J reaps you solid rewards. Your message is in a medium which is not a throwaway, not a piece of unsolicited direct mail addressed to "occupant." Rather it is read because it is in the best-read medium in Marin County.

For example: 82% of all readers will turn to the page carrying your ad. And because newspaper readers don't want to miss anything, they read the I-J cover to cover.

The point is simple: people look forward to advertising in the I-J. They read it, discuss it, often clip the ads as a buying reminder. For the I-J is the marketplace, the big showroom daily for everything on sale in Marin. If you want more business, this is the place to get it.

559 LOBBYISTS

Bills Run Gamut Of 'Advocates'

By Capitol News Service

SACRAMENTO — There's a little red book — a pamphlet, really — that no newcomer to the Sacramento political scene should be without. It is called, simply, "Legislative Advocates and Organization."

In other words, a guide to the state capitol's lobbyists and lobbies, published annually (plus revisions) by the legislature's Joint Committee on Rules.

California has a bicameral legislature. There is a 40-seat senate and an assembly just twice that size.

The 120 elected legislators are outnumbered by better than four to one by the state's 559 lobbyists, representing 709 organizations, who, collectively, are familiarly referred to as "the third house."

A lobbyist is any person who, as a business, seeks to influence the passage or defeat of proposed legislation. The manner in which lobbyists can operate is fairly closely governed.

Not bound by state regulations are several types of people who come close to being lobbyists. These include private citizens who appear as individuals to testify on proposed legislation, those who lobby as amateurs, persons representing churches on doctrinal matters, and all state officials as well as all elected non-state public officials.

According to one close observer of lobbying in Sacramento, lobbyists who are public officials equal about 50 per cent of the registered lobbyists.

Lobbyists must register anew following each general legislative session, and the questions they must answer in order to register are at least as searching as those asked by a suspicious Internal Revenue agent.

As a matter of fact, the lobbyist's best tool is information. He assembles, for interested senators and assemblymen, whole libraries, if need be, on subjects of vital (i.e. legislative) interest to legislators. On almost any given issue, legislators will be presented with plenty of lobbyists' arguments both pro and con.

Lobbyists also appear before legislative committees, repeating their arguments in full view of the public (if the public, or at least some members thereof, are interested enough to attend).

Wine, women and money? A modern-day lobbyist who thought of offering a bribe would face possible misdemeanor or felony penalties if he did.

Not all lobbyists, be assured, are middle-aged Caucasian males. There are 32 women registered, with two of the women a Negro and one of east Asian extraction. There are also a single male Negro and two male American Indians.

All these lobbyists represent such diverse interests as district attorneys, refuse collectors, fish canners, labor unions, taxpayers, ecologists, ethnic minorities, barbers, and even wig manufacturers — to select a random few.

Perhaps there would be no need for lobbyists if every citizen took the trouble to help legislators on all issues in which the citizen happened to have an interest. Unfortunately, too few citizens do.

In the meantime, lobbyists professionally represent those groups — a lot of them made up of "little people" who at least take an active interest in legislation.

Innocent Plea To Armed Robbery

Lee Alan Bramson, 22, of Sleepy Hollow, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a felony charge of armed robbery.

He is to return to court Monday to have a trial date set.

Museum Sponsoring Desert Field Trip

The Louise A. Boyd Marin Museum of Science in San Rafael is sponsoring a five-day field trip to the high Nevada desert beginning Aug. 30, according to Gayle Rojas, director of education.

Boys and girls 10 years of age and older may sign up now for the trip by calling the museum. Areas to be explored include Old Fort Churchill, Virginia City and the Carson River and Topaz Lake regions.

Judge To Rule On Magee

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A judge from remote Sierra County was named Thursday to determine if Superior Court Judge Richard Arnason is prejudiced against Ruchell Magee, a San Quentin convict charged in last year's Marin County courthouse shootout.

Magee, 32, charged along with black militant Angela Davis with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the gun battle that left four men dead, has challenged Arnason for prejudice and alleged racism.

Arnason, of suburban Contra Costa County, was assigned to hear the case before Magee's trial was separated from that of Miss Davis.

Chief Justice Donald Wright of the California Supreme Court appointed Judge John F. Keane of Downieville to rule on the motions to disqualify Judge Arnason. Magee used his only peremptory challenge to remove an earlier judge in the case.

Innocent Plea To Felony Assault

Kenneth Paul Botai, 22, of San Anselmo, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to two felony counts of assault with a deadly weapon.

Heart Recipient: Doctors Satisfied

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—A Rochester, N.Y., elementary school teacher was in satisfactory condition today three days after receiving a new heart.

Donald E. Wanjon, 47, was given the heart in Stanford University's 33rd transplant operation Tuesday night. There are 12 other living Stanford heart recipients.

Youth Booked In Church Burglary

A 16-year-old Daly City boy has been booked into Marin Juvenile Hall in connection with a burglary at Blessed Sacrament Church, 160 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

Marin County sheriff's deputies said yesterday Adam Norman Pali was booked on suspicion of possessing stolen property shortly after the burglary Monday when he was seen wearing an altar boy robe similar to several that had been stolen from the church's storage room.

An $800 sound amplifier was also taken, deputies said.

Other suspects in the crime are under investigation, deputies said.
